Bertolt Brecht's Dramatic Theory John J. White, 2004 In concert with his work as a politically charged playwright and dramaturge Bertolt Brecht concerned himself extensively with the theory of drama He was convinced that the Aristotelian ideal of audience catharsis through identification with a hero and the resultant experience of terror and pity worked against his goal of bettering society He did not want his audiences to feel but to think and his main theoretical thrusts Verfremdungseffekte de familiarization effects and epic theater among others were conceived in pursuit of this goal This is the first detailed study in English of Brecht's writings on the theater to take account of works first made available in the recent German edition of his collected works It offers in depth analyses of Brecht's canonical essays on the theater from 1930 to the late 1940s and early GDR years Close readings of the individual essays are supplemented by surveys of the changing connotations within Brecht's dramaturgical oeuvre of key theoretical terms including epic and anti Aristotelian theater de familiarization historicization and dialectical theater Brecht's distinct contribution to the theorizing of acting and audience response is examined in detail and each theoretical essay and concept is placed in the context of the aesthetic debates of the time subjected to a critical assessment and considered in light of subsequent scholarly thinking In many cases the playwright's theoretical discourse is shown to employ methods of epic presentation and techniques of de familiarization that are corollaries of the dramatic techniques for which his plays are justly famous John J White is Professor of German and

Quigley, 2015-08-11 Modern plays are strikingly diverse and as a result any attempt to locate an underlying unity between them encounters difficulties to focus on what they have in common is often to overlook what is of primary importance in particular plays to focus on their differences is to note the novelty of the plays without increasing their accessibility In this study first published in 1985 Austin E Quigley takes as his paradigm case the relationship between the world of the stage and the world of the audience and explores various modes of communication between domains He asks how changes in the structure of the drama relate to changes in the structure of the theatre and changes in the role of the audience Detailed interpretations of plays by Ibsen Strindberg Brecht Ionesco Beckett and Pinter question principles

Theatricality and the Arts Richard Rushton, Andrew Quick, 2024-04-30 Theatricality and the Arts presents a series of investigations of the notion of theatricality Primarily theatricality concerns that which pertains to theatre but the term has always carried with it the potentially pejorative associations of exaggeration and fakery The essays here question and contest such associations The book is divided into four sections which together provide a comprehensive interrogation of theatricality The four sections begin with multimedia where theatricality is examined in relation to mixed modes of media internet art painting performance and digital display A second section takes a philosophical approach to questions of theatricality A third section looks at art broadly speaking but also at the historical contexts of art photography and other media literature film music A final section features reflections on theatre and cinema often in conjunction Considered as a whole the collection contributes to debates on theatricality in various fields while also enabling a cross examination of approaches to the topic

A Theology of Nonsense Josephine Gabelman, 2017-10-26 There is within all theological utterances something of the ridiculous perhaps more so in Christianity given its proclivity for the paradoxical and the childlike Few theologians are willing to discuss how consent to the Christian doctrine often requires a faith that goes beyond reason There seems to be a fear that the association of theology with the absurd will give fuel to the sceptic's refrain You can't seriously believe in all that nonsense Josephine Gabelman considers the legitimacy of the sceptic's objection and explores the possibility that an idea can be contrary to rationality and also true and meaningful using the systematic analysis of central stylistic features of literary nonsense such as Lewis Carroll's Alice stories Gabelman sets up a nonsense theology by considering the practical and evangelical ramifications of associating Christian faith with nonsense literature and conversely the value of relating theological principles to the study of literary nonsense Ultimately Gabelman says faith is always a risk and a strictly rational apologetic misrepresents the nature of Christian truth Narrating the Past through Theatre M. Bennett, 2012-10-30 This cutting edge title explores how narrating the past both conflicts and creates an interesting relationship with drama's continuing present that arcs towards an unpredictable future Theatre both brings the past alive and also fixes it but through the performance process allowing the past to be molded for future not yet existent audiences Music, Art and Diplomacy:

East-West Cultural Interactions and the Cold War Simo Mikkonen, Pekka Suutari, 2017-05-15 Music Art and Diplomacy shows how a vibrant field of cultural exchange between East and West was taking place during the Cold War which contrasts with the orthodox understanding of two divided and antithetical blocs The series of case studies on cultural exchanges focusing on the decades following the Second World War cover episodes involving art classical music theatre dance and film Despite the fluctuating fortunes of diplomatic relations between East and West there was a continuous circulation of cultural producers and products Contributors explore the interaction of arts and politics the role of the arts in diplomacy and the part the arts played in the development of the Cold War Art has always shunned political borders wavering between the guidance of individual and governmental patrons and borderless expression While this volume provides insight into how political players tried to harness the arts to serve their own political purposes at the same time it is clear that the arts and artists exploited the Cold War framework to reach their own individual and professional objectives Utilizing archives available only since the collapse of the Soviet Union the volume provides a valuable socio cultural approach to understanding the Cold War and cultural diplomacy

Hans Magnus Enzensberger Alasdair King, 2007 The writings of Hans Magnus Enzensberger are a provocative commentary on the post 1945 period in Germany Poet and essayist of international standing and frequent contributor to political and cultural debates his work has accompanied the development of the Federal Republic from the 1950s to German unification and after This study makes explicit the links between Enzensberger's literary imagination and the cultural and political history of Germany and offers a close reading of both Enzensberger's poetry and his seminal essays on politics and culture proposing that they be considered as part of a single artistic project The book argues that Enzensberger's significance lies in his sustained exploration of the relationship between literary and cultural practices and political democracy in Germany It offers detailed analyses of Enzensberger's poetry and considers his essays on the consciousness industry and on the constituents of a theory of the media in the context of the political development of the Federal Republic in the half century following 1945 Post World War 2 essays on cinema and television on tourism consumption and migration and on digital media and the future of literature are also considered and analysed Enzensberger's work is situated as part of an ongoing critical debate between him and key intellectual figures such as Theodor W Adorno Walter Benjamin Siegfried Kracauer Jurgen Habermas Jean Baudrillard and Michel Foucault
