Standardization and the Agreement on Technical Barriers to Trade Andrea Barrios Villarreal, 2018-10-04 This work examines the international standardization system generally with a specific focus on some of the bodies within this system It also questions the lack of definition regarding several features related to the system notably an international standardizing body and international standards in the Agreement on Technical Barriers to Trade Toward Sustainable Agricultural Systems in the 21st Century National Research Council, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Board on Agriculture and Natural Resources, Committee on Twenty-First Century Systems Agriculture, 2010-07-25 In the last 20 years there has been a remarkable emergence of innovations and technological advances that are generating promising changes and opportunities for sustainable agriculture yet at the same time the agricultural sector worldwide faces numerous daunting challenges Not only is the agricultural sector expected to produce adequate food fiber and feed and contribute to biofuels to meet the needs of a rising global population it is expected to do so under increasingly scarce natural resources and climate change Growing awareness of the unintended impacts associated with some agricultural production practices has led to heightened societal expectations for improved environmental community labor and animal welfare standards in agriculture Toward Sustainable Agricultural Systems in the 21st Century assesses the scientific evidence for the strengths and weaknesses of different production marketing and policy approaches for improving and reducing the costs and unintended consequences of agricultural production. It discusses the principles underlying farming systems and practices that could improve the sustainability. It also explores how those lessons learned could be applied to agriculture in different regional and international settings with an emphasis on sub-Saharan Africa. By focusing on a systems approach to improving the sustainability of U.S. agriculture, this book can have a profound impact on the development and implementation of sustainable farming systems. Toward Sustainable Agricultural Systems in the 21st Century serves as a valuable resource for policy makers, farmers, experts in food production and agribusiness, and federal regulatory agencies.

The New Regulation and Governance of Food Terry Marsden, Robert Lee, Andrew Flynn, Samarthia Thankappan, 2009-09-10. This book examines the development of food policy and regulation following the BSE mad cow disease crisis and traces the changing relationships between three key sets of actors: private interests such as the corporate retailers; public regulators such as the EU directorates and UK agencies; and consumer groups.

Legitimacy in European Nature Conservation Policy Jozef Keulartz, Gilbert Leistra, 2007-11-03. Building forth upon recent developments in democracy theory that have identified multiple forms of legitimacy, this volume observes a EU-wide shift from output legitimacy to input and throughput legitimacy. Top-down policy making is increasingly meeting local resistance. As a result, the importance for policy makers of enhancing the democratic legitimacy of their policy plans has increased. In this volume, nine case studies are presented: seven case studies of protected areas in different countries (Belgium, Germany, Poland, Spain, Finland, France, and the UK) and two case studies of protected species (the geese in the Netherlands and the great Cormorant in Denmark and Italy). These case studies are followed by extensive comments. The volume opens with an introductory chapter on the problematic production of legitimacy in current European nature policy. It concludes with a chapter that situates the case studies within the wider EU environmental policy and political context.

The Changing Landscape of Food Governance Donal Casey, 2015-02-27. As markets become more globalized, they have also become governed by an increasingly complex array of public and private regulation. This volume investigates the changing landscape of food governance. In so doing, the contributions to this volume provide.

Wine Management and Marketing, Volume 2 Foued Cheriet, Carole Maurel, Paul Amadieu, Herve Hannin, 2024-06-19. With increased competition from new wine-producing countries and substitute products, declining wine consumption, climate change, health crises, and geopolitical contexts, the wine industry has been facing serious difficulties in recent years. Paradoxically, however, this recent period also offers new opportunities. Through the presentation of original research results, reading grids, illustrations, and case studies, Wine Management and Marketing 2 analyzes the main challenges facing the wine industry and considers new opportunities: a renewed dynamism of technical, organizational, and commercial innovations; the adaptability of actors; a greater introduction of new technologies, etc. The multi-faceted approach adopted by the authors and experts offers an enriched reflection which provides a better understanding of the current state of the wine industry and presents various levers for adapting to new commercial societal and environmental expectations

