Ages In Conflict A Cross Cultural Perspective On Inequality Between Old And Young:

Ages in Conflict Nancy Foner,1984 Cross-Cultural and Cross-Disciplinary Perspectives in Social Gerontology

Tannistha Samanta,2016-08-02 This volume intends to re establish social gerontology as a discipline that has pragmatic links to policy and practice Collectively the chapters enrich public debates about the moral cultural and economic questions surrounding aging thereby ameliorating the problems associated with aging societies This volume is uniquely cross cultural theory driven and cross disciplinary It fills a gap in the gerontological scholarship of the global south that is predominantly descriptive and empirical Based on original research this volume examines in particular the sociological question of inequality and its intersection with age gender health family and social relations In the process the studies herein highlight the unique historical institutional and social systems that govern the subjective experience of aging in diverse contexts globally Specifically societies in transition including India Lebanon Nigeria Japan China Israel and in Europe are studied while connecting the micro social experience of aging loneliness wellbeing discrimination relationships and resilience with larger temporal and political contexts This exercise generates intellectual capital that reformulates links between aging research and policy in innovative ways Overall the volume echoes the global scientific commitment to understand the socio cultural process of aging in transitional societies and utilizes rich opportunities for cross fertilization of ideas disciplines and methods to advance the gerontological promise of critical inquiry training and practice Ageing and Popular Culture

Andrew Blaikie,1999-03-04 As the grey market perpetuates the quest for eternal youth the biological realities of deep old age are increasingly denied Ageing and Popular Culture traces the historical emergence of stereotypes of retirement and documents their recent demise arguing that although modernisation marginalisation and medicalisation created rigid age classifications the rise of consumer culture has coincided with a postmodern broadening of options for those in the Third Age With an adroit use of photographs and other visual sources Andrew Blaikie demonstrates that an expanded leisure phase is breaking down barriers between mid and later life At the same time positive ageing also creates new imperatives and new norms with attendant forms of deviance While babyboomers may anticipate a fulfilling retirement none relish decline Has deep old age replaced death as the taboo subject of the late twentieth century If so what might be the consequences

