Aging in the Past David I. Kertzer, 2024-06-04 Thanks to improved food medicine and living conditions the average age of the population is increasing throughout the modern industrialized world Yet despite the recent upsurge of scholarly interest in the lives of older people and the blossoming of historical demography little historical demographic attention has been paid to the lives of the elderly A landmark volume Aging in the Past marks the emergence of the historical demographic study of aging Following a masterly explication of the new field by Peter Laslett leading scholars in family history and historical demography offer new research results and fresh analyses that greatly increase our understanding of aging historically and across cultures Focusing primarily on post Industrial Europe and the United States they explore a range of issues under the broad topics of living arrangements widowhood and retirement and mortality This important work provides a much needed historical perspective on and suggests possible alternative solutions to the problems of the aged Contributors George Alter Rudolf Andorka Allen C Goodman Myron P Gutmann Michael R Haines E A Hammel Tamara K Hareven Nancy Karweit David I Kertzer Peter Laslett Andrejs Plakans Roger L Ransom Daniel Scott Smith Richard Sutch Peter Uhlenberg Richard Wall Charles Wetherell This title is part of UC Press's Voices Revived program which commemorates University of California Press's mission to seek out and cultivate the brightest minds and give them voice reach and impact Drawing on a backlist dating to 1893 Voices Revived makes high quality peer reviewed scholarship accessible once again using print on demand technology This title was originally published in 1995

Old Age and the English Poor Law, 1500-1700 Lynn A. Botelho, 2004 Based on documents from two Suffolk villages this study examines the operation of the poor law and the individual effort the elderly poor needed to make to survive This study is a test case of the old poor law In its exploration of the virtually unknown world of the aged poor in sixteenth and seventeenth century England it asks how the elderly poor managed to survive in a pre industrial economy and answers through focusing on the many factors that make up the experience of old age status health wealth and local culture in two Suffolk villages Botelho demonstrates that the poor law did not nor did it intend to provide complete support and she documents the individual efforts of the poor as they made their own old age arrangements drawing as heavily upon their own initiatives as upon charity and legislated relief LYNN BOTELHO is Associate Professor of History Indiana University of Pennsylvania

Aging in World History David G. Troyansky, 2015-10-05 In Aging in World History David G Troyansky presents the first global history of aging At a time when demographic aging has become a source of worldwide concern and more people are reaching an advanced age than ever before the history of old age helps us understand how we arrived at the treatment of aging in the modern world This concise volume expands that history beyond the West to show how attitudes toward aging the experiences of the aged and relevant demographic patterns have varied and coalesced over time and across the world From the ancient world to the present this book introduces students and general readers to the history of aging on two levels the experience of individual men and women and the transformation of populations With its attention to cultural traditions medicalization decades of historical scholarship and current gerontology Aging in World History is the perfect starting point for an exploration of this increasingly universal aspect of human experience Someday All This Will Be Yours Hendrik Hartog, 2012-01-15 Hartog tells the heartbreaking stories of how families fought over the work of caring for the elderly and its compensation in a time before pensions Social Security and nursing homes filled this gap As an explosive economy drew the young away from home we see how the elderly used promises of inheritance to keep children at their side Critical Approaches To Ageing And Later Life Jamieson, Anne, Harper, Sarah, Victor, Christina, 1997-08-01 How are individuals and society ageing towards the end of the twentieth century How can different disciplines help us to understand the ageing process What are the key developments in postmodern thought and critical studies in relation to ageing and later life In answer to these questions the editors of this volume have brought together some of the leading figures in the field Gathered together for the first time in a single volume the authors discuss the latest theoretical developments in the international field of ageing Drawing on research from the USA and UK the book is strongly multi disciplinary in content with chapters from both social sciences and humanities The book provides a critical approach to our understanding of the experience of ageing and later life It has been written for advanced students of gerontology and those with an interest in ageing and later life but it is also relevant to policy makers and practitioners in the field Key features First time work from the USA and UK has been available in one volume Wide coverage of the latest trends and theoretical approaches in gerontology Issues addressed from a range of disciplines unusual combination of humanities and social science in one volume Written by leading experts in the field Health and Mortality Among Elderly Populations Graziella Caselli, Alan D. Lopez, 1996 In both developed and developing countries the elderly have enjoyed significant declines in mortality and increased survival At the same time these trends have also given rise to many uncertainties and demands on resources which are often not given their due attention Future mortality declines particularly among the elderly are often overshadowed by fears of their increasing share of the total population and the demands that this places on society to resolve the problems stemming from longer survival problems for example which are not just a question of guaranteeing longer life but also of ensuring an acceptable health status In recent years there has been a substantial literature on many facets of the daily lives of the elderly This volume is a further contribution to the literature pinpointing the most recent trends in the survival of the elderly and in their physical and mental health It also describes possible scenarios for the early decades of the twenty first century To delineate current knowledge with regard to the health and survival of the elderly is a first step towards preparing projections and improving the efficacy of health policies for the elderly The first section of this volume is dedicated to a discussion about the age at which people become elderly and to the application of evolutionary theory to demographic models of human mortality The second section looks in more detail at different aspects of morbidity and mortality trends and their underlying causes The third section deals with mortality projections ranging from the hypotheses to problems of methodology The fourth section covers social and health strategies to improve the survival and quality of life of the elderly in view of the fact that more and more people may expect to live longer and longer and perhaps in increasingly better health Family History Revisited Richard Wall, Tamara K. Hareven, Josef Ehmer, 2001 This collection of original essays by scholars on the historical study of the family from various parts of the world represent a new departure in this field The essays cover a great variety of topics and many countries are represented The essays open up new debates and point to new directions in the field by examining dimensions of family relations that had not been sufficiently addressed in previous scholarship Population ageing and international development Peter Lloyd-Sherlock, 2010-01-20 Over the next 40 years the number of people aged 60 in the world many of whom live in developing regions will grow by 11.4 billion What will old age be like for them This original book provides an analysis of links between development population ageing and older people challenging some widely held misconceptions It highlights the complexity of international experiences and argues that the effects of population ageing on development are influenced by policy choices The book will be of interest to a range of academic disciplines including economics gerontology social policy and development studies as well as policy makers and practitioners concerned with developing countries