The Social Embeddedness of Industrial Ecology Frank Boons, Jennifer A. Howard-Grenville, 2009-01-01 From its inception the field of industrial ecology has taken a distinctly technological approach to understanding and improving ecological consequences of industrial activities Increasingly however scholars and practitioners are developing perspectives on the social embeddedness of industrial ecology the ways in which material and energy flows in regions and product chains are shaped by the social context in which they occur This book presents empirical work addressing how cognitive cultural political and structural mechanisms condition the emergence and operation of industrial ecology Further exploring such mechanisms holds promise for understanding both the barriers to and opportunities for altering the ecological impacts of industrial practice Through contemplative chapters and intermezzos authors with different disciplinary backgrounds reflect on the contribution of work from various social sciences to industrial ecology Unique to the volume the authors of the commentaries bring in their personal and professional experiences reflecting on how they have engaged in or have seen the value in cross disciplinary work They also include discussion explicitly on the dialogue and its value to the evolution of the field In these ways the book develops the dialogue between social science contributors and researchers from other disciplines within the field of industrial ecology Scholars and students involved in the study of industrial ecology and related fields as well as practising managers and those involved in facilitating industrial ecology projects around the world will find this engaging and comprehensive volume indispensable

Comparative Law and Economics the late Theodore Eisenberg, Giovanni B. Ramello, 2016-02-26 Contemporary law and economics has greatly expanded its scope of inquiry as well as its sphere of influence By focussing specifically on a comparative approach this Handbook offers new insights for developing current law and economics research It also provides stimuli for further research exploring the idea that the comparative method offers a valuable way to enrich law and economics scholarship With contributions from leading scholars from around the world the Handbook sets the context by examining the past present and future of comparative law and economics before addressing this approach to specific issues within the fields of intellectual property competition contracts torts judicial behaviour tax property law energy markets regulation and environmental agreements This topical Handbook will be of great interest and value to scholars and postgraduate students of law and economics looking for new directions in their research It will also be a useful reference to policymakers and those working at an institutional level Governing Transformative Technological Innovation Peter W. B. Phillips, 2007-01-01 New technologies often appear to be beyond the control of any governing systems This is especially true for transformative technologies This book examines the deep governing structures of transformative technology and innovation in an effort to identify which actors can be expected to act when under what conditions and to what effect

The Politics of Humanitarian Technology Katja Lindskov

Jacobsen,2015-06-05 This book offers a detailed exploration of three examples of humanitarian uses of new technology employing key theoretical insights from Foucault We are currently seeing a humanitarian turn to new digital technologies such as biometrics remote sensing and surveillance drones However such humanitarian uses of new technology have not always produced beneficial results for those at the receiving end and have sometimes exposed the subjects of assistance to additional risks and insecurities Engaging with key insights from the work of Foucault combined with selected concepts from the Science and Technology Studies literature this book produces an analytical framework that opens up the analysis to details of power and control at the level of materiality that are often ignored in liberal histories of war and modernity Whereas Foucault details the design of prisons factories schools etc this book is original in its use of his work in that it uses these key insights about the details of power embedded in material design but shifts the attention to the technologies and attending forms of power that have been experimented with in the three humanitarian endeavours presented in the book In doing so the book provides new information about aspects of liberal humanitarianism that contemporary critical analyses have largely neglected This book will be of interest to students of humanitarian studies peace and conflict studies critical security studies and IR in general

Understanding Nature Hub Zwart,2008-01-29 This summons clearly resonates with the archetypal image associated with water as a basic element discussed in Chapter 2 water as the element of freedom of mobility of widening one's horizon Although Nietzsche himself refrained from doing what he summoned others to do scientists like Darwin and novelists like Melville actually went to sea Darwin although regarded by Nietzsche as an arid and mediocre mind exposed himself to the experience of a long term trans oceanic voyage in the course of which he did discover new worlds new justifications new moral watchwords even struggle for life that were to have a tremendous impact on science philosophy and even culture at large Other perspectives are present in Moby Dick as well such as the theologian's one depicting the whale as the biblical Leviathan and the ocean as that part of the world where the great flood never abated Indeed the interpretation of marine phenomena in Biblical terms is more or less omnipresent in the novel and also resounds in the views and language of the philosophical sailor and story teller Ishmael But what about the novelist's whale Actually there is not one novelist's whale Ishmael the narrator unmistakably sides with the whaler's point of view but Melville the author is interested in and tries to do justice to a plurality of voices

