Classes Power And Conflict Classical And Contemporary Debates:

Classes, Power and Conflict Anthony Giddens, David Held, 1982-05-13 In recent years a remarkable range of new work has been produced dealing with class inequalities the division of labor and the state In these writings scholars previously working in isolation from one another in sociology economics political science and history have found common ground Much of this work has been influenced by Marxist theory but at the same time it has involved critiques of established Marxist views and incorporated ideas drawn from other sources These developments have until now not been reflected in existing course texts which are often diffusely concerned with social stratification and lack reference to contemporary theory Classes Power and Conflict breaks new ground in providing a comprehensive introduction to current debates and contemporary research In also connects these to the classical sources concentrating particularly on Marx Lenin and Weber The book therefore offers a comprehensive coverage of materials for students who have little or no prior acquaintance with the field Each section of the book contains a substantial introduction explaining and expanding on the themes of the selections contained within that section Classes Power and Conflict can be expected to become the standard text for courses in sociology and political science

Classes, Power and Conflict Anthony Giddens, David Held, 1995 Classes, Power, and Conflict Anthony Giddens, David Held, 1982-01-01 In recent years a remarkable range of new work dealing with class inequalities the division of labour and the state has been produced by scholars in sociology economics political science and history Generally influenced by Marxist theory but often also involving critiques of established Marxist views this work has until now been reflected in course texts This book provides a comprehensive introduction to current debates and connects them to their classical sources Marx Lenin and Weber It includes selections from the work of Nicos Poulantzas Erik Olin Wright R W Connell Harry Braveman Frank Parkin Maurice Zeitlin Goran Therborn Claus Offe and Volker Ronge Boris Frankel Stephen A Marglin E P Thompson David Stark Jill Rubery David Lockwood Michael Mann Nicholas Abercrombie and Bryan S Turner Elizabeth Garnsey Heidi Hartmann Jane Humphries Robert Blauner David Harvey Alec Nove and Murray Yanowitch BOOK COVER Cultures of Solidarity Rick Fantasia, 1989-08-18 A commonplace assumption about American workers is that they lack class consciousness This perception has baffled social scientists demoralized activists and generated a significant literature on American exceptionalism In this provocative book a young sociologist takes the prevailing assumptions to task and sheds new light upon this very important issue In three vivid case studies Fantasia explores the complicated multi faceted dynamics of American working class consciousness and collective action Cronies or Capitalists? The Russian Bourgeoisie and the Bourgeois Revolution from 1850 to 1917 David Lockwood, 2009-05-27 Why wasn't there a successful bourgeois revolution in Russia Was it because Russian capitalists were too servile in their relationship with the Tsarist autocracy Or was it because Russian states Tsarist republican and Soviet were just too strong This book is a political history of the Russian capitalist class from 1850 to 1917 that seeks to answer these questions The book covers the consistent opposition of the Russian bourgeoisie to the Tsarist autocracy up to and including the revolution of 1905 It then considers its alliance from 1909 with new state elements officials politicians army officers and technical experts who were convinced of the possibility of reform and renovation through a radically reorganised state cleansed of its autocratic detritus Such a reorganisation was expected as a result of the Great War While these ideas came to a temporary fruition in the February Revolution of 1917 they also laid the basis for a much more demanding Soviet state in October and the destruction of the bourgeoisie itself The book ends with a consideration of the wider implications for the concept of the bourgeois revolution implications that stretch well beyond Russia that are revealed by the rise and fall of the Russian bourgeoisie Governing Disorder Laura Zanotti, 2011 Examines post Cold War discourses about the use of power to promote international security Uses case studies of United Nations interventions in Haiti and Croatia to highlight the dynamics at play in encounters between local societies and international peacekeepers Provided by publisher Confucian Marxism Weigang Chen, 2013-09-25 Buttressed by an autocratic system China's colossal economic growth over the past decades seems to have had the paradoxical effect of undermining the foundation of Western domination but at the same time invigorating Eurocentrism In particular it highlights the current relevance of the central conviction of Weber's Orient the absence of civic roots in non Western societies will create a kind of uncivic capitalist system in which one has no choice but to seek to compensate for instabilities through authoritarian institutions Does this mean that the West may alone afford to harmonize political stability with the universalistic ideal of justice as the basic structure of society If not how then is it possible to develop a notion of the primacy of social justice that transcends the limits of liberal democracy This book aims at addressing these timely questions by drawing on Confucian Marxism a distinctive perspective on civil society Dividing Lines Andrea N. Williams, 2013-01-02 One of the most extensive studies of class in nineteenth century African American literature to date Dividing Lines unveils how black fiction writers represented the uneasy relationship between class differences racial solidarity and the quest for civil rights in black communities By portraying complex highly stratified communities with a growing black middle class these authors dispelled notions that black Americans were uniformly poor or uncivilized The book argues that the signs of class anxiety are embedded in postbellum fiction from the verbal stammer or prim speech of class conscious characters to fissures in the fiction's form Andre N Williams delves into the familiar and lesser known works of Frances E W Harper Pauline Hopkins Charles W Chesnutt Sutton Griggs and Paul Laurence Dunbar showing how these texts mediate class through discussions of labor moral respectability ancestry spatial boundaries and skin complexion Dividing Lines also draws on reader responses from book reviews editorials and letters to show how the class anxiety expressed in African American fiction directly sparked reader concerns over the status of black Americans in the U S social order Weaving literary history with compelling textual analyses this study yields new insights about the intersection of race and class in black novels and short stories from the 1880s to 1900s The Green Revolution Revisited Bernhard Glaeser, 2010-11-29