Experiencing Old Age in Ancient Rome Karen Cokayne, 2013-01-11 Old age today is a contentious topic It can be seen as a demographic timebomb or as a resource of wisdom and experience to be valued and exploited There is frequent debate over how we value the elderly and whether ageing is an affliction to be treated or a natural process to be embraced Karen Cokayne explores how ancient Rome dealt with the physical intellectual and emotional implications of the ageing process and asks how the Romans themselves experienced and responded to old age Drawing on a wide range of contemporary material written sources inscriptions and visual evidence the study brings into focus universal concerns including geriatric illness memory loss and senility the status and role of the old sexuality and family relationships The book's unique emphasis on both the individual and society's responses to ageing makes it a valuable contribution to the study of the social history of Rome

Life under Pressure Tommy Bengtsson, Cameron Campbell, James Z. Lee, 2009-01-23 A pioneering work in comparative history and social science that compares population behavior in response to adversity in Europe and Asia This highly original book the first in a series analyzing historical population behavior in Europe and Asia pioneers a new approach to the comparative analysis of societies in the past Using techniques of event history analysis the authors examine 100 000 life histories in 100 rural communities in Western Europe and Asia to analyze the demographic response to social and economic pressures In doing so they challenge the accepted Eurocentric Malthusian view of population processes and demonstrate that population behavior has not been as uniform as previously thought that it has often been determined by human agency particularly social structure and cultural practice The authors examine the complex relationship between human behavior and social and economic environment analyzing age gender family kinship social class and social organization climate food prices and real wages to compare mortality responses to adversity Their research at the individual household and community levels challenges the previously accepted characterizations of social and economic behavior in Europe and Asia in the past The originality of the analysis as well as the geographic breadth and historical depth of the data make Life Under Pressure a significant advance in the field of historical demography Its findings will be of interest to scholars in economics environmental studies demography history and sociology as well as the general reader interested in these subjects

Strong family and low fertility:a paradox? Gianpiero Dalla Zuanna,Giuseppe A. Micheli,2006-03-30 New perspectives in interpreting contemporary family and reproductive haviour of Mediterranean Europe 1 THE NEW GEOGRAPHY OF FERTILITY AND THE FAMILY IN EUROPE The countries of southern Europe have begun to reduce conjugal fertility at a later date compared to most other nations in the west This has been plained by means of the category of delay the backwardness of the pr esses of accumulation and economic development being seen as the cause of the maintaining of the reproductive models of the past Moreover the inf ence of the Catholic Church in Italy Spain and Portugal is supposed to have delayed the processes of secularisation rendering difficult the changes in mentality necessary for assuming modern patterns of reproductive behaviour not only for fertility but also for the variables which are strictly linked to it such as sexuality contraception and abortion Livi Bacci 1977 Lesthaeghe and Wilson 1986 1 1 The trends of very low fertility Now the panorama is very different Since the mid seventies southern Europe has been washed by the tide of a lowest low fertility i e TFR under 1 5 for several a prolonged period Billari et al 2003 which in some areas 1 has reached and maintained scarcely imaginable levels for years on end Conversely other areas of Europe where fertility started to fall many d ades earlier than in the regions of the south have recovered or maintained considerably higher levels of fertility often close to replacement level

Old Age from Antiquity to Post-Modernity Paul Johnson,Pat Thane,2002-11-01 Based on themes such as status and welfare Old Age from Antiquity to Post Modernity examines the role of the elderly in history This empirical study represents a substantial contribution to both the historical understanding of old age in past societies as well as the discussion of the contribution of post modernism to historical scholarship
