Agricultural Developments In Africa And The Supply Of Manufactured Goods:

Agricultural Development in Africa and the Supply of Manufactured Goods Jean-Claude Berthélemy, Christian Morrisson, Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development. Development Centre, 1989 Africa's Changing Agricultural Development Strategies Christopher L. Delgado, 1995 Similarities and dominant paradigms Chronology and elements of the dominant paradigms of agricultural development Insights for paradigms of African Agricultural Development Reforming agricultural markets in Africa Kherallah, Mylene, Delgado, Christopher L., Gabre-Madhin, Eleni Z., Minot, Nicholas, Johnson, Michael, 2002-01-01 The long term reduction of hunger and poverty in Sub Saharan Africa remains one of the great challenges for the international development community Eliminating hunger and promoting widespread growth in the region inevitably involves agriculture given its central role in the region s economies Over the past 20 years most African governments have carried out reforms to deregulate agricultural markets and reduce the role of state enterprises How much has the state actually withdrawn from agricultural markets Have well functioning private markets emerged How successful were these reforms in boosting agricultural production economic growth and the incomes of the rural poor What lessons can we learn from the reform process The authors of this book address these questions through an analysis based on an extensive review of experiences with reform focusing on three major agricultural markets fertilizer food crops and export crops They examine the historical rationales for intervention the factors contributing to reform the process of implementation and the impact of the reforms on farmers and consumers in Sub Saharan Africa The authors find that reforms have had many favorable results but that the impact has been muted by partial implementation and structural constraints They propose a new agenda for promoting the development of agricultural markets in Sub Saharan Africa identifying areas where governments can play a supportive role They argue that appropriate agricultural marketing policies and investments can improve livelihoods and the economic health of the region Poverty, Inequality and Development Alain de Janvry, Ravi Kanbur, 2006-06-09 This collection of essays honors a remarkable man and his work Erik Thorbecke has made significant contributions to the microeconomic and the macroeconomic analysis of poverty inequality and development ranging from theory to empirics and policy The essays in this volume display the same range As a collection they make the fundamental point that deep understanding of these phenomena requires both the micro and the macro perspectives together utilizing the strengths of each but also the special insights that come when the two are linked together After an overview section which contains the introductory chapter and a chapter examining the historical roots of Erik Thorbecke s motivations the essays in this volume are grouped into four parts each part identifying a major strand of Erik s work Measurement of Poverty and Inequality Micro Behavior and Market Failure SAMs and CGEs and Institutions and Development The range of topics covered in the essays written by leading authorities in their own areas highlight the extraordinary depth and breadth of Erik Thorbecke s influence in research and policy on poverty inequality and development Acknowledgements These papers were presented at a conference in honor of Erik Thorbecke held at Cornell University on October 10 11 2003 The conference was supported by the funds of the H E Babcock Chair in Food Nutrition and Public Policy and the T H Lee Chair in World Affairs at Cornell University

Economic Crisis in Africa Magnus Blomström, Mats Lundahl, 2002-01-22 While the pitiful images of famine victims generally emanate from the very poorest countries in Sub Saharan Africa the entire region faces an intense economic crisis Why is this area in a state of near permanent crisis and perhaps more importantly what can be done about it In Economic Crisis in Africa the authors use country studies to examine how this situation has come about The book is divided into four parts Part I presents an overall perspective of the African Crisis and its management Part II addresses the problems of the external sector Part III discusses the crises and structural adjustment from a microperspective and finally Part IV examines changes in economic systems which took place during the 1980s At a time when famine again threatens the area this work offers a valuable insight into a highly complex and critical situation

Open Economies Ian Goldin, L. Alan Winters, Centre for Economic Policy Research (Great Britain), 1992-05-28 Examines the interaction between macroeconomic and agricultural sector reforms in developing and East European economies

Africa and the Disciplines Robert H. Bates, V. Y. Mudimbe, Jean F. O'Barr, 1993-12 African Studies contrary to some accounts is not a separate continent in the world of American higher education Its intellectual borders touch those of economics literature history philosophy and art its history is the story of the world both ancient and modern This is the clear conclusion of Africa and the Disciplines a book that addresses the question Why should Africa be studied in the American university This question was put to distinguished scholars in the social sciences and humanities prominent Africanists who are also leaders in their various disciplines Their responses make a strong and enlightening case for the importance of research on Africa to the academy Paul Collier's essay for example shows how studies of African economies have clarified our understanding of the small open economies and contributed to the theory of repressed inflation and to a number of areas in microeconomics as well Art historian Suzanne Blier uses the terms and concepts that her discipline has applied to Africa to analyze the habits of mind and social practice of her own field Christopher L Miller describes the confounding and enriching impact of Africa on European and American literary theory Political scientist Richard Sklar outlines Africa's contributions to the study of political modernization pluralism and rational choice These essays together with others from scholars in history anthropology philosophy and comparative literature attest to the influence of African research throughout the curriculum For many knowledge from Africa seems distant and exotic These powerful essays suggest the contrary that such knowledge has shaped the way in which scholars in various disciplines understand their worlds Eloquent testimony to Africa's necessary place in the mainstream of American education this book should alter the academy's understanding of the significance of African research its definition of core and periphery in human knowledge These essays are at once exceptionally thoughtful and remarkably comprehensive Not only do they offer an unusually interesting overview of African studies they are also striking for the depth and freshness of their insights This is the sort of volume from which both seasoned regional experts and students stand to learn an enormous amount John Comaroff University of Chicago These essays provide an important perspective on the evolution of African studies and offer insights into what Africa can mean for the different humanistic and social science disciplines Many show in ingenious and subtle ways the enormous potential that the study of Africa has for confounding the main tenets of established fields One could only hope that the strictures expressed here would be taken to heart in the scholarly world Robert L Tignor Princeton University

Sustainable Food Security in West Africa W.K. Asenso-Okyere, E.Y. Benneh, W. Tims, 2012-12-06 Food security is defined as the ability of countries regions or households to meet their required levels of food consumption at all times Food security is an important component of human welfare and it can act as an indicator of a region s development This book addresses the roles of trade policy development and economic cooperation in creating sustainable food security in the West African region The largely micro level analysis is conducted on empirical data from the household where decisions on production and consumption take place Food security is discussed in terms of its component parts namely availability of food production and trade its accessibility incomes and poverty status and its utilisation health and nutrition
