 National Environmental Policies Martin Jänicke, Helmut Weidner, 2012-12-06 This book is a collection of systematically prepared case studies describing the environmental policy of thirteen countries in terms of capacity building Capacity for environmental policy and management as the concept is used in this volume has been defined broadly as a society s ability to devise and implement solutions to environmental issues as part of a wider effort to achieve sustainable development OECD Since the late 1960s capacity building in environmental policy and management can be observed across the world It may have made insufficient progress as yet from an environmentalist point of view but it has produced some remarkable results and not only in the industrialised world In the first chapter we present the conceptual framework that underlies the national case studies In the course of our research project the authors of the book met together twice to discuss this framework in the light of the national experiences and to harmonise their approaches In this way we have tried to offer more than a collection of individual and incoherent case studies focusing only on specific environmental problems institutions actors or instruments

The idea behind this book is to give a systematic comparative overview of the fundamental conditions under which environmental policies is practised in selected countries On Wisconsin! Don Kopriva, Jim Mott, 2000-08 These unique