Wives and Husbands Loretta Fowler,2012-10-01 In Wives and Husbands distinguished anthropologist Loretta Fowler deepens readers understanding of the gendered dimension of cultural encounters by exploring how the Arapaho gender system affected and was affected by the encounter with Americans as government officials troops missionaries and settlers moved west into Arapaho country Fowler examines Arapaho history from 1805 to 1936 through the lens of five cohorts groups of women and men born during different year spans Through the life stories of individual Arapahos she vividly illustrates the experiences and actions of each cohort during a time when Americans tried to impose gender asymmetry and to undermine the Arapahos hierarchical age relations Fowler examines the Arapaho gender system and its transformations by considering the partnerships between rather than focusing on comparisons of women and men She argues that in particular cohorts partnerships between women and men both in households and in the community shaped Arapahos social and cultural transformations while they struggled with American domination Over time Arapahos both reinforced and challenged Arapaho hierarchies while accommodating and resisting American dominance Fowler shows how in the process of reconfiguring their world Arapahos confronted Americans by uniting behind strategies of conciliation in the early nineteenth century of civilization in the late nineteenth century and of confrontation in the early twentieth century At the same time women and men in particular cohorts were revamping Arapaho politico religious ideas and organizations Gender played a part in these transformations giving shape to new leadership traditions and other adaptations Aging in Today's World Renée Rose Shield, Stanley M. Aronson, 2005 Never before in human existence have the aged been so numerous and for the most part healthy In this important new book two professionals an anthropologist and a physician wrestle with the complex subject of aging Is it inevitable Is it a burden or gift What is successful aging Why are some people better at aging than others Where is aging located How does it vary among individuals within and between groups cultures societies and indeed over the centuries Reflecting on these and other questions the authors comment on the impact age has in their lives and work Two unique viewpoints are presented While medicine approaches aging with special attention given to the body its organs and its functions over time anthropology focuses on how the aged live within their cultural settings As this volume makes clear the two disciplines have a great deal to teach each other and in a spirited exchange the authors show how professional barriers can be surmounted In a novel approach each author explores a different aspect of aging in alternating chapters These chapters are in turn followed by a commentary by the other Further the authors interrupt each other within the chapters to raise questions contradict ask for clarification and explore related ideas with these interjections emphasizing the dynamic nature of their ideas about age Finally a third voice that of a random old man periodically inserts itself into the text to remind the authors of their necessarily limited understanding of the subject Families Susan K Pfeifer, Marvin B Sussman, 2014-06-17 This special volume is devoted to the synthesis and review of theoretical and conceptual approaches associated with familial and non familial connections across the life span An important book as society returns to the family it compares and contrasts different disciplinary perspectives associated with intergenerational relationships Because intergenerational relationships have been the focus of research in many disciplines various perspectives have emerged about kin and non kin connections Renewed interest in families and familial connections is due largely to events and situations occurring in complex modernized societies which place the intergenerational nexus on center stage The leading researchers represented in this outstanding book provide rare opportunity for the scholarly comparison of the various perspectives in the broader spectrum of family relations Families Intergenerational and Generational Connecting is a significant addition to the body of research on family connections The three major areas of generational and intergenerational connections include theoretical and conceptual perspectives connections within the family and connections outside the family As the use of families as support networks for individual members increases this timely book will be an invaluable aid to educators students and researchers concerned about families and familial and non familial relationships Counselors and therapists will value this enlightening book with its diverse theoretical and conceptual perspectives on kinship intergenerational solidarity and relations social supports and cross national perspectives on family connections Pension Reform in Europe Camila Arza,Martin Kohli,2007-08-07 This new book provides a cross country comparative analysis of the key issues shaping the latest pension reforms in Europe political games welfare models and pathways population reactions and observed and expected outcomes Pension reform has been a top policy priority for European governments in the last decade Ageing populations changing labour market patterns and the process of European integration are the irresistible forces pushing for reform throughout the region The Political Economy of Pension Reform evaluates the political forces that make pension reform viable in different national and institutional contexts and the nature of political bargains actors and cleavages surrounding policy change The volume also examines the nature and outcomes of pension reform experiences in Europe searching for a solution to the financial challenge posed by growing pension budgets By addressing the nature of change the pathways of reform and the outcomes of the new pension mix in the region the authors conclude with an analysis of people s perceptions and attitudes towards pension policy and their acceptance or otherwise of different reform options This book will be of interest to students and scholars of international political economy European politics and social policy Abundance of Life Harry R. Moody,1988-07-21 Abundance of Life Secrecy and Cultural Reality Gilbert Herdt,2010-02-22 A compelling study of male ritual secrecy and its impact on the cultures of Melanesia and Papua New Guinea Global Political Demography Achim Goerres,Pieter Vanhuyse,2021-08-10 This open access book draws the big picture of how population change interplays with politics across the world from 1990 to 2040 Leading social scientists from a wide range of disciplines discuss for the first time all major political and policy aspects of population change as they play out differently in each major world region North and South America Sub Saharan Africa and the MENA region Western and East Central Europe Russia Belarus and Ukraine East Asia Southeast Asia subcontinental India Pakistan and Bangladesh Australia and New Zealand These macro regional analyses are completed by cross cutting global analyses of migration religion and poverty and age profiles and intra state conflicts From all angles this book shows how strongly contextualized the political management and the political consequences of population change are While long term population ageing and short term migration fluctuations present structural conditions political actors play a key role in mis managing manipulating and under planning population change which in turn determines how citizens in different groups react In a New Land Nancy Foner,2005-08 According to the 2000 census more than 10% of U S residents were foreign born together with their American born children this group constitutes one fifth of the nation s population Anthropology and Epidemiology C. Janes,R.

Stall,S.M. Gifford,2012-12-06 Over the past two decades increasing interest has emerged in the contributions that the social sciences might make to the epidemiological study of patterns of health and disease Several reasons can be cited for this increasing interest Primary among these has been the rise of the chronic non infectious diseases as important causes of morbidity and mortality within Western populations during the 20th century Generally speaking the chronic non infectious diseases are strongly influenced by lifestyle variables which are themselves strongly influenced by social and cultural forces The understanding of the effects of the behavioral factors in say hypertension thus requires an understanding of the social and cultural factors which encourage obesity a sedentary lifestyle non compliance with anti hypertensive medications or other prescribed regimens and stress Equally there is a growing awareness that considerations of human behavior and its social and cultural determinants are important for understanding the distribution and control of infectious diseases Related to this expansion of epidemiologic interest into the behavioral realm has been the development of etiological models which focus on the psychological biological and socio cultural characteristics of hosts rather than exclusive concern with exposure to a particular agent or even behavioral risk Also during this period advances in statistical and computing techniques have made accessible the ready testing of multivariate causal models and so have encouraged the measurement of the effects of social and cultural factors on disease occurrence

Being Maasai Thomas T. Spear,Richard D. Intergenerational Programs Understanding What We Have Created will help you research programs and produce successful activity outcomes with such techniques as using an ethnographic approach involving a holistic perspective and using field based data collection methods to meet the challenges of creating programs among two different age groups and the social problems each group faces using constructivist and sociocultural orientations which are traditionally applied to a classroom learning to offer new ways of viewing and assessing learning in community based programs understanding the positive effects grandparents can have on their grandchildren including helping parents resolve children s behavioral problems and assisting in providing positive environments incorporating knowledge of drug abuse issues problem solving skills feelings of self worth and academic goals into programs to benefit youths developing elder care services in conjunction with businesses to improve the quality of life for the elderly and the workers as well as decreasing workers absenteeism mistakes and time used to make personal calls to elderly relatives who need care Comprehensive and intelligent this current book contains studies and research that explore the negative and positive aspects of certain activities allowing you to learn from the experiences of others This book provides research methods and evaluation measures to help you decide what kinds of activities are needed in order to best benefit participants As a result you will be able to create relevant programs assess their effectiveness and help join different generations in working together for an improved quality of life for all group members

