Women Archaeologists under Communism, 1917-1989 Florin Curta, Iurie Stamati, 2021-11-27 This book explores the uncharted territory of the history of archaeology under Communism through the biographies of five women archaeologists from the Soviet Union Bulgaria Romania Hungary and Poland They were working in medieval archaeology with a specific focus on the early Slavs The choice of specialists in medieval archaeology has much to do with the fact that in the five East European countries considered in this book medieval archaeology began to develop into a serious discipline less than a century ago The main catalyst for the sudden rise of medieval archaeology was a dramatic shift in emphasis from traditional political and constitutional to social and economic history In five countries the rise of medieval archaeology thus coincides in time and was ultimately caused by the imposition of Communist regimes The five women were therefore true pioneers in their field and respective countries

Bulletin of the Asia Institute ,2003     Slavs in the Making Florin Curta,2020-09-28 Slavs in the Making takes a fresh look at archaeological evidence from parts of Slavic speaking Europe north of the Lower Danube including the present day territories of the Czech Republic Slovakia Poland Belarus Ukraine and Russia Nothing is known about what the inhabitants of those remote lands called themselves during the sixth century or whether they spoke a Slavic language The book engages critically with the archaeological evidence from these regions and questions its association with the Slavs that has often been taken for granted It also deals with the linguistic evidence primarily names of rivers and other bodies of water that has been used to identify the primordial homeland of the Slavs and from which their migration towards the Lower Danube is believed to have started It is precisely in this area that sociolinguistics can offer a serious alternative to the language tree model currently favoured in linguistic paleontology The question of how best to explain the spread of Slavic remains a controversial issue This book attempts to provide an answer and not just a critique of the method of linguistic paleontology upon which the theory of the Slavic migration and homeland relies The book proposes a model of interpretation that builds upon the idea that Common Slavic cannot possibly be the result of Slavic migration It addresses the question of migration in the archaeology of early medieval Eastern Europe and makes a strong case for a more nuanced interpretation of the archaeological evidence of mobility It will appeal to scholars and students interested in medieval history migration and the history of Eastern and Central Europe     The Northern Black Sea in Antiquity Valeriya Kozlovskaya,2017-07-03 The Northern Black Sea region despite its distance from the centers of classical civilizations played an integral role in the socioeconomic life of the ancient Greco Roman world The chapters in this book written by experts on the region explore topics such as the trade religion political culture art and architecture and the local non Greek populations from the foundation of the first Greek colonies on the North Pontic shores at the end of the seventh and sixth century BCE through the first centuries of the Roman imperial period This volume closely examines relevant categories of archaeological material including amphorae architectural remains funerary and dedicatory monuments inscriptions and burial complexes Geographically it encompasses the coastal territories of modern Russia and Ukraine The Northern Black Sea in Antiquity embraces an inclusive and comparative approach while discussing new archaeological evidence offering fresh insights into familiar questions and presenting original interpretations of well known artifacts
