Edward Elgar Christopher Grogan, 2020-12-02 The first full length study of the English composer's complex interaction with his physical environment and its new relevance in the 21st century More perhaps than any other composer Edward Elgar 1857-1934 has gained the status of an icon of locality his music seemingly inextricably linked to the English landscape in which he worked This the first full length study of Elgar's complex interaction with his physical environment explores how it is that such associations are formed and whether it is in any sense true that Elgar alchemized landscape into music It argues that Elgar stands at the apex of an English tradition going back to Blake in which creative artists in all media have identified and warned against the self harm of environmental degradation and that following a period in which these ideas were swept away by the swift but shallow tide of Modernism in the decades after the First World War they have since resurfaced with a new relevance and urgency for twenty first century society Written with the non specialist in mind yet drawing on the rich resources of post millennial scholarship on Elgar as well as geographical studies of place the book also includes many new insights relating to such aspects of Elgar's output as his use of landscape typology in The Apostles and his encounter with Modernism in the late chamber music It also calls on the resources of contemporary social commentary poetry and especially English landscape art to place Elgar and his thought in the broader cultural milieu of his time A survey of recent recordings is included in the hope that listeners both familiar and unfamiliar with Elgar's music will feel inspired to embark on a voyage of re discovery of its endlessly rewarding treasures

Horace and His Lyric Poetry L. P. Wilkinson, 1968-10 In this volume first published in 1945 Mr Wilkinson writes primarily for students of the classics who are not Horatian specialists His book falls easily within the scope of those who can read any Latin at all and even of those who cannot for most passages quoted are also translated Horace for Mr Wilkinson is the poet of the Odes and the Epodes the incomparable genius of the lyric form and a sympathetic and engaging character into the bargain He is especially concerned with Horace as the poetic craftsman Like most Roman poets Horace was not inventive in subject matter he generally wrote about what we now recognize as the eternal platitudes But Mr Wilkinson focuses on the mastery of form rhythm and cadence that have charmed readers for centuries

The Gorgon's Head William R. Brashear,2008-05-01 William R Brashear deals with tragedy not as a dramatic literary genre but as a basic way of experiencing the universe and of reacting to it The writer of tragedy forces readers to confront much more than a tragic flaw in a single character he forces them to confront the gorgon's head itself the ultimate chaos of the universe For him Aristotle's intellectualization of tragedy distorted it for centuries because the tragic sense of life is experiential and intuitive rather than logical and syllogistic In the later works of Schopenhauer Nietzsche and Spangler Brashear finds the beginnings of the understanding of tragedy that developed in nineteenth and twentieth century literature In careful considerations of such writers as Shakespeare Tennyson Conrad Housman Shaw O'Neill and Arthur Miller Brashear refines his views of tragedy and tests their validity The chapter on Tennyson supersedes and goes well beyond The Living Will his earlier study of the poet Brashear's discussions of individual writers reinforce each other and point to several important conclusions about the tragic vision and tragic art Most significant among his conclusions is that tragedy is often taken to be more benign and positive than it really is and that if the tragic experience is essentially healthy and rewarding it is so because it involves a confrontation that broadens strengthens and stabilizes and not because it suggests any ultimate solution to the human condition
