pathways for art history Throughout Chinese history dynastic time the organization of history through the lens of successive dynasties has been the dominant mode of narrating the story of Chinese art even though there has been little examination of this concept in discourse and practice until now Chinese Art and Dynastic Time uncovers how the development of Chinese art was described in its original cultural sociopolitical and artistic contexts and how these narratives were interwoven with contemporaneous artistic creation In doing so leading art historian Wu Hung opens up new pathways for the consideration of not only Chinese art but also the whole of art history Wu Hung brings together ten case studies ranging from the third millennium BCE to the early twentieth century CE and spanning ritual and religious art painting sculpture the built environment and popular art in order to examine the deep rooted patterns in the historical conceptualization of Chinese art Elucidating the changing notions of dynastic time in various contexts he also challenges the preoccupation with this concept as the default mode in art historical writing This critical investigation of dynastic time thus constitutes an essential foundation to pursue new narrative and interpretative frameworks in thinking about art history Remarkable for the sweep and scope of its arguments and lucid style Chinese Art and Dynastic Time probes the roots of the collective imagination in Chinese art and frees us from long held perspectives on how this art should be understood Published in association with the Center for Advanced Study in the Visual Arts National Gallery of Art Washington DC

History of Science, History of Text Karine Chemla, 2005-08-01 two main interacting ways They constitute that with which exploration into problems or questions is carried out But they also constitute that which is exchanged between scholars or in other terms that which is shaped by one or by some for use by others In these various dimensions texts obviously depend on the means and technologies available for producing reproducing using and organizing writings In this regard the contribution of a history of text is essential in helping us approach the various historical contexts from which our sources originate However there is more to it While shaping texts as texts the practitioners of the sciences may create new textual resources that intimately relate to the research carried on One may think for instance of the process of introduction of formulas in mathematical texts This aspect opens up a whole range of extremely interesting questions to which we will return at a later point But practitioners of the sciences also rely on texts produced by themselves or others which they bring into play in various ways More generally they make use of textual resources of every kind that is available to them reshaping them restricting or enlarging them Among these one can think of ways of naming syntax of statements or grammatical analysis literary techniques modes of shaping texts or parts of text genres of text and so on In this sense the practitioners depend on and draw on the textual cultures available to the social and professional groups to which they belong historical context Alfreda Murck shows that certain paintings expressed strong political opinions some transparent others deliberately concealed She argues that the coding of messages in seemingly innocuous paintings was an important factor in the growing respect for painting among the educated elite and that the capacity of painting s systems of reference to allow scholars to express dissent with impunity contributed to the art s vitality and longevity      Commentaries on Law & Public Policy Robert McGee,2005-01-27 This journal published by Robert McGee deals with commentaries on law and public policy