The Green Revolution the apparently miraculous increase in cereal crop yields achieved in the 1960s came under severe criticism in the 1970s because of its demands for optimal irrigation intensive use of fertilisers and pesticides its damaging impact on social structures and its monoculture approach The early 1980s saw a concerted approach to many of these criticisms under the auspices of Consultative Group on International Agricultural Research CGIAR This book first published in 1987 analyses the recent achievements of the CGIAR and examines the Green Revolution concept in South America Asia and Africa from an ecodevelopment standpoint with particular regard to the plight of the rural poor The work is characterised by a concern for the ecological and social dimensions of agricultural development which puts the emphasis on culturally compatible labour absorbing and environmentally sustainable food production which will serve the long term needs of developing countries

Women and Labour in Late Colonial India Samita Sen, 1999-05-06 Samita Sen s history of labouring women in Calcutta in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries considers how social constructions of gender shaped their lives Dr Sen demonstrates how in contrast to the experience of their male counterparts the long term trends in the Indian economy devalued women s labour establishing patterns of urban migration and changing gender equations within the family She relates these trends to the spread of dowry enforced widowhood and child marriage The book provides insight into the lives of poor urban women who were often perceived as prostitutes or social pariahs Even trade unions refused to address their problems and they remained on the margins of organized political protest The study will make a significant contribution to the understanding of the social and economic history of colonial India and to notions of gender construction

Statemaking and Social Movements Charles Bright, Susan Harding, 2025-10-01 Statemaking does not end once states emerge but is a continuous process argue the contributors to this volume In their view states are not static structures that act upon society nor are states simple reflections of economic relations states are instead highly dynamic structures that are constantly built up dismantled and transformed by complex interplays of political social and economic processes This collection of original essays by leading scholars in the fields of history anthropology sociology and economics argues for historically specific theories of states and politics in place of ahistorical models Case studies range in scope from Aztec Mexico and feudal Europe to Nazi Germany and contemporary America What emerges from this ground breaking interdisciplinary dialogue is a historically sensitive way of thinking about states politics and social movements and the transformative relationship between states and societies

Production Politics and Migrant Labour Regimes Charanpal Singh Bal, 2016-09-23 This book emphasizes the importance of production politics or struggles in the workplace between workers and their employers for understanding migrant labour regimes in Asia and the

Gulf Drawing from a study of Bangladeshi construction workers in Singapore as well as on comparative material in the region Bal shows that migrant labour politics are significantly influenced by the specific form of production politics as well as their variable outcomes In contrast to contentious politics approaches this book sheds light on the extent to which migrant labour regimes can be contested by workers and civil society groups and explains the recent rise in migrant labour unrest in the region

