A Place Called Nunavut Karin Irma Margot van Dam, Kim van Dam, 2008 In 1999 Nunavut Territory was created in the Canadian Arctic The area is about 50 times as large as the Netherlands and is inhabited by a population of 30 000 85% of the population is Inuit the indigenous people in this area The central questions in this research project are what place or regional identities are being ascribed to Nunavut by different groups of people from within and from outside the region and how do these identities work In the process of the formation of the region the territorial Government of Nunavut is an important actor in producing a regional identity that is based on the cultural identity of the Inuit the Inuit Homeland This official regional identity creates a symbolic unity that is important in linking people to the region and through which the land the history and the people are united in a new territorial membership However there is no reason to assume that there is only one regional identity for Nunavut Different individuals or groups of people from within and from outside the region such as the people who live in one of the 25 communities and those who work for the multinational mining corporations or as tourist operators are also involved in the production and reproduction of identities for Nunavut They represent Nunavut for example as a place to live a resource region a wilderness or as a sustainable place Nunavut Government also links these alternative identities to the area because as a government they are not only interested in protecting Inuit culture but also aim to modernize the economy in order to enhance prosperity and well being As such the place identities are hybrid and identities that before were produced only by external actors are now also being produced by internal actors and vice versa The Unfulfilled Promise of Press Freedom in Canada Lisa Taylor, Cara-Marie O'Hagan, 2017-04-24 Canadian news reports are riddled with accounts of Access to Information requests denied and government reports released with large swaths of content redacted The Unfulfilled Promise of Press Freedom in Canada offers a vast array of viewpoints that critically analyze the application and interpretation of press freedom under the Charter of Rights This collection assiduously put together by editors Lisa Taylor and Cara Marie O Hagan showcases the insights of leading authorities in law journalism and academia as well as broadcasters and public servants The contributors explore the ways in which press freedom has been constrained by outside forces like governmental interference threats of libel suits and financial constraints These intersectional and multifaceted lines of inquiry provide the reader with a 360 degree assessment of press freedom in Canada while discouraging complacency among Canadian citizens After all an informed citizenry is a free citizenry Canadian Books in Print 2002 Edited by Butler Marian, Marian Butler, 2002-02 Containing more than 48000 titles of which approximately 4000 have a 2001 imprint the author and title index is extensively cross referenced It offers a complete directory of Canadian publishers available listing the names and ISBN prefixes as well as the street e mail and web addresses The Writer's Directory, 1998-2000 Miranda H.
