Tauger, 2020-11-22 Now in its second edition Agriculture in World History presents a unique exploration of farmers and farming and their relationships to non farmers and urban societies from the ancient world to the 21st century From its origins civilization has depended on the food fiber and other goods produced by farmers This book illustrates how urban societies both exploited and supported farmers and together endured economic and environmental crises Viewing farmers as the crucial interface between civilization and the natural world Mark Tauger examines the environmental changes political and social transformations and scientific and technological developments in farming The second edition draws attention to the modern period particularly the effects of war depression and authoritarianism on world agriculture scientific advances and the problems they created increased international competition between countries with the expanding role of corporations the threats posed by climate change and some of agriculture s future prospects Accessibly written and following a chronological structure the volume enables readers to easily gain a foundational understanding of an important aspect of world history This survey will be an indispensable text for world history students and for anyone interested in the historical development of the present agricultural and food crises Agricultural History in Relation to Current Agricultural Problems, 1940 The Social History of Agriculture Christopher Isett, Stephen Miller, 2016-11-09 This innovative text provides a compelling narrative world history through the lens of food and farmers Tracing the history of agriculture from earliest times to the present Christopher Isett and Stephen Miller argue that people rather than markets have been the primary agents of agricultural change Exploring the actions taken by individuals and groups over time and analyzing their activities in the wider contexts of markets states wars the environment population increase and similar factors the authors emphasize how larger social and political forces inform decisions and lead to different technological outcomes Both farmers and elites responded in ways that impeded economic development Farmers when able to trade with towns used the revenue to gain more land and security Elites used commercial opportunities to accumulate military power and slaves The book explores these tendencies through rich case studies of ancient China precolonial South America early modern France England and Japan New World slavery colonial Taiwan socialist Cuba and many other periods and places Readers will understand how the promises and problems of contemporary agriculture are not simply technologically derived but are the outcomes of decisions and choices people have made and continue to make Agricultural History University of California, Davis. because of agriculture's potential to lead to conflicts over precious resources The Oxford Handbook of Agricultural History reflects this rebirth and examines the wide reaching implications of agricultural issues featuring essays that touch on the green revolution the development of the Atlantic slave plantation the agricultural impact of the American Civil War the rise of scientific and corporate agriculture and modern exploitation of agricultural labor The Need of Historical Materials for Agricultural Research /Everett E. Guide to Historical Research at the National Agriculture Library Susan Chapman,1994 New Perspectives on the History of Life Sciences and Agriculture Denise Phillips,Sharon Kingsland,2015-02-12 This volume explores problems in the history of science at the intersection of life sciences and agriculture from the mid eighteenth to the mid twentieth century Taking a comparative national perspective the book examines agricultural practices in a broad sense including the practices and disciplines devoted to land management forestry soil science and the improvement and management of crops and livestock The life sciences considered include genetics microbiology ecology entomology forestry and deal with US European Russian Japanese Indonesian Chinese contexts The book shows that the investigation of the border zone of life sciences and agriculture raises many interesting questions about how science develops In particular it challenges one to re examine and take seriously the intimate connection between scientific development and the practical goals of managing and improving perhaps even recreating the living world to serve human ends Without close attention to this zone it is not possible to understand the emergence of new disciplines and transformation of old disciplines to evaluate the role and impact of such major figures of science as Humboldt and Mendel or to appreciate how much of the history of modern biology has been driven by national ambitions and imperialist expansion in competition with rival nations
