Come In 1995 during a heated discussion about that year's Taiwan crisis a Chinese general remarked to a U S diplomat In the end you care more about Los Angeles than you do about Taipei In a single sentence he both questioned the level of America's commitment to a longtime ally and threatened massive perhaps nuclear retaliation should the United States intervene militarily on Taiwan's behalf In the end President Clinton sent two aircraft carriers to the region and China ceased its military exercises in the Taiwan Strait A decade later however China is much stronger both economically and militarily and it holds a significant amount of America's national debt If another Taiwan crisis should occur as it almost certainly will would China back down In A War Like No Other you'll discover how little it would take to transform the close cooperation and friendly rivalry between the United States and the People's Republic of China into the first ever shooting war between two nuclear powers This chilling look into one possible future offers thoughtful advice to both governments on how to reduce the chances of such a nightmare actually occurring Two Brookings Institution scholars offer specific prescriptions on how the two nations can improve communications especially in times of crisis avoid risky behavior even when provoked and above all remember which buttons not to push Airpower, Afghanistan, and the Future of Warfare: An Alternative View Craig D.
