Enfolding Silence Brett J. Esaki,2016 Japanese Americans developed complex silences in response to social and religious marginalization Utilizing case studies and histories of Japanese American arts gardening origami jazz and monuments Enfolding Silence employs interdisciplinary analysis to uncover non binary silences that are mixtures of silences from religion art and oppression Provided by publisher Green Card Soldier Sofya Aptekar,2023-05-02 An in depth and troubling look at a little known group of immigrants non citizen soldiers who enlist in the US military While the popular image of the US military is one of citizen soldiers protecting their country the reality is that nearly 5 percent of all first time military recruits are noncitizens Their reasons for enlisting are myriad but many are motivated by the hope of gaining citizenship in return for their service In Green Card Soldier Sofya Aptekar talks to more than seventy noncitizen soldiers from twenty three countries including some who were displaced by conflict after the US military entered their homeland She identifies a disturbing pattern the US military s intervention in foreign countries drives migration which in turn supplies the military with a cheap and desperate labor pool thereby perpetuating the cycle As Aptekar discovers serving in the US military is no guarantee against deportation and yet the promise of citizenship and the threat of deportation are the carrot and stick used to discipline noncitizen soldiers Viewed at various times as security threats and members of a model minority immigrant soldiers sometimes face intense discrimination from their native born colleagues and superiors Their stories stitched through with colonial legacies white supremacy exploitation and patriarchy show how the tensions between deservingness and suspicion shape their enlistment service and identities Giving voice to this little heard group of immigrants Green Card Soldier shines a cold light on the complex workings of US empire globalized militarism and citizenship

Democratic Dilemmas of Teaching Service-Learning Christine M. Cress, David M. Donahue, 2023-07-03 A college student wants to lead a campaign to ban a young adult novel from his child's elementary school as his service learning project in a children's literature course Believing the book is offensive to religious sensibilities he sees his campaign as a service to children and the community Viewing such a ban as limiting freedom of speech and access to information the student s professor questions whether leading a ban qualifies as a service project If the goal of service is to promote more vital democratic communities what should the student do What should the professor do How do they untangle competing democratic values How do they make a decision about action This book addresses the teaching dilemmas such as the above that instructors and students encounter in service learning courses Recognizing that teaching in general and service learning in particular are inherently political this book faces up to the resulting predicaments that inevitably arise in the classroom By framing them as a vital and productive part of the process of teaching and learning for political engagement this book offers the reader new ways to think about and address seemingly intractable ideological issues Faculty encounter many challenges when teaching service learning courses These may arise from students resistance to the idea of serving their lack of responsibility wasting clients and community agencies time and money the misalignment of community partner expectations with academic goals or faculty uncertainty about when to guide students experiences and when direct intervention is necessary In over twenty chapters of case studies faculty scholars from disciplines as varied as computer science engineering English history and sociology take readers on their and their students intellectual journeys sharing their messy unpredictable and often inspiring accounts of democratic tensions and trials inherent in teaching service learning Using real incidents and describing the resources and classroom activities they employ they explore the democratic intersections of various political beliefs along with race ethnicity class gender ability sexual orientation and other lived differences and likenesses that students and faculty experience in their service learning classroom and extended community They share their struggles of how to communicate and interact across the divide of viewpoints and experiences within an egalitarian and inclusive environment all the while managing interpersonal tensions and conflicts among diverse people in complex value laden situations The experienced contributors to this book offer pedagogical strategies for constructing service learning courses and non prescriptive approaches to dilemmas for which there can be no definitive solutions