Food Systems in an Unequal World Ryan E. Galt,2014-03-27 Pesticides a short term aid for farmers can often be harmful undermining the long term health of agriculture ecosystems and people The United States and other industrialized countries import food from Costa Rica and other regions To safeguard the public health importers now regulate the level and types of pesticides used in the exporters food production which creates regulatory risk for the export farmers Although farmers respond to export regulations by trying to avoid illegal pesticide residues the food produced for their domestic market lacks similar regulation creating a double standard of pesticide use Food Systems in an Unequal World examines the agrochemical dependent agriculture of Costa Rica and how its uneven regulation in export versus domestic markets affects Costa Rican vegetable farmers Examining pesticide dependent vegetable production within two food systems the author shows that pesticide use is shaped by three main forces agrarian capitalism the governance of food systems throughout the commodity chain and ecological dynamics driving local food production Those processes produce unequal outcomes that disadvantage less powerful producers who have more limited choices than larger farmers who usually have access to better growing environments and thereby can reduce pesticide use and production costs Despite the rise of alternative food networks Galt says persistent problems remain in the conventional food system including widespread and intensive pesticide use Facing domestic price squeezes vegetable farmers in Costa Rica are more likely to supply the national market with produce containing residues of highly toxic pesticides while using less toxic pesticides on exported vegetables In seeking solutions Galt argues for improved governance and research into alternative pest control but emphasizes that the process must be rooted in farmers economic well being Fighting for the Farm Jane Adams, 2013-03-26 In North America industrial agriculture has now virtually displaced diversified family farming The prevailing system depends heavily on labor supplied by migrants and immigrants and its reliance on monoculture raises environmental concerns In this book Jane Adams and contributors anthropologists and political scientists among them analyze the political dynamics that have transformed agriculture in the United States and Canada since the 1920s The contributors demonstrate that people become politically active in arenas that range from the state to public discourse to relations between growers and their contractors or laborers and that politics is a process that is intimately local as well as global The farm financial crisis of the 1980s precipitated rapid consolidation of farms and a sharp decline in rural populations It brought new actors into the political process including organic farmers and environmentalists Fighting for the Farm Rural America Transformed considers the politics of farm policy and the consequences of the increasing alignment of agricultural interests with the global economy The first section of the book places North American agriculture in the context of the world system the second a series of case studies examines the foundations of current U S policy subsequent sections deal with the political implications for daily life and the politics of the environment Recognizing the influence of an array of political constituencies and arenas Fighting for the Farm charts a decisive shift since the early part of the twentieth century from a discursive regime rooted in economics to one that now incorporates a variety of environmental and quality of life concerns

Food Security in Australia Quentin Farman-Bowers, Vaughan Higgins, Joanne Millar, 2012-10-28 This book considers the ability and capacity of the food supply system in Australia to provide food security for the ever increasing domestic and international population in the face of growing challenges in production resource supply and failures within the food system itself Although Australia is a net food exporting country domestic food insecurity exists and will increase as food prices rise in the coming decades An overview of the food supply system highlights the main challenges that are determining the future Many of these challenges can be resolved by the Australian government but others are in the hands of global governance to which Australia can only adapt This book sheds light on the challenges and discusses the prospects for developing more sustainable and resilient future food systems in Australia In addition it covers food security and sovereignty issues under the heading of food equity and access food production policy and trade and impacts of land use planning on agriculture The unique features of the book include the following Most literature on food security pertains to developing countries By way of contrast this book explores food security in a developed nation Australia that seemingly should not have food security issues The topics covered in the book are relevant to other developed nations with growing populations and resource management challenges The book chapters are written by specialists to paint a comprehensive picture of the political social economic and environmental issues that give rise to food insecurity and the challenges these issues present to the security of the food system in coming decades The overall organization of the book uses a theoretically informed and multi disciplinary approach This enables a critical and in depth analysis of food security by outlining the key challenges as well as prospects for the development of more sustainable and resilient agri food systems The three principal topics in the book are dealt with by a multi disciplinary team of authors in a way that teases out diverse points of view illustrating the complexity of food security Author disciplines include health and nutrition agriculture ethics social science law and practitioners managing food aid programs The book shows how food security relates to many technical social and moral issues in society and how it is possible to develop successful programs to improve food security

