Arms And The Women:

Arms and the Women Reginald Hill, 2000 Luminously written thrilling unexpectedly erudite and beautifully structured Geoffrey Wansell Daily Mail Arms And The Enlisted Woman Judith Stiehm, 1989-12-04 This book is about America's most unknown soldiers enlisted women in the Army Air Force Navy and Marines Focusing on the decade from 1972 to 1982 Judith Stiehm uses personal narratives interviews policy statements and other material to explore the experience of American women in the military their reasons for enlisting their roles their self image and the way they are viewed by civilians Although there are now more than 200 000 women in uniform Stiehm asks why the policies concerning enlisted women so often appear to fly in the face of both logic and evidence Her analysis of the effects of change in military policy on women of different ranks and ages reveals how certain functional myths e g war is manly are challenged by the presence of women The result has been an uneasy accommodation Arms and the Enlisted Woman includes a vivid first person account by a female veteran of one woman's experience in the Air Force Honorably discharged as a Staff Sergeant after six years of working as an airplane mechanic this woman describes the struggle to be taken seriously and treated equally and to excel in a non traditional field She also relates the joys of seeing a job well done and being part of a cohesive team Her mixed reaction to her military career epitomizes the difficulty with which enlisted women have been assimilated Stiehm also analyzes the rapidly shifting military policies concerning women as well as the reasons for certain erroneous but persistent beliefs about them and remarks One thing seems to be certain To the professional military the enlisted woman is a raw nerve Arms and the Women Reginald Hill, 2015 The Politics of Women and War Pasquale De Marco, 2025-05-21 In a world grappling with conflict insecurity and inequality this groundbreaking book offers a comprehensive examination of the gendered dimensions of international politics and global affairs Moving beyond traditional narratives dominated by male perspectives it sheds light on the crucial role that women play in shaping our world Through a multidisciplinary lens this book explores the historical and contemporary realities of women's involvement in armed conflicts their experiences of violence and displacement and their contributions to peacebuilding and reconciliation efforts It delves into the gendered dynamics of the global arms trade the military industrial complex and the nuclear weapons industry exposing the ways in which these structures perpetuate inequality and insecurity Furthermore this book investigates the intersectionality of gender with other forms of identity and oppression such as race class and ethnicity It examines how these intersecting identities shape women's experiences of war peace and security and how they influence their agency and ability to participate in decision making processes By centering the experiences of women from diverse backgrounds this book provides a more inclusive and comprehensive understanding of international relations Moreover the book highlights the critical role that women have played in promoting peace security and sustainable development It showcases the leadership and activism of women in peace movements their contributions to post conflict reconstruction and their advocacy for disarmament and nuclear non proliferation It also examines the ways in which women s perspectives and priorities have shaped international agreements and policies on issues such as climate change economic development and global health This book is a powerful call for a transformation of the global order one that recognizes and values the contributions of women and ensures their full and equal participation in decision making processes at all levels It challenges traditional power structures and advocates for a more just and equitable world where women s voices are heard and their agency is realized Ultimately this book is a testament to the resilience strength and agency of women in the face of adversity It is a comprehensive resource for scholars policymakers activists and anyone seeking a deeper understanding of the gendered dimensions of international politics If you like this book write a review on google books evidence that tree survival rates and tree health are weakly lower in intervention households compared to control households who spontaneously planted trees Some positive effects on equitable intrahousehold decision making and task sharing are observed especially in the couples training arm but in general there is no robust evidence that either intervention significantly shifted intrahousehold gender dynamics Women's Health ,2006-04 Womens Health magazine speaks to
