Class And Schools:

Social Class and Educational Opportunity Jean E. Floud, 1958 What Makes a World-Class School and How We Can Get There James H. Stronge, Xianxuan Xu, 2017-06-15 For years students in the United States have lagged behind students in many other countries on such measures of achievement as the PISA and TIMSS assessments In an increasingly globalized world such a gap is worrisome Armed with statistics examples and cautionary tales from Scandinavia to Japan James H Stronge and Xianxuan Xu have written a book that can help educators better prepare students and close that gap In What Makes a World Class School and How We Can Get There you will find Careful analysis of recent international assessment results what they mean and what can be done to improve them In depth profiles of high achieving education systems around the globe their histories their lessons learned and what they can teach educators and policymakers in the United States Strategies for aligning successful educational approaches from international systems to U S schools which strategies to use in which subjects and with which students Transformative ideas for cultivating a truly world class system of schooling both simple and complex ways to raise the bar for all students no matter what their background Educators in every country must ensure that their students are as prepared as possible to lead a future generation of citizens This thought provoking and copiously researched book provides educators with a blueprint for radical improvement based on the hard learned experiences of their peers around the world World Class Schools Bert Creemers, David Reynolds, Sam Stringfield, Charles Teddlie, 2003-09-02 In this book the authors have conducted extensive research and describe what makes a successful school and how this varies in different countries The book follows the progress of a cohort of 7 year old children through their schools over a two year period It covers schools in the US Canada Hong Kong Taiwan Australia the UK Norway the Netherlands and Ireland and draw together what it is that the most and least effective schools do in each country pinpoints what makes effective teaching across the globe analyses which effectiveness producing school and teaching factors appear to be the same and which are context specific discusses how educational policies can be used to generate World Class Schools and which new blends of practice can or should be used The existing literature based upon the comparison of the educational achievements of different countries is inadequate This unique study provides a rich picture of the processes of the education systems of different countries which will appeal to practitioners and policy makers Navy Directives System Consolidated Subject Index of Unclassified Instructions, Period Ending United States. Schools Making a Difference Martin Thrupp, 1999-05-16 Does an effective school really come about through the actions of teachers and school leaders or does it also require an advantaged student intake This question reflects a longstanding research debate about whether or not the social class mix of a school s student intake has much effect on individual achievement Schools Making a Difference Let s Be Realistic presents new evidence which suggests that school mix is likely to be important because of the way many school processes are deeply influenced by student intake characteristics

Low socioeconomic schools face numerous intake related constraints which make them highly resistant to improvement efforts By suggesting that failing schools are often overwhelmed rather than ineffective this book provides a sympathetic reappraisal of the performance of teachers and school leaders in such schools It also offers a critical response to the often unrealistic claims of the school effectiveness and school improvement movement and a fresh critique of market reforms in education
