

We are dreaming of tomorrow, and tomorrow isn't coming; we are dreaming of a glory that we don't really want. We are dreaming of a new day when the new day's here already. We are running from the battle when it's one that must be fought.

The Third Book - a Book of Poems, Mostly Don Edwards, 2020-02-17 In poet Don Edwards's third collection The Third Book he uses mainly free verse with exceptions including sonnets and rhyming stanzas These are his life views realized in poetry Every word recalls his outlook and how to approach the world around us Early on Edwards saw life as an opportunity to create his own memories and destiny He sees no problem with loneliness as life alone is better than no life at all especially if we live to the fullest However there are boundaries As much as we hope to live in complete freedom we are often hindered by what we are allowed and directed to do Still we must dance on Your destiny is yours to live so make the best of it Catalog of Copyright Entries, 1943

Tomorrow's Child Rubem A. Alves, 2011-05-01 All theories of social change says Alves rest squarely on the economic and structural forces operative in society at any given moment in history Thus many of the proposals offered by today's futurologists fall considerably short of social revolution They are in effect extrapolations from the functional matrix of our society Like the dinosaurs who disappeared not because they were too weak but because they were too strong our civilization is motivated less by the desire for internal growth and existential relevance than it is by blind outward expansion We are determined by a triangle of interlocking systems each deriving and giving life to the others the power of the sword the power of money and the power of science In this context to be a realist is to accept the rules of the game laid down by the power lords of our rational society whose goals are war production and consumption But the utopian mentality argues Alves wants to create a qualitatively new order in which economy must abandon the goal of infinite growth The only way out then is to abort realism from the body politic and impregnate it with the power of the imagination This book clears away the debris of realism and lays the groundwork for a constructive theory of creative imagination moving us toward new forms of social organization where the community of faith can be found
