

The background image shows three women in a dimly lit room. The woman in the center is wearing a black, shiny, form-fitting dress and has her hair styled in a high, dark bun. She is looking directly at the camera. To her left, another woman is partially visible, wearing a black dress and looking slightly away. To the right, a third woman is visible, wearing a black dress and has her hair styled in a high, blonde bun. She is also looking towards the camera. The room has a vintage feel, with a large, ornate yellow wheel on the wall to the left and a wooden cabinet or wall paneling in the background. The lighting is moody, with a strong pinkish-red neon glow emanating from behind the women, creating a silhouette effect and highlighting their features. The overall atmosphere is sensual and mysterious.

Gay Men Pursuing Parenthood through Surrogacy Dean A. Murphy, 2015-07-01 Dean Murphy analyses how relatedness is enacted in the context of gay men pursuing parenthood and a child of one's own through both domestic and transnational surrogacy arrangements Drawing on data collected from in depth interviews with gay men living in Australia and the United States and news media the book explores how gay men enact parenthood and family life in ways that both challenge and reinforce dominant notions of kinship and masculinity These men represent an important first generation to access assisted reproductive technologies for this purpose and are part of an increasing proportion of gay men becoming parents outside a previous heterosexual relationship The findings demonstrate that men come to experience parenthood desire largely because of the new narratives and opportunities being made available to them today is to describe or interpret dreams or explain what they actually are To attempt to articulate a dream is to realize how inadequate our words are to describe the experience Dreams are beyond words consisting of much more than what we can say about them In Dreamtelling Pierre Sorlin does not deal with our nocturnal visions per se but rather with what we say regarding them He explores the influence of dreams on our imaginations and the various sometimes inconsistent always imperfect theories people have contrived to elucidate them Sorlin shows how our accounts are built on recurrent patterns but are also totally and entirely individual He examines the urge to analyze night visions and why it is that some people have become experts in dream interpretation Many books have been published on the nature of dreams on their psychological or biological origins and on their significance but this book takes as its premise that all we can allege about nocturnal visions is based on dreamtelling Sorlin shows how dreams arouse our creativity and how in turn our creativity influences our dream accounts Dreamtelling is aimed at all those who not only dream but are curious about the experience and wonder why they feel compelled to analyze and recount their night visions
