Melanesians and Missionaries Darrell L. Whiteman, 2002-05-10 In Melanesians and Missionaries one of the best of the younger generation of missionary anthropologists demonstrates that a commitment to the missionary enterprise on the part of a solid scholar facilitates rather than hinders the anthropological study of a missionary topic This is better anthropology because Dr Whiteman is able to probe more deeply into his topic and demonstrates that he understands and appreciates both Melanesians and missionaries Charles H Kraft Professor of Anthropology School of World Mission Fuller Theological Seminary Pasadena

A Melanesia Bibliography Terence A. Wesley-Smith, Michael P. Hamnett, 1984 Rethinking Agriculture Timothy P Denham, José Iriarte, Luc Vrydaghs, 2016-07

Although the need to study agriculture in different parts of the world on its own terms has long been recognized and reaffirmed a tendency persists to evaluate agriculture across the globe using concepts lines of evidence and methods derived from Eurasian research However researchers working in different regions are becoming increasingly aware of fundamental differences in the nature of and methods employed to study agriculture and plant exploitation practices in the past Contributions to this volume rethink agriculture whether in terms of existing regional chronologies in terms of techniques employed or in terms of the concepts that frame our interpretations This volume highlights new archaeological and ethnoarchaeological research on early agriculture in understudied non Eurasian regions including Island Southeast Asia and the Pacific the Americas and Africa to present a more balanced view of the origins and development of agricultural practices around the globe

Where the Waves Fall K.R. Howe, 2023-05-03 Where the Waves Fall 1984 centres the stories of the Pacific Islanders and how they were affected by European explorers and colonisers in this unique account of human settlement and cultural interchange in the Pacific islands It follows the fortunes of the seafarers who discovered island after island in the world's largest ocean traces the development of their civilisations and examines in depth the interaction between them and the newcomers European explorers traders beachcombers missionaries merchants who from the sixteenth century came in an increasing series of waves The book's framework enables the author to throw new light on hitherto isolated events Novel suggestions are advanced as to why some islands became kingdoms in the earlier years of European contact and why others did not and of how and why missionaries were accepted on some islands but not on others Nor does Professor Howe shrink from provocative and at times controversial arguments concerning the ambitions and strategies of island leaders and indeed the overall nature and extent of the initiatives taken by the islanders

The Megalithic Culture of Melanesia Alphonse Riesenfeld, 1950 Tropical Archaeobotany Jon G. The Birds of Northern Melanesia Ernst Mayr, Jared M. Diamond, 2001 Speciation is the process by which co existing daughter species evolve from one ancestral species e.g humans chimpanzees and gorillas arising from a common ancestor around 5 000 000 years ago However many questions about speciation remain controversial The Birds of Northern Melanesia provides by far the most comprehensive study yet available of a rich fauna composed of the 195 breeding land and fresh water bird species of the Bismarck and Solomon Archipelagoes east of New Guinea This avifauna offers decisive advantages for understanding speciation and includes famous examples of geographic variation discussed in textbooks of evolutionary biology The book results from 30 years of collaboration between the evolutionary biologist Ernst Mayr and the ecologist Jared Diamond It shows how Northern Melanesian bird distributions provide snapshots of all stages in speciation from the earliest widely distributed species without geographic variation to the last closely related reproductively isolated species occurring sympatrically and segregating ecologically The presentation emphasizes the wide diversity of speciation outcomes steering a middle course between one model fits all simplification and ungeneralizable species accounts Questions illuminated include why some species are much more prone to speciate than others why some water barriers are much more effective at promoting speciation than others and whether hypothesized taxon cycles faunal dominance and legacies of Pleistocene land bridges are real These years of study have resulted in a huge database complete with distributions of all 195 species on 76 islands together with their taxonomy colonization routes ecological attributes abundance and overwater dispersal Color plates depict 88 species and allospecies many of which have never been seen before For students of speciation Northern Melanesian birds now constitute a model system against which other biotas can be compared For population biologists interested in other problems besides speciation this rich database can now be mined for insights

Bibliography of Agriculture, 1973 The World Factbook, 2007 Bibliography of Agriculture with Subject Index, 1958 The Origins And Spread Of Agriculture And Pastoralism In Eurasia David R. Harris, 2024-11-01 As the first book to examine the origins and spread of agriculture and pastoralism in Europe and Asia as a whole this major contribution should be essential reading for archaeologists anthropologists biologists and geographers Adopting a novel approach to the subject the authors examine it first in terms of seven different disciplinary perspectives social ecological genetic linguistic biomolecular epidemiological and geographical Then 20 case studies are presented which are based primarily on archaeological and biological evidence and which relate to three major regions Southwest Asia Europe and Central Asia to the Pacific The book concludes with an overview of Eurasia as a whole The transition from hunting and gathering to agriculture had revolutionary consequences for human society It led to the emergence of urban civilizations and ultimately to humanity's almost complete dependence on relatively few domesticated animals and plants The subject has been much studied but the results have tended to be interpreted largely in terms of local cultural sequences with insufficient comparison made with evidence from other areas In contrast this book provides a continental scale framework with its scope extended to pastoralism because in Eurasia both the raising of livestock and the cultivation of crops were integral components of the agricultural revolution from its inception some 10 000 years ago Comprehensive and authoritative The Origins and Spread of Agriculture and Pastoralism in Eurasia should appeal strongly to the wide readership of students and specialists concerned with the prehistoric antecedents of modern civilization Change and Development in Rural Melanesia University of Papua New Guinea, 1972
