The Berlin Aging Study Paul B. Baltes, Karl Ulrich Mayer, 2001-03-19 The present and future of our society are shaped by an ever increasing proportion of old and very old people The Berlin Aging Study is one of the largest interdisciplinary efforts to explore old age and aging Unique aspects of the Berlin Aging Study are the spectrum of scientific disciplines involved the range of discipline specific and interdisciplinary research topics the focus on very old age 70 to over 100 years and the empirical reference to a representative heterogeneous urban population The study's first cross sectional findings on intellectual abilities self and personality social relationships physical health functional capacity medical treatment mental disorders such as depression and dementia socioeconomic conditions activities everyday competence subjective well being and gender differences are reported in depth in this book The study was carried out in the context of the Berlin Brandenburg Academy of Sciences study group on Aging and Social Development The authors primarily conduct their research at the Berlin Max Planck Institute for Human Development the Free University of Berlin and the Humboldt University Berlin

Handbook of the Psychology of Aging James E. Birren, K Warner Schaie, 2001-08-02 The Handbook of the Psychology of Aging has become the definitive reference source for information on the psychology of adult development and aging The Fifth Edition provides comprehensive reviews of research on biological and social influences on behavior and age related changes in psychological function In addition to covering environmental influences on behavior and aging and gender differences in aging new chapters in the Fifth Edition discuss wisdom creativity and technological change and the older worker This handbook is an essential reference for researchers in adult development and gerontology and suitable as an advanced textbook for courses on the psychology of aging

Aging with HIV in Sub-Saharan Africa Mark Brennan-Ing, Kristen E. Porter, Jennifer E. Kaufman, Catherine MacPhail, Janet Seeley, 2022-06-16 With the development of effective antiretroviral therapies ART in the mid 1990s HIV became a treatable although serious condition and people who are adherent to HIV medications can attain normal or near normal life expectancies Because of the success of ART people 50 and older now make up a majority of people with HIV in high income countries and other places where ART is accessible The aging of the HIV epidemic is a global trend that is also being observed in low and middle income countries including countries in sub Saharan Africa where the greatest number of older people with HIV reside 3.7 million While globally over half of older adults with HIV are in sub Saharan Africa we have little information about the circumstances needs and resiliencies of this population which limits our ability to craft effective policy and programmatic responses to aging with HIV in this region At present our understanding of HIV and aging is dominated by information from the U S and Western Europe where the epidemiology of HIV and the infrastructure to provide social care are markedly different than in sub Saharan Africa Aging with HIV in Sub Saharan Africa addresses this gap in our knowledge by providing current research and perspectives on a range of health and psychosocial topics concerning these older adults from across this region This volume provides a unique and timely overview of growing older with HIV in a sub Saharan African context covering such topics as epidemiology health and functioning and social support as well as policy and program implications to support those growing older with HIV There are very few published volumes that address HIV and aging and this is the first book to consider HIV and aging in sub Saharan Africa Most publications in this area focus on HIV and aging in Uganda and South Africa This volume broadens the scope with contributions from authors working in West Africa Botswana and Kenya The range of topics covered here will be useful to professionals in a range of disciplines including psychology epidemiology gerontology sociology health care public health and social work

Psychology of Aging Aimee Spector, 2017-03-02 The psychology of aging is an exciting and rapidly developing field This volume provides a collection of classic original and often widely cited papers including some older papers which may be hard to find through conventional searches Taken together they help to address some key questions what are the cognitive changes related to aging Is mental exercise useful To what extent might intelligence education or stimulating mental activities delay or even reduce cognitive symptoms of dementia However the book goes well beyond cognition and addresses social and emotional changes in aging as well as looking at how lifestyle factors may be influential in psychological functioning The section on the psychology of dementia covers the evolving psychological models plus innovative types of psychological interventions As more people live to an age where they are dependent on others the book also considers the stresses on carers and how carers can be supported Lastly other aspects of mental health problems in old age are addressed including depression PTSD and personality disorder This collection of intriguing and inspiring papers will liven up the shelves of students researchers and academics in the field as well as being a very useful resource for research teaching and study

Global Health and Global Aging Mary Robinson, William Novelli, Clarence E. Pearson, Laurie Norris, 2007-09-24 The book covers the fundamentals of global aging and health and provides real world models from countries and regions that offer the best practices in current approaches Global Health and Global Aging presents information about leadership and governance challenges as well as insights about aging in different cultures and countries in all regions of the world

The Aging Auditory System Sandra Gordon-Salant, Robert D. Frisina, Richard R. Fay, Arthur Popper, 2010-05-03 This volume brings together noted scientists who study presbycusis from the perspective of complementary disciplines for a review of the current state of knowledge on the aging auditory system Age related hearing loss ARHL is one of the top three most common chronic health conditions affecting individuals aged 65 years and older The high prevalence of age related hearing loss compels audiologists otolaryngologists and auditory neuroscientists alike to understand the neural genetic and molecular mechanisms underlying this disorder A comprehensive understanding of these factors is needed so that effective prevention intervention and rehabilitative strategies can be developed to ameliorate the myriad of behavioral manifestations

The Cambridge Handbook of Age and Ageing Malcolm L. Johnson, Vern L. Bengtson, Peter G. Coleman, Thomas B. L. Kirkwood, 2005-12-01 The Cambridge Handbook of Age and Ageing first published in 2005 is a guide to the body of knowledge theory policy and practice relevant to age researchers and gerontologists around the world It contains almost 80 original chapters commissioned and written by the world s leading gerontologists from 16 countries and 5 continents The broad focus of the book is on the behavioural and social sciences but it also includes important contributions from the biological and medical sciences It provides comprehensive accessible and authoritative accounts of all the key topics in the field ranging from theories of ageing to demography physical aspects of ageing mental processes and ageing nursing and health care for older people the social context of ageing cross cultural perspectives relationships quality of life gender and financial and policy provision This handbook will be a must have resource for all researchers students and professionals with an interest in age and ageing     Ethics, Health Policy and (Anti-) Aging: Mixed Blessings Maartje Schermer, Wim

Pinxten, 2014-07-08 This volume focuses on the ethical and philosophical issues that arise in an aging society and the implications of these issues for healthcare and social policy After a brief overview of biomedicine s changing approach of ageing and longevity and of the new expectations that these changes generate various ethical social and policy issues that surround aging and longevity are discussed First the images and social meanings of aging and old age in our society are explored including their normative dimensions and implications for policy Next ethical issues in the care for frail elderly are discussed as well as notion of good care and end of life decisions Finally the ethical and social implications of emerging possibilities for anti aging and lifespan extension are considered The book concludes with an overview of the relevance of the issues discussed for policy making on professional national and international levels     Annual Review of Gerontology and
