Learning in Two Languages Gary Imhoff, 1990-01-01 After being off the public agenda for a decade the subject of bilingual education is once again at the center of public debate Assumptions about the values of cultural pluralism and the rise of the unmeltable ethnics so dominant for the last twenty years have met a renewed public affirmation of the value of assimilation In the United States bilingual education refers to programs that emphasize students home languages and culture teach academic subject matter in students home languages and introduce English into the curriculum at a deliberate pace Students in such programs are generally members of immigrant groups and racial and ethnic minorities and they usually come from lower class economic backgrounds Over the years a number of different objectives have been advanced for bilingual education programs In the 1960s and early 1970s educators believed that these programs should be evaluated by students linguistic proficiency and progress on standardized tests More recently advocates have promoted more subjective measures such as students enhanced sense of well being and self esteem And yet others argue that the real goals of bilingual education should be social change and economic redistribution and that programs should be evaluated by these long range goals The conference that gave rise to the essays in this volume was the first national symposium at which advocates and critics of bilingual education confronted each other s arguments face to face These essays address the objectives by which bilingual education should be evaluated the administrative practices by which programs are run and the latest research findings on the effectiveness of bilingual education Authors include Henry Trueba Rudolph Troike James Banks Joshua Fishman and Christine Rossell Learning in Two Languages will interest educators and policy researchers students of ethnic relations and others concerned about the future direction of U S educational policies in this controversial area

A Humanizing Dual Language Immersion Education Yvette V. Lapayese,2019-01-14 In every corner of the world children are learning languages at home that differ from the dominant language used in their broader social world These children arrive at school with a precious resource their mother tongue In the face of this resource and the possibility for biliteracy majority language educational programs do nothing to support primary language competence To counter monolingual education there are significant albeit few initiatives around the world that provide formal support for children to continue to develop competence in their mother tongue while also learning an additional language or languages One such initiative is dual language immersion education DLI Interestingly most if not all research on DLI programs focus on the effectiveness of bilingual education vis vis academic access and achievement The ideologies embedded in the research and guidelines for DLI education albeit necessary and critical during the early days of DLI schooling are disconnected from the present realities epistemologies and humanness of our bilingual youth A Humanizing Dual Language Immersion Education envisions a framework informed by bilingual teachers and students who support biliteracy as a human right Positioning bilingual education under a human rights framework addresses the basic right of our bi multilingual youth to human dignity Respect for the languages of persons belonging to different linguistic communities is essential for a just and democratic society Given the centrality of language to our sense of who we are and where we fit in the broader world a connection between linguistic human rights and bilingual education is essential

Chinese Education Models in a Global Age Chuing Prudence Chou, Jonathan Spangler, 2016-04-06 China's rise and increasing emphasis on international education benchmarking and a global recognition of East Asian countries' success in this regard have brought the issue of Chinese education to the forefront of public consciousness In particular the concept of a Chinese education model is one that has sparked debate and quickly become a major focus of education research around the world especially in light of regional achievements vis vis university rankings bibliometric indices the Programme for International Student Assessment PISA Trends in International Mathematics and Science Study TIMSS and other such benchmarks Chinese Education Models in a Global Age tackles this controversial issue head on by synthesizing a diversity of analyses from a world class team of twenty seven authors It reveals that Chinese education models which are present in many different geographic and institutional contexts have an important influence on social and institutional norms as well as individual belief systems and behaviors in China and beyond The first of its kind this edited volume establishes a foundation for future research while providing a nuanced and tightly integrated compilation of differing perspectives on the role and impact of Chinese education models worldwide It is essential reading for all scholars policymakers students parents and educators interested in the rising demographic and economic influence of people of Chinese descent on education around the world
