HARRISON BERGERON

by Kurt Vonnegut, Jr.

THE YEAR WAS 2081, AND everybody was finally equal. They weren't only equal before God and the law, they were equal every which way. Nobody was smarter than anybody else; nobody was better looking than anybody else; nobody was stronger or quicker than anybody else. All this equality was due to the 211th, 212th, and 213th Amendments to the Constitution, and to the unceasing vigilance of agents of the United States Handicapper General.

Some things about living still weren't quite right, though. April, for instance, still drove people crazy by not being springtime. And it was in that clammy month that the H-G men took George and Hazel Bergeron's fourteen-year-old son, Harrison, away.

It was tragic, all right, but George and Hazel couldn't think about it very hard. Hazel had a perfectly average intelligence, which meant she couldn't think about anything except in short bursts. And George, while his intelligence was way above normal, had a little mental handicap radio in his ear—he was required by law to wear it at all times. It was tuned to a government transmitter, and every twenty seconds or so, the transmitter would send out some sharp noise to keep people like George from taking unfair advantage of their brains.

George and Hazel were watching television. There were tears on Hazel's cheeks, but she'd forgotten for the moment what they were about, as the ballerinas came to the end of a dance.

A buzzer sounded in George's head. His thoughts fled in panic, like bandits from a burglar alarm.

"That was a real pretty dance, that dance they just did," said Hazel.

"Huh?" said George.

"That dance--it was nice," said Hazel.

"Yup," said George. He tried to think a little about the ballerinas. They weren't really very good—

Knoll,2022-08-03 Founded in 1869 the University of Nebraska was given the awesome responsibility of educating a new state barely connected by roads and rail lines Established as a comprehensive university uniting the arts and sciences commerce and agriculture and open to all regardless of age sex color or nationality it has as its motto Literis dedicata et omnibus artibus dedicated to letters and all the arts The University at first was confined to four city blocks and didn t have a building until 1871 Cows grazed the campus But soon the high aspirations of the state began to be realized Nebraska boasted the first department of psychology west of the Mississippi River and its faculty included national prominent scholars like botanist Charles Bessey and linguist A H Edgren later a member of the Nobel Commission Willa Cather Roscoe Pound Mari Sandoz and Louise Pound ranked among its early graduates And it developed a reputation for excellence in collegiate athletics Written by a beloved member of the faculty this history shows both why Robert E Knoll is so devoted to the University as well as the tests such devotion must endure Its history is hardly one of placid growth and unimpeded progress Its regents administration faculty and students have periodically fought one another sometimes over matters as crucial as the University s purpose shape and destination More often battles waged over personalities It is to these personalities that Knoll directs most of his attention The author focuses on the men and women who made a difference for good or ill He locates the University's place in the changing intellectual and academic context of the United States and charts its passage through hard times and prosperity. He notes the contributions of the University to Nebraska from the early experiments in sugar beet cultivation to the national fame of its football team. Most important, its education of generations of Nebraskans has lifted state goals and achievement and its outreach has made the University an international community.
