The Culture of Sex in Ancient China Paul R. Goldin, 2001-10-31 The subject of sex was central to early Chinese thought Discussed openly and seriously as a fundamental topic of human speculation it was an important source of imagery and terminology that informed the classical Chinese conception of social and political relationships This sophisticated and long standing tradition however has been all but neglected by modern historians In The Culture of Sex in Ancient China Paul Rakita Goldin addresses central issues in the history of Chinese attitudes toward sex and gender from 500 B C to A D 400 A survey of major pre imperial sources including some of the most revered and influential texts in the Chinese tradition reveals the use of the image of copulation as a metaphor for various human relations such as those between a worshiper and his or her deity or a ruler and his subjects In his examination of early Confucian views of women Goldin notes that while contradictions and ambiguities existed in the articulation of these views women were nevertheless regarded as full participants in the Confucian project of self transformation He goes on to show how assumptions concerning the relationship of sexual behavior to political activity assumptions reinforced by the habitual use of various literary tropes discussed earlier in the book led to increasing attempts to regulate sexual behavior throughout the Han dynasty Following the fall of the Han this ideology was rejected by the aristocracy who continually resisted claims of sovereignty made by impotent emperors in a succession of short lived dynasties Erudite and immensely entertaining this study of intellectual conceptions of sex and sexuality in China will be welcomed by students and scholars of early China and by those with an interest in the comparative development of ancient cultures

Sedlar, 1970 The Oxford Handbook of Classical Chinese Literature (1000 BCE-900 CE) Wiebke Denecke, Wai-yee Li, Xiaofei Tian, 2017 This volume introduces readers to classical Chinese literature from its beginnings ca 10th century BCE to the tenth century BCE through a conceptual framework centered on textual production and transmission It focuses on recuperating historical perspectives for the period it surveys and attempts to draw connections between the past and present Rhetoric in Ancient China, Fifth to Third Century B.C.E Xing Lu, 2022-03-10 Xing Lu examines language art persuasion and argumentation in ancient China and offers a detailed and authentic account of ancient Chinese rhetorical theories and practices within the society's philosophical, political, cultural, and linguistic contexts. She focuses on the works of five schools of thought and ten well-known Chinese thinkers from Confucius to Han Feizi to the Later Mohists. Lu identifies seven key Chinese terms pertaining to speech, language, persuasion, and argumentation as they appeared in these original texts, selecting ming bian as the linchpin for the Chinese conceptual term of rhetorical studies. Lu compares Chinese rhetorical perspectives with those of the ancient Greeks, illustrating that the Greeks and the Chinese shared a view of rhetoric as an ethical enterprise and of speech as a rational and psychological activity. The two traditions differed, however, in their rhetorical education, sense of rationality, perceptions of the role of language, approach to the treatment and study of rhetoric, and expression of emotions. Lu also links ancient Chinese rhetorical perspectives with contemporary Chinese interpersonal and political communication behavior and offers suggestions for a multicultural rhetoric that recognizes both culturally specific and transcultural elements of human communication.

Law and Morality in Ancient China Randall P. Peerenboom, 1993-01-01 Huang Lao thought a unique and sophisticated political philosophy which combines elements of Daoism and Legalism, dominated the intellectual life of late Warring States and Early Han China, providing the ideological foundation for post-Qin reforms. In the absence of extant texts, however, scholars of classical Chinese philosophy remained in the dark about this important school for over 2000 years. Finally, in 1973, archaeologists unearthed four ancient silk scrolls, the Silk Manuscripts of Huang Lao. This work is the first detailed, book-length treatment in English of these lost treasures.

Classical Chinese Literature John Minford, Joseph S. M. Lau, 2000 The Worlds of Classical Chinese Aesthetics Paul R. Goldin, 2024-03-12 This book presents the foundations of classical Chinese aesthetic discourse, roughly from the Bronze Age to the early Middle Ages, with the following animating questions: What is art? Why do we produce it? How do we judge it? The arts that garnered the most theoretical attention during this time period were music, poetry, calligraphy, and painting, and this book considers the reasons why these four were privileged. Whereas modern artists most likely consider themselves musicians or poets or calligraphers or painters or sculptors or architects, the pre-modern authors who produced the literature that established Chinese aesthetics prided themselves on being wenren, cultured people conversant with all forms of art and learning. Other comparisons with Western theories and works of art are presented at due junctures. Key Features: Addresses Chinese aesthetic discourse on its own terms. Provides comparisons of key concepts and theories with examples from Western sources. Includes more coverage of primary sources than any other English language book on the subject. Each chapter opens with a helpful summary highlighting the chapter's key themes.
