Classroom Observer Developing Observation Skills In Early Childhood Settings:

Classroom Observer Ann E. Boehm, Richard A. Weinberg, 1997 Systematic observation is essential for educators to evaluate properly the effectiveness of curricula and to address the problems of individual students This new third edition emphasizes early childhood and focuses on those skills that will enable the observer to make appropriate valid inferences and to arrive at decisions based on objective observation data gathered in natural learning environments and diverse educational settings Includes new focuses on Procedures for observing environmental factors that affect learning and behavior The importance of understanding the cultural and linguistic characteristics of children s learning environments The key role of observation in the assessment process The forms of observation with illustrative examples The exploration of reliability sampling behavior recording formats summarizing observational outcomes and validity Using photographs sample worksheets a simple format and straight forward language the authors cite fascinating real life examples from early childhood that can be applied to a variety of classroom experiences The Classroom Observer provides the foundation for learning how to watch children in systematic and child focused ways The authors make the critical and often underappreciated point that keen insight into children s development may be learned and that while many early childhood educators already watch children much can be gained from systematic observation I believe that this book provides a basis for critical reflection upon one s own observation skills From the Foreword by Jeanne Brooks Gunn The Classroom Observer Ann E. Boehm, Richard A. Weinberg, 1987-01-01

Peacebuilding Legacy Sukanya Podder, 2022-08-08 A fundamental challenge plagues the global peacebuilding community How can technocratic approaches to peacebuilding that are rooted in short term project based execution of activities further the longer term transformative outcomes like altering young people s attitudes and beliefs about peace and violence In response to this global challenge in Peacebuilding Legacy Sukanya Podder analyzes the long term effects of peacebuilding programmes involving children and young people Podder unpacks the concept of peacebuilding legacy through the lens of time transformation and intergenerational peace Podder also develops unique qualitative cues for measuring legacy in terms of the institutional normative and organizational logics If norms resonate strongly with the local context they are likely to encourage strong retention and meaningful adoption over time Successful institutionalization of project models through planned handover to successor national organizations or government departments holds the key to stronger local ownership Organizational learning and reflection can support this process through a more strategic approach to programming and through post exit studies Regarding attitude change Podder found that the media and peace education projects that targeted individuals ingrained beliefs and values but overlooked the role of group social norms had only limited persuasive effects To shift the values practices norms and beliefs of the younger generation the mindset of the older generation must also be targeted Changes in the legal political economic and other social institutions are critical for long term and meaningful transformation This requires adopting an ecological model of peace
