Alvestad, Elena Woodacre, 2018-02-01 Pop culture portrayals of medieval and early modern monarchs are rife with tension between authenticity and modern mores producing anachronisms such as a feminist Queen Isabel in RTVE's Isabel and a lesbian Queen Christina in The Girl King This book examines these anachronisms as a dialogue between premodern and postmodern ideas about gender and sexuality raising questions of intertemporality the interpretation of history and the dangers of presentism Covering a range of famous and lesser known European monarchs on screen from Elizabeth I to Muhammad XII of Granada this book addresses how the lives of powerful women and men have been mythologized in order to appeal to today's audiences The contributors interrogate exactly what is at stake in these portrayals namely our understanding of premodern rulers the gender and sexual ideologies they navigated and those that we navigate today

Bertrand Tavernier Lynn A. Higgins, T. Jefferson Kline, 2016-09-23 Bertrand Tavernier 1941-2021 was widely considered to be the leading light in a generation of French filmmakers who launched their careers in the 1970s in the wake of the New Wave In just over forty years he directed twenty-two feature films in an eclectic range of genres from intimate family portrait to historical drama and neo-Western Beginning with his debut feature L'Horloger de Saint Paul 1974 which won the prestigious Louis Delluc Prize Tavernier showed himself to be a public intellectual Like his films he was deeply engaged with the pressing issues facing France and the world the consequences of war colonialism and its continuing aftermath the price of heroism and the power of art A voracious cinephile he was immensely knowledgeable about world cinema and American film in particular Tavernier's roots were in Lyon the birthplace of the cinema He founded and presided over the Institut Lumi re which hosts retrospectives and an annual film festival in the factory where the Lumi re brothers made the first films In this collection containing numerous interviews translated from French and available in English for the first time he discusses the arc of his career following in the lineage of the Lumi re brothers in that his goal like theirs is to show the world to the world It is no surprise then that an interview with Tavernier is a treat Beginning with discussions of his own films the interviews in this volume cover a vast range of topics At the core are his thoughts about the ways cinema can inspire the imagination and contribute to the broadest possible public conversation     Bertrand Tavernier, cinéaste insurgé Jean-Luc Douin, 2006

Landscapes of Loss Naomi Greene, 1999-04-18 In this book Naomi Greene makes new sense of the rich variety of postwar French films by exploring the obsession with the national past that has characterized French cinema since the late 1960s Observing that the sense of grandeur and destiny that once shaped French identity has eroded under the weight of recent history Greene examines the ways in which French cinema has represented traumatic and defining moments of the nation's past the political battles of the 1930s the Vichy era decolonization the collapse of ideologies Drawing upon a broad spectrum of films and directors she shows how postwar films have reflected contemporary concerns even as they have created images and myths that have helped determine the contours of French memory This study of the intricate links between French history memory and cinema begins by examining the long shadow cast by the Vichy past and shifting political and historical perspectives toward the nation's more distant past which also emerged in these years Finally the mood of nostalgia and melancholy that appears to haunt contemporary France is analyzed in the context of films about the nation's imperial past as well as those that hark back to a golden age a remembered paradis perdu of French cinema itself
