Articulating With Difficulty:

Articulating with Difficulty Peter Clough, Len Barton, 1998 Articulating with Difficulty is an excellent collection and comes highly recommended. It follows Peter Clough and Len Barton's earlier and controversial collection Making Difficulties 1995 and draws on a wide range of perspectives in disability inclusive education and Special Education Needs (SEN) research to tease out key issues on voice. All contributors share a willingness to engage seriously with challenges thrown down by disabled academics and activists that they do from different standpoints in another strength of this collection. Disability the voices of the researchers as well as those of the disabled.

Psychological Masquerade Robert L. Taylor MD, 2007-02-27 When faced with a patient whose psychological symptoms may stem from an organic or medical condition rather than psychology, how does the practitioner determine exactly which is the true case? To facilitate this process and give psychologists, social workers, and nurses a useable guide to assessment Robert Taylor created Psychological Masquerade and has updated it to be the most complete handbook you will ever need in the field. New chapters on violent behavior, amnesia and dementia, sex obsession, and Munchausen by Proxy fill out the guide and numerous case studies help clarify diagnostic criteria and provide a welcome hands-on approach to caring for clients in this delicate balance. As a further enhancement of the text, assessment tool self-tests for hypothetical cases are included as are specific clinical tests that aid in clue gathering. This is the perfect clinical guide for any practitioner who is likely to come into contact with psychological masquerade among their clients and will be a welcome addition to the practitioner's toolbox.

Articulating Intersex: A Crisis at the Intersection of Scientific Facts and Social Ideals Natalie Delimata, 2019-09-26 This book explores the ethical dilemma clinicians may face when disclosing a diagnosis of atypical sex. The moment of disclosure reveals an epistemic incompatibility between scientific fact and social meaning in relation to sex. Attempting to assess the bio psychosocial implications of this dilemma highlights a complex historic antagonism between fact and meaning, making satisfactory resolution of this dilemma difficult. Drawing on David Hume, WVO Quine, and Michel Foucault, the author presents an integrative model which views scientific fact and social meaning as codetermining threads in one fabric of knowledge. From this epistemic perspective, the ethical dilemma is understood as a tear in the fabric signifying a rupturing of ontological integrity. To mend this tear and resolve the ethical dilemma, three metaphysical perspectives are considered: essentialism, naturalism, and emergentism. The book's unique features include an exploration of the impact of diagnostic disclosure on people with atypical sex, intersex, a synthesis of the epistemic perspectives of social and natural science, facilitating interdisciplinary collaboration, a critical evaluation of three metaphysical perspectives on atypical sex, intersex, the application of Hume's epistemological and moral distinctions to contemporary biomedicine and bioethics. The book's target audience includes academics, students, and professionals whose work intersects the natural and social sciences and individuals interested in the metaphysics epistemology and meta ethics of sex

Being the substance of the introductory course of lectures and practical instruction in public Charles John PLUMPTRE,1870 Articulating a Thought Eli Alshanetsky,2019 Articulating a thought can be astoundingly easy We generally have no trouble expressing complex ideas that we have never considered before though not always Articulating a thought can also be extremely hard Our difficulties in articulating thoughts pervade many aspects of philosophical inquiry as well as many ordinary situations While we may overcome some of the challenges through education and practice we cannot do away with them altogether And the hardest thoughts to articulate often come to us unbidden as we neither assemble them from other thoughts nor get them from any source of external information They can come from us freely and spontaneously and frequently we articulate them in order to find out what they are In many cases we would not bother articulating our thoughts if we already had this knowledge yet when we find the right words we can often instantly tell that they express our thought How do we manage to recognize the formulations of our thoughts in the absence of prior knowledge of what we are thinking And why is it that producing a public language formulation contributes in any way to the deeply private undertaking of coming to know our own thoughts In Articulating a Thought Eli Alshanetsky considers how we make our thoughts clear to ourselves in the process of putting them into words and examines the paradox of those difficult cases where we do not already know what we are struggling to articulate Intelligent Tutoring Systems James C.