Rethinking the 'Coloured Revolutions' David Lane,Stephen White,2013-09-13 The communist world was supposed to have had its revolution in 1989 But the demise of the Soviet Union came two years later at the end of 1991 and then perplexingly a series of irregular executive changes began to take place the following decade in countries that were already postcommunist The focus in this collection is the changes that took place in Serbia Georgia Ukraine and Kyrgyzstan between 2000 and 2005 that have together been called the coloured revolutions of no particular colour in Serbia but Rose in Georgia Orange in Ukraine and Tulip in Kyrgyzstan Apart from exploring political change in the coloured revolution countries themselves the contributors to this collection focus on countries that did not experience this kind of irregular executive change but which might otherwise be comparable Belarus and Kazakhstan among them and on reactions to democracy promotion in Russia and China Throughout an effort is made to avoid taking the coloured revolutions at face value however they may have been presented by local leaders and foreign governments with their own agendas and to place them within the wider literature of comparative politics This book was previously published as a special issue of Journal of Communist Studies and Transition Politics

Perceiving Gender Locally, Globally, and Intersectionally Vasilikie (Vicky) Demos,Marcia Texler Segal,2009-06-26 Addresses questions about how feminist scholars conceptualize gender and view it in relationship to other attributes of individuals and of social systems This book strives for intersectional analyses broadening that approach beyond the gender race and class paradigm to include sexuality employing a variety of methodologies

The Resurgence of Military Coups and Democratic Relapse in Africa Adeoye Akinola,2024-05-16 This book presents the reality of democratic reversals and waves of coups cutting through Africa explores the political economy of coups and through a case study approach provides a nuanced analysis of the negative impacts of coups in Africa and interrogates the roles of African regional organisations in curtailing coups and foreign powers in distorting the security architecture of African states particularly in the Sahel region It proffers sustainable policy templates for political development professionalism of the military and the subsequent withdrawal of the military from African politics Apart from its policy relevance it will serve as a resource pool for researchers working in the area of African political development peace and security and security sector reforms With the incremental exit of France from the Sahel the book will also offer a nuanced perspective on the scramble for the soul of the Sahel by non Western powers such as China Russia Turkey and Saudi Arabia

Intolerance Lise Noël,1994 In order to establish common ground from which progressives in different fields can share insights and information Montreal historian Noel shows how oppression is related to the six parameters of race class gender sexual preference age and mental and physical health She explains how the theory of intolerance is used to justify the most brutal practices of domination and oppression and illustrates common patterns from one parameter to the other and one country to another including Canada the US Britain and France She also challenges the validity of using concepts such as difference to defend the rights of the oppressed First published in 1989 by Boreal as L intolerance Une problematique generale No index Annotation copyright by Book News Inc Portland OR Civilization and the Making of the State in Lebanon and Syria Andrew

Delatolla,2021-02-01 This book argues that the modern state from the nineteenth century to the contemporary period has consistently been used as a means to measure civilizational engagement and attainment This volume historicizes this dynamic examining how it impacted state making in Lebanon and Syria By putting social political and economic pressure on the Ottoman Empire to replicate the modern state in Europe the book examines processes of racialization nationalist development continued imperial expansion and resistance that became embedded in the state as it was assembled By historicizing post imperial and post colonial state formation in Lebanon and Syria it is possible to engage in a conceptual separation from the modern state abandoning the ongoing reproduction of the state as a standard or benchmark of civilization and progress Doctors, Politics and Society: Historical Essays ,2020-01-29 The great British reformer Jeremy Bentham wrote that the art of legislation is but the art of healing practised upon a large scale He added that It is the common endeavour of both to relieve men from the miseries of life But the physician relieves them one by one the legislator by millions at a time Bentham raised the question of the interplay of medicine with politics It forms an important topic with powerful contemporary overtones This volume containing eleven essays plus a lengthy introduction seeks to explore it historically It takes a long perspective covering the last two centuries and also an international viewpoint examining Britain in detail but also containing contributions dealing with the United States Germany Russia and France
