Aggression In Our Children:

Aggression in Our Children Henri Parens, 1987 Are our kids really that angry? An empirical investigation into adolescent aggression in the South African context Gary Elliott, 2014-02-01 The primary objective for this study was to conduct an empirical investigation to gather information in the form of data from adolescent males and females in the Pretoria region of South Africa Information was gathered with respects to their level of physical aggression verbal aggression anger hostility and depression The information was used to identify whether correlations exist between the three variables anger aggression and depression for South African adolescents The Psychological Effects of War and Violence on Children Lewis A. Leavitt, Nathan A. Fox, 2014-01-14 The outgrowth of a conference planned as a response to the need for researchers and clinicians to develop integrated plans for addressing the psychological trauma of children exposed to violence this volume s goals are to summarize research on the subject with particular emphasis on the Gulf War to use this information to formulate an outline of what current knowledge suggests are reasonable approaches to public mental health intervention and to develop an agenda for future research necessary for improving clinical efforts in varying international conflicts A significant collection of diverse perspectives attending to a diversity of cultural and political contexts the contributors offer many conclusions about important dimensions for analyzing the effects of violence on children Suggesting informed approaches to public mental health efforts which can be implemented the work presented here directs attention to the need for interdisciplinary collaboration among researchers and clinicians to better understand the effects of exposure to violence on the psychological well being of children and the optimal modes of remediation on individual family and community levels The Effect of Television Violence on Children United States. Congress. House. Committee on Energy and Commerce. Subcommittee on Telecommunications and the Internet, 2004 Understanding and Treating the Aggression of Children David A. Crenshaw, John B. Mordock, 2007-09 Understanding and Treating the Aggression of Children Fawns in Gorilla Suits provides a thorough review of the theoretical and research basis of the techniques and interventions in the treatment of aggressive and sometimes violent children This is not a dry and sterile academic review but rather one that comes from work directly in the therapy room with thousands of hurting and in many cases traumatized children One cannot read this book without being deeply moved and touched by the pain of these children and yet also be buoyed by their courage and willingness to persevere against formidable barriers The metaphor of the fawn in a gorilla suit is introduced followed by chapters covering developmental failures and invisible wounds profound and unacknowledged losses the implication of new findings from neuroscience psychodynamics of aggressive children risk factors when treating the traumatized child special considerations when treating children in foster care strengthening relationships with parents and helping them be more effective enhancing relationships with direct care and instructional staff developing mature defenses and coping skills creating a therapeutic milieu for traumatized children and fostering hope and resilience The Effects of Intimate
