AIDS Michael Pollak, Geneviève Paicheler, Janine Pierret, 1992 Published in cooperation with the International Sociological Association A timely and important volume AIDS provides an overview of social science research approaches theories and methodologies in the field of AIDS research Drawing on international and interdisciplinary work in the social sciences this volume covers such topics as the shaping of social representations of AIDS public attitudes towards AIDS theoretical problems specific to AIDS management the development of preventive policies the organization of self help services and changes in sexual behavior and research into sexuality Anyone concerned with the social cultural and political analysis of AIDS will want to add this significant volume to their collection The book is well written and very readable It is a welcome addition to the growing literature on AIDS and society It is excellent for introducing sociology of health and illness to undergraduate students in sociology as well as medicine social work or nursing studies As an overview of current sociological research it is also a useful introduction for researchers The book highlights issues such as the limitations of medical science issues of power stigma stereotypes cultural differences between nations and different groups in society to name but a few It is the kind of book I would personally recommend to policy makers Having read this book I feel that Pollak's death is a sad loss to the international sociological community Sociology of Health and Illness The Social Construction of AIDS Issues

Suiming Pan, 2022-01-07 This book explores AIDS from a relatively macro perspective rather than concrete operational methods and focuses on the social construction of AIDS issues instead of its transmission level in the context of China First it begins with the theoretical analysis and the social significance of AIDS which is different from the simple conflict between different schools of thought Second it analyses the contest of various social powers in the process of AIDS construction and conclusion rather than making different explanations of policies Last but not least it elaborates on the central proposition i.e. the AIDS issue is a symbol of China's social restructuring process Only in an effort to advance such a process can we be more likely to find the best problem solving mode rather than clamouring repeatedly or giving countermeasures alone A

Moatti, Annick Prieur, Theo Sandfort, Yves Souteyrand, 2002-09-09 Major changes in the nature and dynamics of the AIDS epidemic over the last few years are reflected in changing epidemiological trends as well as in the progress made in biomedical research and treatment AIDS in Europe brings together papers from leading social science researchers to look at the opportunities and challenges these changes bring and the different ways in which they are being responded to in both western and eastern Europe Papers are organised under three headings new challenges for HIV prevention care of people living with HIV AIDS in a new therapeutic context AIDS public policies from specialisation to normalisation AIDS in Europe provides a comprehensive overview of current social and behavioural research on HIV and AIDS for all health professionals success arguing that these can only be made at the cost of excluding categories such as intravenous drug users the incarcerated and homosexuals who continue to experience extraordinarily high levels of levels of HIV infection Considered deviant and undeserving these persons have deliberately been excluded from harm reduction programs Overall this work argues for the untapped potential of anthropological research in the health field a confident anthropology rooted in ethnography and a critical reflexivity Crucially it argues that in context of interdisciplinary collaborations anthropological research must refuse relegation to the status of an adjunct discipline and must be free epistemologically and methodologically from the universalizing assumptions and practices of biomedicine
