Friedman, Ellin Kofsky Scholnick, 2014-02-25 Planning is defined as formulating an organized method for action in advance Although people do not plan all the time and planning does not occur in every situation planning skill is central to all human behavior There are developmental differences in planning skill and in the motivation to plan Even among adults variations in the engagement in the planning process are affected by individual attitudes beliefs and goals Planning also has a different meaning at various junctures in one s life Yet despite the amount of research on planning many of the studies have focused only on the cognitive processes that enable mature individuals to plan A continued exploration of the developmental course of planning this text attempts to situate cognitive aspects of planning in the context of the social and cultural environment and other psychological processes Bringing together the contributions of developmental organizational and social psychologists it explains how when and why we plan Finally it addresses various issues that pertain to the different aspects of planning from formal problem solving to handling the demands of everyday life

The Self in the Family Luciano L'Abate, 1997-01-07 In his acclaimed book A Theory of Personality Development Luciano L Abate introduced a revolutionary theory of personality development and functioning that departed radically from traditional theories In place of hypothetical traits existing in an empirical vacuum Dr L Abate offered an image of observable interpersonal competencies functioning within the basic contexts of home work leisure and the marketplace Central to his theory was a developmental model that posited the family as the primordial setting in which propensities are formed and behavior patterns set By defining personality in terms of the growth and interplay of interpersonal competencies the L Abate theory provided an epistemologically and empirically sound basis for understanding personality function and dysfunction as corollaries and extensions of one another In The Self in the Family Luciano L Abate and Margaret Baggett again break new ground by expanding the L Abate theory of personality development to encompass criminal and psychopathological behavior Drawing upon mounting empirical evidence that the family paradigm is the major determinant of personality socialization throughout the life span the authors develop a selfhood model with demonstrable links between the three domains of personality function criminality and psychopathology With the help of the model they show how it is now possible to arrive at a personality based interpretation of most deviant behaviors including criminality psychopathology addictions and even psychosomatic illnesses and they describe various preventive and psychotherapeutic applications for this expanded theory of family based personality development The authors further elaborate on the theories developed in Dr L Abate s previous books by introducing the core concepts of hurt the basic feeling underlying much of personality functioning and dysfunctioning and a continuum of likeness the fundamental determinant of interpersonal choices and behavior in friendships parent child relations and marital relations Offering an empirically rigorous developmentally based unified field theory of personality function criminality and psychopathology The Self in the Family is essential reading for developmental and clinical psychologists family therapists personality theorists and criminality and psychopathology researchers
