Cambodian American Youth, Identity, and Schooling Vichet Chhuon, 2025-06-27 This book examines how Cambodian American high school youth reconcile stereotypes identities and school opportunities and the ways these factors impact academic achievement and well being through ethnographic research The backdrop for Cambodian American life is intimately embedded within how Asians and Asian Americans are imagined within U S society This book argues that how Cambodian American students negotiate certain identities are in relation to perceived advantages associated with ethnic and panethnic labels across varying social contexts It highlights how the embrace of the model minority stereotype can come at a psychological cost for Asian Americans including increased feelings of internalized racism The chapters draw on ethnographic research collected across two years in one Southern California community Through students own meaning making it shows readers how Cambodian American youth are simultaneously invisible and hyper visible in their school and community which shapes access to important identities and relationships This work invites interrogation of the Asian American category itself and seeks to move the fields of Asian American and educational studies forward by critically examining not only how the model minority stereotype is constructed and imposed but also how it can be adopted and affirmed by Asian American youth themselves Practitioners who work with marginalized and underrepresented students and students of courses such as Asian American studies anthropology cultural studies and education and psychology will find this to be a helpful and enlightening text The accessible and clear writing makes this book of interest to a general audience as well

We are a People Paul R. Spickard, W. Jeffrey Burroughs, 2000 As the twentieth century closes ethnicity stands out as a powerful force for binding people together in a sense of shared origins and worldview But this emphasis on a people s uniqueness can also develop into a distorted rationale for insularity inter ethnic animosity or as we have seen in this century armed conflict Ethnic identity clearly holds very real consequences for individuals and peoples yet there is not much agreement on what exactly it is or how it is formed The growing recognition that ethnicity is not fixed and inherent but elastic and constructed fuels the essays in this collection Regarding identity as a dynamic on going formative and transformative process We Are a People considers narrative the creation and maintenance of a common story as the keystone in building a sense of peoplehood Myths of origin triumph over adversity migration and so forth chart a group's history while continual additions to the larger narrative stress moving into the future as a people Still there is more to our stories as individuals and groups Most of us are aware that we take on different roles and project different aspects of ourselves depending on the situation Some individuals who have inherited multiple group affiliations from their families view themselves not as this or that but all at once So too with ethnic groups The so called hyphenated Americans are not the only people in the world to recognize or embrace their plurality This relatively recent acknowledgment of multiplicity has potentially wide implications destabilizing the limited and limiting categories inscribed in for example public policy and discourse on race relations We Are a People is a path breaking volume boldly illustrating how ethnic identity works in the real world Author note Paul Spickard is Professor and Chair of Asian American Studies at UC Santa Barbara and is author of Mixed Blood W Jeffrey Burroughs is Professor of Psychology at Brigham Young University Hawaii

Cultural Pluralism, Identity Politics, and the Law Austin Sarat, Thomas R. Kearns, 2001 How do moves to recognize ethnic and cultural identity affect the idea of equality before the law

Muslims in the West Yvonne Yazbeck Haddad, 2002-04-11 Today Muslims are the second largest religious group in much of Europe and North America The essays in this collection look both at the impact of the growing Muslim population on Western societies and how Muslims are adapting to life in the West Part I looks at the Muslim diaspora in Europe comprising essays on Britain France Germany Switzerland Norway Sweden Denmark Italy and the Netherlands Part II turns to the Western Hemisphere and Muslims in the U S Canada and Mexico Throughout the authors contend with such questions as Can Muslims retain their faith and identity and at the same time accept and function within the secular and pluralistic traditions of Europe and America What are the limits of Western pluralism Will Muslims come to be fully accepted as fellow citizens with equal rights An excellent guide to

The Chinese in Vancouver, 1945-80 Wing Chung Ng, 2011-11-01 In The Chinese in Vancouver Wing Chung Ng captures the fascinating story of the city's Chinese in their search for identity. He juxtaposes the cultural positions of different generations of Chinese immigrants and their Canadian born descendants and unveils the ongoing struggle over the definition of being Chinese. It is an engrossing story about cultural identity in the context of migration and settlement where the influence of the native land and the appeal of the host city continued to impinge on the consciousness of the ethnic Chinese. The Chinese in Canada is long overdue in view of the many previous studies that tend to describe Chinese people as victims of racial prejudice and discrimination and Chinese identity a matter of Western cultural hegemony. Ng's account gives the Chinese people their own voice and shows that the Chinese in Vancouver had much to say and often disagreed about the meaning of being Chinese. In his concluding chapter Ng looks beyond the Canadian context by engaging in a comparative discussion of the experiences of ethnic Chinese elsewhere in the diaspora. References to the Chinese in various Southeast Asian countries and the U.S. force a rethinking of Chineseness. He ends with reflections about Vancouver's Chinese community since 1980.

