Riaño,2018-01-02 Excerpt from The Industrial Arts in Spain The Greek and Latin authors who have described the Spanish Peninsula state that the quantity of gold and silver ore found there was very great and that hence the district became an important centre of commercial activity of Phoenicians Carthaginians Greeks and Romans Some authors have gone so far as to assert that the Phoenicians made the anchors of their ships of gold and silver and that the Carthaginians were astonished to find in Andalusia that the mangers and vases for holding wine and oil were made of the same materials These references have been constantly mentioned in ancient Spanish authors Ambrosio de Morales in his Antiquedades de España Alcala I 577 enters into every detail on this subject About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works Art in Spain and Portugal Marcel Dieulafoy,1929 Art-Union ,1841 Vol for 1867 includes Illustrated catalogue of the Paris Universal Exhibition Documenting Spain: Artists, Exhibition Culture, and the Modern Nation, 1929-1939 , The news media have given us potent demonstrations of the ambiguity of ostensibly truthful representations of public events Jordana Mendelson uses this ambiguity as a framework for the study of Spanish visual culture from 1929 to 1939 a decade marked on the one hand by dictatorship civil war and Franco's rise to power and on the other by a surge in the production of documentaries of various types from films and photographs to international exhibitions Mendelson begins with an examination of El Pueblo Español a model Spanish village featured at the 1929 International Exposition in Barcelona She then discusses Buñuel's and Dalí's documentary films relating them not only to French Surrealism but also to issues of rural tradition in the formation of regional and national identities Her highly original book concludes with a discussion of the 1937 Spanish Pavilion where Picasso's famed painting of the Fascist bombing of a Basque town Guernica was exhibited along with monumental photomurals by Josep Renau Based upon years of archival research Mendelson's book opens a new perspective on the cultural politics of a turbulent era in modern Spain It explores the little known yet rich intersection between avant garde artists and government institutions It shows as well the surprising extent to which Spanish modernity was fashioned through dialogue between the seemingly opposed fields of urban and rural fine art and mass culture Annals of the Artists of Spain William Stirling Maxwell,1891 Anecdotes of Eminent