India's Organic Farming Revolution Sapna E. Thottathil, 2014-10-01 Should you buy organic food Is it just a status symbol or is it really better for us Is it really better for the environment What about organic produce grown thousands of miles from our kitchens or on massive corporately owned farms Is local or small scale better even if it is not organic A lot of consumers who would like to do the right thing for their health and the environment are asking such questions Sapna Thottathil calls on us to rethink the politics of organic food by focusing on what it means for the people who grow and sell it what it means for their health the health of their environment and also their economic and political well being Taking readers to the state of Kerala in southern India she shows us a place where the so called Green Revolution program of hybrid seeds synthetic fertilizers and rising pesticide use had failed to reduce hunger while it caused a cascade of economic medical and environmental problems Farmers burdened with huge debts from buying the new seeds and chemicals were committing suicide in troubling numbers Farm laborers suffered from pesticide poisoning and rising rates of birth defects A sharp fall in biodiversity worried environmental activists and everyone was anxious about declining yields of key export crops like black pepper and coffee In their debates about how to solve these problems farmers environmentalists and policymakers drew on Kerala's history of and continuing commitment to grassroots democracy In 2010 they took the unprecedented step of enacting a policy that requires all Kerala growers to farm organically by 2020 How this policy came to be and its immediate economic political and physical effects on the state's residents offer lessons for everyone interested in agriculture the environment and what to eat for dinner Kerala's example shows that when done right this kind of agriculture can be good for everyone in our global food system Wine Management and Marketing Opportunities for Companies and Challenges for the Industry Foued Cheriet, Carole Maurel, Paul Amadiou, Herve Hannin, 2020-11-17 This work highlights the new challenges facing the French wine industry and the issues that arise from it. Written on the basis of academic work and field studies conducted by a group of Montpellier academics in Economics and Management Sciences Groupe Montpellier Vin this book presents recent and original research results and raises the key issues related to finance strategy international management and marketing. Professionals in the sector academics students and wine enthusiasts will find up to date information in depth analyses and above all an invitation to a stimulating debate on the prospects of this traditional yet innovative sector Renewing innovation systems in agriculture and food E. Coudel, H. Devautour, C.T. Soulard, G. Faure, B. Hubert, 2013-03-15 Present day society asks more from agriculture than just the production of food. Agriculture is now required to be concerned with the quality of food ecosystem services inclusion of marginalized populations revitalization of rural territories energy production etc. This opening up of the future of agriculture encourages rural actors to experiment with new farming systems using imagination creativity and determination to replace dominant models. At the same time low cost mass production systems continue on their way with promises of a future based on green technologies. In this discussion it is important to consider what kind of sustainable development societies really want. Which innovations will help in achieving these developments? What role can research and public policies play in supporting the emergence of these innovations? This book takes the debate beyond the purely technical options and considers social and institutional innovations as well. It demonstrates that innovation is the result of a confrontation between visions of actors who often have divergent interests. There is no single path towards sustainable development and we must find ways to encourage the emergence and co existence of different types of agriculture and food systems. The success of transitions will not only depend on our capacity to rethink existing models but especially on our willingness to embark on a creative learning process from which we will inevitably emerge transformed.
