Alcohol in Postwar Europe ,2002 Alcohol in postwar Europe Thor Norström,2000 Handbook of European Homicide Research Marieke C. A. Liem,William Alex Pridemore,2011-10-17 This comprehensive work provides a sourcebook of information about the substantive methodological and policy oriented aspects of homicide research in Europe Part one of this work covers the most recent substantive and methodological information about European homicide research The second part will contains detailed case studies on homicide research in 15 20 individual European nations This work will be both conceptual and practical conceptual and practical Conceptual aspects will focus on theoretical frameworks and patterns and trends of violence in Europe Practical aspects will examine the results of empirical research topics relating to different data sources and the variation of legal definitions of violence throughout Europe and policy issues relating to variation in homicide prevention and punishment of homicide offenders throughout Europe This handbook will not only provide an up to date reference that brings together known information but will also offer previously unpublished comprehensive literature reviews and original research findings The editors distinctive approach is to provide readers with an English language central source of information about the voluminous literature on European homicide research that is currently spread widely in dozens of different European and American journals Alcohol in Postwar Europe ,2002 The Economics of Beer Johan F. M. Swinnen,2011-10-27 Beer has been consumed across the globe for centuries and was the drink of choice in many ancient societies Today it is the most important alcoholic drink worldwide in terms of volume and value The largest brewing companies have developed into global multinationals and the beer market has enjoyed strong growth in emerging economies but there has been a substantial decline of beer consumption in traditional markets and a shift to new products There is close interaction between governments and markets in the beer industry For centuries taxes on beer or its raw materials have been a major source of tax revenue and governments have regulated the beer industry for reasons related to quality health and competition This book is the first economic analysis of the beer market and brewing industry The introduction provides an economic history of beer from monasteries in the early Middle Ages to the recent microbrewery movement whilst other chapters consider whether people drink more beer during recessions the effect of television on local breweries and what makes a country a beer drinking nation It comprises a comprehensive and unique set of economic research and analysis on the economics of beer and brewing and covers economic history and development supply and demand trade and investment geography and scale economies technology and innovation health and nutrition quantity and quality industrial organization and competition taxation and regulation and regional beer market developments Youth Drinking Cultures Margaretha Järvinen,Robin Room,2017-03-02 How can binge drinking be explained and understood Is alcohol consumption related to the particular cultural characteristics of some European countries Should heavy drinking cultures be seen as a mainstream youth phenomenon or as marginal and is this different in different countries A team of leading researchers addresses these questions and more in their analysis of the alcohol consumption patterns of European young people Alcohol consumption is an important marker of transition from childhood to early adulthood yet the timing intensity and purpose of adolescent drinking varies dramatically between countries The contributors provide cross national comparisons to investigate how drinking behaviour varies examining factors such as gender societal context and family socio economic backgrounds Youth Drinking Cultures offers a comprehensive set of perspectives on adolescent drinking in Europe In linking issues around social identity and the life course with a highly topical area of media and policy concern the book will be of great value to sociology and social policy scholars especially youth researchers and also to professionals working with young people Working Together to Reduce Harmful Drinking Marcus Grant, Mark

Leverton, 2009-10-05 This book is intended to contribute to the World Health Organization's WHO global strategy to reduce the harmful use of alcohol It explores areas where alcohol producers technical competence can and does make a positive contribution to reducing harmful drinking and where industry input has been welcomed by WHO The book describes each of these areas producing beer wine and spirits addressing availability of noncommercial beverages pricing marketing and selling beverage alcohol encouraging responsible choices and working with others The final chapter sets out views of how alcohol producers can contribute to reducing harmful drinking in countries where they are present The messages recurring throughout the book are that reasonable regulation provides the context for good alcohol policy excessive regulation often leads to unintended negative consequences leading producers have a proud record of making positive contributions to implementing effective alcohol policies but there are opportunities to do much more Alcohol Research & Health, 2003

abuse as a behavioural disease and the associated costs The author details alcohol's status as a psychoactive drug he notes however that in contrast to other psychoactive drugs alcohol has been widely culturally accepted in Western countries and legally available except in isolated incidents for a short period of time Joshua considers which policies are being correctly utilised so as to reduce the abuse of alcohol and how these policies may operate on a supply and demand model Whereas programs of prevention and treatment operate on the demand side of alcohol abuse legislation is directed at the supply side of alcohol that is dealing with marketing product promotion point of sale and price This is the second title in a four volume series The Economics of Addictive Behaviours consisting of three additional volumes on smoking illicit drug abuse and overeating Social and Economic Control of Alcohol Carole L. EUROHIS A. Nosikov, Claire Gudex, 2003 The EUROHIS project has focused on the comparability of health surveys and has uncovered some problems that arise when aiming to compare data from different countries Similar problems of cross cultural comparability also arise when comparing data from other sources such as health registers and are just as complex and difficult to tackle One of the main advantages of health surveys however is the relatively low cost and time involved in adapting them according to the needs of health policy makers This work shows that the output from the EUROHIS project provides common instruments for the measurement of eight health indicators The development of these instruments has required careful consideration of relevant common concepts and how these should be defined and operationalized The instruments are freely available for use by all countries with the aim of enhancing national health information systems and facilitating cross national comparisons of health data Global Status Report, 2004-07-23

The Global Status Report on Alcohol 2004 is a new edition of the Report published by WHO in 1999 This edition provides an update of the role of alcohol in global health and contains data not found in the earlier edition The Report seeks to document what is known about alcohol consumption and drinking patterns among various population groups alcohol's impact on health worldwide and what is needed on a global basis to prevent and reduce alcohol related injury and disease For this new edition more emphasis has been placed on enhancing the comparability of data by setting clear and comprehens Substance Use in a Comparative Perspective Arnošt Veselý, Dagmar Džúrová, 2013-10-01 The book follows two main objectives First it aims at putting together different pieces of evidence on developments of substance use and risk behavior in five post communist countries over time Thus first objective is to build a complex and reliable empirical evidence base for empirical comparison and identify evidence gaps Second we try to analyze and interpret such developments using both quantitative and qualitative analysis and to relate them to the formulated theoretical framework Since available empirical evidence is often far from conclusive the findings presented are sometimes rather exploratory and should be tested by further and more detailed research The book is structured as follows At the beginning we review various factors that have been found to be associated with substance use We try to present them in a complex and systematic way and create a conceptual framework for understanding and explaining substance use in a comparative way Next chapter describes the developments of substance use over time in five countries analyzed This description is based upon publicly available WHO data along with supplementary comments and interpretations by national experts Next chapter is devoted to country profiles of all five countries involved in the project and in depth overviews of developments in their respective substance use situations All reviews are written according to the same structure thus facilitating comparison The last chapter presents a multilevel analysis of substance use in the Czech Republic combining data for individuals and regions
