

Drug Addiction and Treatment Careers Among Clients in the Drug Abuse Treatment Outcome Study (DATOS)

M. Douglas Anglin, Yih-Ing Hser, and Christine E. Grella
University of California, Los Angeles

Considerable heterogeneity in patterns of addiction and treatment career histories was observed among the 10,010 clients participating in the Drug Abuse Treatment Outcome Study (DATOS). For half of the clients, DATOS was their first treatment episode; for the other half, their mean number of prior treatment episodes was 3.5. Type of treatment and cumulative length of treatment exposure reflected the interaction of clients' drug use patterns and the historical availability of different treatment approaches. Regression analyses showed that a higher level of prior treatment use was associated with more severe addiction career characteristics, injection drug use, and criminal activities. Effective and cost-effective approaches to treatment need to include more strategic interventions that consider clients' diverse treatment histories.

The past 20 years have witnessed a dramatic change in the characteristics of individuals entering drug treatment programs and in the patterns of their drug use. The Drug Abuse Treatment Outcome Study (DATOS), funded by the National Institute on Drug Abuse, provides an opportunity to examine variations in drug use and treatment use over the "careers" of individuals entering drug abuse treatment in the 1990s (see Hubbard, Craddock, Flynn, Anderson, & Etheridge, 1997, and Flynn, Craddock, Hubbard, Anderson, & Etheridge, 1997, for a detailed exposition of DATOS). A career perspective assesses the dynamic patterns of drug abuse and its treatment over time (see Hser, Anglin, Grella, Longshore, & Prendergast, 1997, for a review of relevant literature). Previous research has established that initiation of drug use, drug use patterns, criminal activity, and treatment use vary by gender, ethnicity, age, and other factors (Anglin, Hser, & Booth, 1987; Anglin, Hser, & McGlothlin, 1987; Hser, Anglin, & Booth, 1987; Hser, Anglin, & McGlothlin, 1987; Maddux & Desmond, 1981; Narco, Balter, & Kinlock, 1994; Simpson, Joe, & Lehman, 1986; Stephens, 1991). Moreover, a treatment career approach can identify the factors associated with the continuation or cessation of drug use (Hser, Yamaguchi, Chen, & Anglin, 1995), with long-term morbidity and mortality (Hser, Anglin, & Powers, 1993; Hser, McCarthy, & Anglin, 1994), and with patterns of criminal behavior, employment, and family status over time (Anglin & Hser, 1991; Anglin, Speckart, Booth, & Ryan, 1989; McGlothlin & Anglin, 1981; McGlothlin, Anglin, & Wilson, 1977).

also out drink anyone in her group of social elites When her father became penniless she was forced into work landed a lucrative public relations position and a decade later was destitute because of her drinking She was committed to a psychiatric center in 1938 a time when the term alcoholism was virtually unknown the only known treatment was drying out and two men were compiling the book Alcoholics Anonymous Marty read it on the recommendation of psychiatrist Dr Harry Tiebout it was her first step toward sobriety and a long illustrious career as founder of the National Council on Alcoholism or NCA In the early 1950s journalist Edward R Murrow selected Marty as one of the 10 greatest living Americans Marty died of a stroke in 1980 shortly after addressing the AA international convention in New Orleans This is a story of one woman s indefatigable effort and indomitable spirit compellingly told by Sally and David Brown

Drug and Alcohol Treatment Services Among Privately Insured Individuals in Managed Behavioral Health Care Bradley D. Stein, 2003 Drug and alcohol problems are a significant public health issue affecting millions of Americans Many of these individuals are privately insured Private insurance coverage for substance abuse SA disorders has improved recently but coverage for SA disorders remains more restricted than for other behavioral health disorders Behavioral health benefit management has also been changing dramatically today most privately insured individuals have their behavioral health care benefits managed separately e g carved out from their other medical benefits The primary goal of this dissertation is to use existing data to contribute to the empirical information available to assist decision makers in understanding the effect of these rapid changes in the private insurance marketplace on SA treatment services The impact of cost sharing and different approaches to behavioral health benefit management on SA treatment service utilization was examined using two separate administrative data sets Several analyses were conducted to examine the effects of cost sharing across different types of SA treatment services A separate analysis examined how utilization and costs are affected by the management of behavioral health benefits by a carve out compared to an HMO

Addiction as an Attachment Disorder Philip J. Flores, 2004-08-06 This work shows how to give substance abusers an attachment experience and a sense of community where they feel they are accepted and belong Therapy directed along the lines described allows the person to get close to others who are accepting of him without a cost to his identity and autonomy

Blowing Smoke Michael J. Reznicek, 2012-02-16 Alcohol opiates cocaine and marijuana among other drugs have been used and abused for millennia Prior to the disease model approach to drug addiction which posits that addiction is a psychological and biological problem and that sufferers are victims societies had a workable solution let people consume what they want and let informal cultural controls reinforce responsible behavior Legal sanctions were reserved for any use that affected the safety of others Blowing Smoke proposes an approach to the war on drugs that returns us to the pre disease model era Dr Reznicek asserts that addiction is not a medical problem to be treated in rehab or by prohibiting substance use Rather he debunks the disease model arguing that it has exacerbated the problem by telling drug abusers that they are not responsible for their behavior that they are sick that they are not to blame He skillfully argues for a new approach to drug use and abuse that requires a shift in the way we fight the war on drugs Dr Reznicek provides a new framework for understanding drug abuse the habit model Habits are practiced as long as they provide comfort and are abandoned when they cause pain The habit model is more consistent with current neuroscientific knowledge and it accounts for the widely observed phenomenon that most substance abusers don't change until they hit bottom the point where the consequences of drug use finally outweigh its benefits Using the habit model Dr Reznicek suggests the solution to the drug problem is to turn back the clock and to take lessons from societies that use social controls and consequences to deal with addiction and drug abuse He recommends the legalization of drugs for adults the implementation of social practices to dissuade abusers and the end to the use of rehab as a way of handling addiction Blowing Smoke shows how such an iconoclastic approach can work for us today
