Altered Pasts Richard J. Evans, 2014-02-04 A bullet misses its target in Sarajevo a would be Austrian painter gets into the Viennese academy Lord Halifax becomes British prime minister in 1940 instead of Churchill seemingly minor twists of fate on which world shaking events might have hinged Alternative history has long been the stuff of parlor games war gaming and science fiction but over the past few decades it has become a popular stomping ground for serious historians The historian Richard J Evans now turns a critical slightly jaundiced eye on a subject typically the purview of armchair historians The book's main concern is examining the intellectual fallout from historical counterfactuals which the author defines as alternative versions of the past in which one alteration in the timeline leads to a different outcome from the one we know actually occurred What if Britain had stood at the sidelines during the First World War What if the Wehrmacht had taken Moscow The author offers an engaging and insightful introduction to the genre while discussing the reasons for its revival in popularity the role of historical determinism and the often hidden agendas of the counterfactual historian Most important Evans takes counterfactual history seriously looking at the insights pitfalls and intellectual implications of changing one thread in the weave of history A wonderful critical introduction to an often overlooked genre for scholars and casual readers of history alike

Interactive Multiple-representation Editing of Physically-based 3D Animation

Wayne Alfred Christopher, 1994 Abstract In recent years much work has been done on realistic animation It is now possible to simulate and animate a variety of different types of objects and physical effects However little attention has been paid to the problem of interactively creating and editing realistic animated scenes Developing and modifying such scenes is still a batch oriented process that depends on trial and error Animation editing for non realistic scenes has also undergone rapid development Presentation graphics systems keyframe based editors and virtual reality based interactive tools for a variety of purposes have been designed However physical realism is missing from these systems The principal result of this dissertation is the design and implementation of the Asgard animation system an editor for creating physically based 3D animation Asgard provides the user with a flexible multiple representation editing interface which allows both direct manipulation graphical definition and modification of the scene and textual editing of a formal description of the objects forces and other parameters of the animation Multiple instances of each type of view can be created all of which are synchronized Such an interface allows the user to utilize the most convenient and effective tools for each task in the definition of the scene Asgard also includes a differential equation solution technique that is adapted to the problem of physically based animation which uses an event driven scheduling algorithm to take maximum advantage of the differing time varying properties of different components in the scene while at the same time minimizing the penalties involved with collision detection and response This algorithm partitions the state equation graph of the scene into strongly connected components which also allows Asgard to preserve as much previously computed data as possible when editing changes are made by the user Asgard is part of the multi media document processing system Ensemble Animated scenes can be integrated with multi media documents as well as developed on their own