Between Poverty and the Pyre Jan Bremmer, Lourens Van Den Bosch, 2002-03-11 Between Poverty and the Pyre examines the history of the experience of widowhood across different cultures It brings together a collection of essays by historians anthropologists and philologists The book shows how difficult it is to define the typical widow as the experiences of these women have differed so widely not simply because of their different time periods and locations but also because of their varying legal and religious status and economic conditions The study is diverse with subjects ranging from Hindu wives who followed their husbands to the pyre widows who were burned as witches and widows who had to become prostitutes to stay alive The book also explores Jesus s interest in widows and the experience of some well known widows such as Mohammed s first wife Mimesis and the Human Animal Robert Storey, 1996-12-16 In Mimesis and the Human Animal Robert Storey argues that human culture derives from human biology and that literary representation therefore must have a biological basis As he ponders the question What does it mean to say that art imitates life he must consider both What is life and What is art A unique approach to the subject of mimesis Storey s book goes beyond the politicizing of literature grounded in literary theory to develop a scientific basis for the creation of literature and art The Binding Tie Kristina Göransson, 2009-01-01 Since gaining independence in 1965 Singapore has become the most trade intensive economy in the world and the richest country in Southeast Asia This transformation has been accompanied by the emergence of a deep generational divide More complex than simple disparities of education or changes in income and consumption patterns this growing gulf encompasses language religion and social memory The Binding Tie explores how expectations and obligations between generations are being challenged reworked and reaffirmed in the face of far reaching societal change The family remains a pivotal feature of Singaporean society and the primary unit of support The author focuses on the middle generation caught between elderly parents who grew up speaking dialect and their own children who speak English and Mandarin In analyzing the forces that bind these generations together she deploys the idea of an intergenerational contract which serves as a metaphor for customary obligations and expectations She convincingly examines the many different levels at which the contract operates within Singaporean families and offers striking examples of the meaningful ways in which intergenerational support and transactions are performed resisted and renegotiated Her rich material drawn from ethnographic fieldwork among middle class Chinese provides insights into the complex interplay of fragmenting and integrating forces The Binding Tie makes a critical contribution to the study of intergenerational relations in modern rapidly changing societies and conveys a vivid and nuanced picture of the challenges Singaporean families face in today's hypermodern world It will be of interest to researchers and students in a range of fields including anthropology sociology Asian studies demography development studies and family studies

Age Structuring in Comparative Perspective David I. Kertzer, K. Warner Schaie, 2013-05-13 This volume studies age as a basis for social organization by uniting research from the social science disciplines while implementing both cross cultural and historical perspectives The contributors a distinguished interdisciplinary group of scholars advance our understanding of age structuring by relating the changing societal level processes and individual aging experiences and examining retirement practices age and power in society and cultural conceptions of age

The Individual, the Family, and Social Good Gary B. Melton, 1995-01-01 The question of whether personal gratification is compatible with social good is one of the fundamental problems of motivation The family an institution that has undergone extraordinary change in the last generation is perhaps the most profound context in which to consider this issue This volume is tinged with prophetic concern about the state of contemporary family life and about the unlikelihood of reconciling individual family members interests with those of the family as a whole The nine contributors backgrounds are diverse anthropology economics law and clinical community developmental and social psychology and their positions on the nature of motivation in families vary widely Their views are often disquieting and sometimes conflicting as they offer provocative analyses of divorce family violence political transitions and concerns of both Western and non Western cultures Gary B Melton is director of the Institute for Families in Society at the University of South Carolina and professor of law neuropsychiatry and psychology His books include Adolescent Abortion Psychological and Legal Issues Nebraska 1986

Searching for the Bright Path James Taylor Carson, 2003-01-01 Blending an engaging narrative style with broader theoretical considerations James Taylor Carson offers the most complete history to date of the Mississippi Choctaws Tracing the Choctaws from their origins in the Mississippian cultures of late prehistory to the early nineteenth century Carson shows how the Choctaws struggled to adapt to life in a New World altered radically by contact while retaining their sense of identity and place Despite changes in subsistence practices and material culture the Choctaws made every effort to retain certain core cultural beliefs and sensibilities a strategy they conceived of as following the straight bright path This work also makes a significant theoretical contribution to ethnohistory as Carson confronts common problems in the historical analysis of Native peoples
