concept of the collective to economics nuclear power cap and trade renewable energy and the politics of climate change Everest and Bedogne do something much needed and remarkably absent in today's media They strip away the layers of liberal and conservative ideology to look at the most talked about topics of our time from the standpoint of what the politicians have forgotten common sense Brought to light by logic history and science the book filters the issues that in today's world every citizen student and educator needs to understand through what we know to be sound that which we have gained through our day to day trials our all too often repressed ability to see things in a practical and matter of fact way

How War Began Keith F. Otterbein, 2004 Have humans always fought and killed each other or did they peacefully coexist until organized states developed Is war an expression of human nature or an artifact of civilization Questions about the origins and inherent motivations of warfare have long engaged philosophers ethicists and anthropologists as they speculate on the nature of human existence In How War Began author Keith F Otterbein draws on primate behavior research archaeological research and data gathered from the Human Relations Area Files to argue for two separate origins He identifies two types of military organization one that developed two million years ago at the dawn of humankind wherever groups of hunters met and a second that developed some five thousand years ago in four identifiable regions when the first states arose and proceeded to embark upon military conquests In careful detail Otterbein marshals evidence for his case that warfare was possible and likely among early Homo sapiens He argues from comparison with other primates from Paleolithic rock art depicting wounded humans and from rare skeletal remains embedded with weapon points to conclude that warfare existed and reached a peak in big game hunting societies As the big game disappeared so did warfare only to reemerge once agricultural societies achieved a degree of political complexity that allowed the development of professional military organizations Otterbein concludes his survey with an analysis of how despotism in both ancient and modern states spawns warfare A definitive resource for anthropologists social scientists and historians How War Began is written for all who are interested in warfare whether they be military buffs or those seeking to understand the past and the present of humankind Publisher The Imminent Collapse of America and of the Whole Western Civilization Angelo

Bertolo, 2012-09-25 In the 5000 years of the history that we know great empires grew and fell according to certain patterns that repeat themselves like laws of nature The USA rose and grew to prominence in the world reached its zenith in 1945 with the military victory and with the atom bomb but is not destined to stay there forever The book tries to draw the attention to the signs of decadence that match the patterns of the decadence of previous empires in history and the patterns of growth of progress in other cultural milieus very few pundits in America and in the western media in general seem to be aware of this fact The birth rates keep diminishing in America and are very low in Europe In other civilisations the birth rates have been high and those countries count more in the world today politically and economically than a few generations ago In addition the irrational and passionate attitude of those peoples including the aggressive suicidal attitude with religious and political connotations is a sign of progress for them Those people who are in favour of family planning programs and of a more relaxed morality are acting against the general interests of their countries

Genetic Enslavement Bruce L. Gary, 2011-06 Every living thing is assembled by its genes This is a crucial starting point for exploring a fundamental human dilemma As stated so starkly by Richard Dawkins a human is a lumbering machine created for the task of safeguarding and propagating the all important genes within I would add that since the machine's behavior is driven by brain circuits pre-wired by those genes sometimes we are prone to doing things which work against our individual best interest in order to advance the cause of the genes In other words some of our genes are our enemies outlaw genes because they jeopardize individual well-being as they work to assure themselves genetic immortality Every thinking person must face the following dilemma How can I achieve liberation from genetic pitfalls when my values and thinking are so profoundly influenced by the very same genes that have created those pitfalls The more one tries to answer this question the harder it is to imagine that an answer is possible Nevertheless this is a challenge that can become irresistibly fascinating This book is an attempt to bravely explore one of Humanity's most profound existential dilemmas The fate of a civilization is also affected by the outlaw genes especially those responsible for a feeling of discontent with civilization and a vague preference for a simpler society which I would describe as resembling those found in the human ancestral environment This book explores how a flawed human nature undermines every civilization starting a decline and eventual fall Those of us born during the 20th Century are lucky for having seen the best of times for our civilization and as a questionable bonus we may now witness from close up the forces that have condemned every past civilization to ruin

Towards Perpetual Peace Nikunja Vihari Banerjee, 1988-01-01

The Ascent of Humanity Charles Eisenstein, 2013-02-05 The author of The More Beautiful World Our Hearts Know Is Possible explores the history and potential future of civilization tracing the converging crises of our age to the illusion of the separate self Our disconnection from one another and the natural world has mislaid the foundations of science religion money technology economics medicine and education as we know them It has fired our near pathological pursuit of technological Utopias even as we push ourselves and our planet to the brink of collapse Fortunately an Age of Reunion is emerging out of the birth pangs of an earth in crisis Our journey of separation hasn't been a terrible mistake but an evolutionary process and an adventure in self discovery Even in our darkest hour Eisenstein sees the possibility of a more beautiful world not through the extension of millennia old methods of management and control but by fundamentally reimagining ourselves and our systems We must shift away from our Babelian efforts to build ever higher towers to heaven and instead turn out attention to creating a new kind of civilization one designed for beauty rather than height

Civilizations Felipe Fernandez-Armesto, 2001-09-14 In Civilizations Felipe Fernandez Armesto once again proves himself a brilliantly original historian capable of large minded and comprehensive works here he redefines the subject that has fascinated historians from Thucydides to Gibbon to Spengler to Fernand Braudel the nature of civilization To Fernandez Armesto a civilization is civilized in direct proportion to its distance its difference from the unmodified natural environment by its taming and warping of climate geography and ecology The same impersonal forces that put an ocean between Africa and India a river delta in Mesopotamia or a 2 000 mile long mountain range in South America have created the mold from which humanity has fashioned its own wildly differing cultures In a grand tradition that is certain to evoke comparisons to the great historical taxonomies each chapter of Civilizations connects the world of the ecologist and geographer to a panorama of cultural history In Civilizations the medieval poem Sir Gawain and the Green Knight is not merely a Christian allegory but a testament to the thousand year long deforestation of the trees that once covered 90 percent of the European mainland The Indian Ocean has served as the world's greatest trading highway for millennia not merely because of cultural imperatives but because the regular monsoon winds blow one way in the summer and the other in the winter In the words of the author Unlike previous attempts to write the comparative history of civilizations it is arranged environment by environment rather than period by period or society by society Thus seventeen distinct habitats serve as jumping off points for a series of brilliant set piece comparisons thus tundra civilizations from Ice Age Europe are linked with the Inuit of the Pacific Northwest and the Mississippi mound builders and the deforesters of eleventh century Europe are both understood as civilizations built on woodlands Here of course are the familiar riverine civilizations of Mesopotamia and China of the Indus and the Nile but also highland civilizations from the Inca to New Guinea island cultures from Minoan Crete to Polynesia to Renaissance Venice maritime civilizations of the Indian Ocean and South China Sea even the Bushmen of Southern Africa are seen through a lens provided by the desert civilizations of Chaco Canyon More here are fascinating stories brilliantly told of the voyages of Chinese admiral Chen Ho and Portuguese commodore Vasco da Gama of the Great Khan and the Great Zimbabwe Here are Hesiod's tract on maritime trade in the early Aegean and the most up to date genetics of seed crops
