, Analysing Historical Mathematics Textbooks Gert Schubring,2023-01-04 This book is about the creation and production of textbooks for learning and teaching mathematics It covers a period from Antiquity to Modern Times The analysis begins by assessing principal cultures with a practice of mathematics The tension between the role of the teacher and his oral mode on the one hand and the use of a written printed text in their respective relation with the student is one of the dimensions of the comparative analysis conceived of as the textbook triangle The changes in this tension with the introduction of the printing press are discussed The book presents various national case studies France Germany Italy as well as analyses of the internationalisation of textbooks via transmission processes As this topic has not been sufficiently explored in the literature it will be very well received by scholars of mathematics education mathematics teacher educators and anyone with an interest in the field

Mezzi di scambio non monetari. Merci e servizi come monete alternative nelle economie dei secoli XIII-XVIII / Alternative currencies. Commodities and services as exchange currencies in the monetarized economies of the 13th to 18th centuries Angela Orlandi,2024-05-08 The volume focuses on the importance and placement of alternative exchange practices in the 13th to 18th centuries specifically examining goods and services used as means of payment in barter or in kind transactions Despite monetary theory emphasizing credit and real currency coins or paper money did not prevent in kind transactions Barter isn't merely a result of a lack of money but rather an economic choice with diverse reasons meanings and consequences found in both rural and urban areas These alternative exchange methods go beyond mere stopgaps and impact all economic activities from production to consumption

Are Statistics Only Made of Data? Éric Brian,2024-03-12 This book examines several epistemological regimes in studies of numerical data over the last four centuries It distinguishes these regimes and mobilises questions present in the philosophy of science sociology and historical works throughout the 20th century Attention is given to the skills of scholars and their methods their assumptions and the socio historical conditions that made calculations and their interpretations possible In doing so questions posed as early as mile Durkheim's and Ernst Cassirer's ones are revisited and the concept of symbolic form is put to the test in this particular survey conducted over long period of time Although distinct from a methodological and epistemological point of view today these regimes may be found together in the toolbox of statisticians and those who comment on their conclusions As such the book is addressed to social scientists and historians and all those who are interested in numerical productions
