Art And Society In Africa:

Art and Society in Africa Robert Brain,1980 Role of the Artist in Society Ralf G. Will,2011-12-15 This unique interview book stems from the days when South Africa's notorious Apartheid regime collapsed. It was written in January of 1988 and I present the talks as they were recorded then. It brought me straight into the heart of the cultural resistance while simultaneously revising anthropological research too. I looked at the contribution the Arts could play in terminating racial segregation and asked respondents if they would use their creative activity in this regard rather than practicing Art for Arts sake. The book includes a detailed bibliography, a comprehensive set of footnotes, and a black and white photo of respondents.

A Companion to Modern African Art Gitti Salami, Monica Blackmun Visona, 2013-12-24 Offering a wealth of perspectives on African modern and Modernist art from the mid nineteenth century to the present, this new Companion features essays by African, European, and North American authors who assess the work of individual artists as well as exploring broader themes such as discoveries of new technologies and globalization. A pioneering continent-based assessment of modern art and modernity across Africa. Includes original and previously unpublished fieldwork-based material. Features new and complex theoretical arguments about the nature of modernity and Modernism. Addresses a widely acknowledged gap in the literature on African Art.

Black Africa and the US Art World in the Early 20th Century P. A. Mullins, 2024-01-09 This book will explore several critical connections between Black African objects and white Western aesthetics and artwork in the United States from the late 1800s until 1939. Drawing from primary source materials and various scholarship in the field (philosophy, history, sociology, anthropology, museum studies, art history, cultural studies), the book provides an analysis of the threads of white supremacy which run through early scholarship and understandings of Black African objects within the United States and how scholars use the objects to reinforce narratives of primitive Black Africa and civilized advanced white Europe and the United States.

Arts Management, Cultural Policy, & the African Diaspora Antonio C. Cuyler, 2022-06-15 This book centers people of African descent as cultural leaders to challenge the myth that they do not know how or care about managing and preserving their culture. Arts Management, Cultural Policy, the African Diaspora also presents comparative case studies of the challenges, differences, similarities, and successes in approaches to cultural leadership across multiple cultural contexts throughout the diaspora. This volume disrupts the enduring and systemic global marginalization, oppression, and subjugation that threatens and undermines people of African descent's cultural contributions to humanity. The most important distinguishing feature of the volume is its geographical use of the African diaspora to explore the subjects of arts management and cultural policy, which to date no volume has done before. Furthermore, the volume's comparative examination of ten critical historical, practical, and theoretical questions makes it a significant contribution to the literatures in Arts Management, Cultural Policy, Cultural Africa, African American, and Ethnic studies.

New Spaces for Negotiating Art (and) Histories in Africa Kerstin Pinther, Berit Fischer, Ugochukwu-Smooth C. Nzewi, 2015 In the 1990s a new wave of globalization changed the field of cultural production in many African countries and paved the way for major new cultural events In particular during the last two decades an ever growing series of art and cultural centers were and still are being established often against the background of broader national art histories and the historic prominence of the state as the primary patron of the arts In considering the historical genealogy of these new spaces this book examines the infrastructures and public spaces they create the theoretical discourses they tap into and explore the aesthetic and cultural political debates they stir the role they play in the field of cultural institutions and cultural activism and their relations with state and municipal institutions Series African Art and Visual Cultures Vol 2 Subject African Studies

Cultural Studies Art The Subversive Imagination Carol Becker, 2014-02-04 In The Subversive Imagination professional writers, artists, and cultural critics from around the world offer their views on the issue of the artist's responsibility to society. The contributors look beyond censorship and free speech issues and instead emphasize the subject of freedom. More specifically, the contributors question the ethical mutual responsibilities between artists and the societies in which they live. The original essays address an eclectic range of subjects: censorship, multiculturalism, the transition from communism to capitalism in Eastern Europe, postmodernism, Salman Rushdie, and young black filmmakers' responsibility to the black community. Journal of the Society of Arts, 1878 An Anthology of African Art N'Goné Fall, Jean-Loup Pivin, 2002 The term Modern African Art is not an abuse of language. The 20th century has seen but not properly documented the birth, development, and maturation of contemporary art in sub-Saharan Africa, an art which was not simply imported in the 1950s but which finds its sources both in colonial realities and in local cultures and civilizations. Anthology of African Art: The Twentieth Century does not propose to document any one African art but rather to open up this vast but underexplored field to include a diverse theoretical, historical, geographical, and critical map of this dense and ancient region. Contributions by more than 30 international authors recount the birth of art schools in the 1930s, the development of urban design and public art, and the importance of socially concerned art during the Independence movements. From Ethiopia, Nigeria, and the Belgian Congo to Ghana, Senegal, and Angola, through the works of hundreds of artists working in every conceivable medium and context, this anthology manages the continental and unique feat of providing a thorough, expansive, diversified, and fully illustrated history of African art in the 20th century. Since 1991, Paris-based Revue Noire Editions has dedicated itself to the multidisciplinary artistic production of the African continent and the African diaspora. Publishers of the critically acclaimed An Anthology of African Photography, a comprehensive chronicle of African photography from the mid-1800s to the present, Revue Noire also produces a self-titled magazine devoted to contemporary African art and culture. African Art and Agency in the Workshop Sidney Littlefield Kasfir, Till Förster, 2013 The role of the workshop in the creation of African art is the subject of this revelatory book. In the group setting of the workshop, innovation and imitation collide; artists share ideas and techniques, and creative expression flourishes. African Art and Agency in the Workshop examines the variety of workshops from those which are politically driven or tourist-oriented to those based on historical patronage or allied to current artistic trends. Fifteen lively essays explore the impact of the workshop on the production of artists such as Zimbabwean stone sculptors, master potters from Cameroon, wood carvers from Nigeria, and others from across the continent. Journal of the Society of Arts Royal Society of Arts (Great Britain), 1875 African Art Alexandre Marc, 1998-01-01 African artistic expression has helped to construct culture, form social identity, and support spiritual communication. The choice of the World Bank's African collection for a catalogue stems from the recognition by many art experts that the Bank is home to a rich and valuable collection that deserves to be better known by staff representatives from member countries and the public at large.