Europe, Migration and Identity Jan Logemann, Donna Gabaccia, Sally Gregory Kohlstedt, 2015-10-14 This volume explores connections between migration studies and research in the history of Europeanization and Europeaness areas which have generated much interest in recent years. Beyond histories of European political integration and the intellectual and elite movements that have supported this process, scholars increasingly pay attention to the constructed nature of Europeaness and European identities and to the multiplicity of ways in which this construction happens. Migrants can be a particularly useful lens on Europeanization processes as they provide a perspective from the periphery in two ways: by providing a view literally from the outside as in the case of those who left the continent or by providing a view from the margins of the European societies within which they live. The collection asks what Europe meant to migrants abroad, particularly within the transatlantic context and within the continent during the twentieth century. Contributions from a variety of disciplinary perspectives reflect both on the broader historical context and theoretical implications and highlight specific cases such as those of European labor migrants to the United States, transatlantic exiles and migrants of Latin American immigrants in present day Europe as well as the experience of highly skilled migrants within the context of the European Union. Can we trace the emergence of European identities among different groups of migrants and if so, what forms did they take? This book was originally published as a special issue of National Identities.

New Perspectives on Racial Identity Development Charmaine L. Wijeyesinghe, Bailey W. Jackson, 2012-07-30 An updated edition with new perspectives on racial identity and significant attention on intersectionality. New Perspectives on Racial Identity Development brings together leaders in the field to deepen, broaden, and reassess our understandings of racial identity development. Contributors include the authors of some of the earliest theories in the field.

such as William Cross Bailey W Jackson Jean Kim Rita Hardiman and Charmaine L Wijeyesinghe who offer new analysis of the impact of emerging frameworks on how racial identity is viewed and understood Other contributors present new paradigms and identify critical issues that must be considered as the field continues to evolve This new and completely rewritten second edition uses emerging research from related disciplines that offer innovative approaches that have yet to be fully discussed in the literature on racial identity Intersectionality receives significant attention in the volume as it calls for models of social identity to take a more holistic and integrated approach in describing the lived experience of individuals This volume offers new perspectives on how we understand and study racial identity in a culture where race and other identities are socially constructed and carry significant societal political and group meaning Brothers and Sisters Craig LaRon Torbenson, Gregory Parks, 2009 The 1950s are arguably the watershed era in the civil rights movement with the landmark Supreme Court decision of Brown v Board of Education in 1954 the Montgomery Bus Boycott in 1955 and the desegregation of Little Rock Arkansas High School in 1957 It was during this period 1955 to be exact that sociologist Alfred M Lee published his seminal work Fraternities without Brotherhood A Study of Prejudice on the American Campus Lee's book was the first and last book to explore diversity within college fraternal groups More than fifty years later Craig L Torbenson and Gregory S Parks revisit this issue more broadly in their edited volume Brothers and Sisters Diversity in College Fraternities and Sororities This volume draws from a variety of disciplines in an attempt to provide a holistic analysis of diversity within collegiate fraternal life It also brings a wide range of scholarly approaches to the inquiry of diversity within college fraternities and sororities It explores not only from whence these groups have come but where they are currently situated and what issues arise as they progress Sexualities and Identities of Minority Women Sana Loue, 2009-08-11 The concept for this book came about following the publication of the volume Health Issues Confronting Minority Men Who Have Sex with Men published by Springer in 2008 Consistent with its title that work focused on specific health issues identified by communities researchers and AIDS service providers that were and continue to be of concern During the preparation of that volume I received numerous telephone calls and e-mails from women in various parts of the country asking why a book was not also being developed to address their often neglected concerns Accordingly the topics addressed in Identities and Sexualities of Minority Women were developed based on input from minority women who participated in focus groups conducted in diverse regions of the United States These focus groups were held specifically to provide an opportunity for sexual minority women in minority communities to identify those issues that from their perspective are most salient and relevant to their lives It is not surprising in view of the variation in process by which the topics were identified as well as the differences in perspective associated with differences in sex and gender that this resulting compilation of topics departs substantially from the focus of the companion text addressing health issues of minority men who have sex with men Skin Color and Identity Formation Edward Fergus, 2004-11-01 The focus of this study is on the ways in which skin color moderates the perceptions of opportunity and academic orientation of 17 Mexican and Puerto Rican high school students More specifically the study s analysis centered on cataloguing the racial ethnic identification shifts or not in relation to how they perceive others situate them based on skin color
