From Betamax to Blockbuster Joshua M. Greenberg, 2010-09-24 How the VCR was transformed from a machine that records television into a medium for movies The first video cassette recorders were promoted in the 1970s as an extension of broadcast television technology a time shifting device a way to tape TV shows Early advertising for Sony s Betamax told potential purchasers You don t have to miss Kojak because you re watching Columbo But within a few years the VCR had been transformed from a machine that recorded television into an extension of the movie theater into the home This was less a physical transformation than a change in perception but one that relied on the very tangible construction of a network of social institutions to support this new marketplace for movies In From Betamax to Blockbuster Joshua Greenberg explains how the combination of neighborhood video stores and the VCR created a world in which movies became tangible consumer goods Greenberg charts a trajectory from early videophile communities to the rise of the video store complete with theater marquee lights movie posters popcorn and clerks who offered expert advice on which movies to rent The result was more than a new industry by placing movies on cassette in the hands and control of consumers video rental and sale led to a renegotiation of the boundary between medium and message and ultimately a new relationship between audiences and movies Eventually Blockbuster s top down franchise store model crowded local video stores out of the market but the recent rise of Netflix iTunes and other technologies have reopened old questions about what a movie is and how and where it ought to be watched By focusing on the spaces in between manufacturers and consumers Greenberg s account offers a fresh perspective on consumer technology illustrating how the initial transformation of movies from experience into commodity began not from the top down or the bottom up but from the middle of the burgeoning industry out Producing and Directing the Short Film and Video David K. Irving, Peter W. Rea, 2012-11-12 Producing and Directing the Short Film and Video is the definitive book on the subject for beginning filmmakers and students The book clearly illustrates all of the steps involved in preproduction production postproduction and distribution Its unique two fold approach looks at filmmaking from the perspectives of both producer and director and explains how their separate energies must combine to create a successful short film or video from script to final product This guide offers extensive examples from award winning shorts and includes insightful quotes from the filmmakers themselves describing the problems they encountered and how they solved them The companion website contains useful forms and information on grants and financing sources distributors film and video festivals film schools internet sources for short works and professional associations A Critical Cinema 4 Scott MacDonald, 2005 A Critical Cinema 4 is the fourth volume in Scott MacDonald s Critical Cinema series the most extensive in depth exploration of independent cinema available in English In this new set of interviews MacDonald once again engages filmmakers in detailed discussions of their films and of the personal experiences and political and theoretical currents that have shaped their work The interviews are arranged to express the remarkable diversity of modern independent cinema and the network of interconnections within the community of filmmakers A Critical Cinema 4 includes the most extensive interview with the late Stan Brakhage yet published a conversation with P Adams Sitney about his arrival on the New York independent film scene a detailed discussion with Peter Kubelka about the experience of making Our African Journey a conversation with Jill Godmilow and Harun Farocki on modern political documentary Jim McBride s first extended published conversation in thirty years a discussion with Abigail Child about her evolution from television documentarian to master editor and the first extended interview with Chuck Workman This volume also contains discussions with Chantal Akerman about her place trilogy Lawrence Brose on his examination of Oscar Wilde s career Hungarian Peter Forg cs about his transformation of European home movies into video operas Iranian born Shirin Neshat on working between two cultures and Ellen Spiro about exploring America with her video camera and her dog Each interview is supplemented by an introductory overview of the filmmaker s contributions A detailed filmography and a selected bibliography complete the volume Movie Wars Jonathan Rosenbaum, 2002 Contrary to what a number of disillusioned critics have written and what appears to be the pervading conventional wisdom Jonathan Rosenbaum believes that cinema is very much alive and well The problem is he feels that all too often we just do not get the opportunity to see the best of it In Movie Wars America s leading film critic explores the production distribution and promotion of mainstream contemporary cinema and how at every turn the industry treats the viewer with contempt Using examples such as Miramax's buying of films solely to keep them out of the hands of competitors with no intention of distributing them the American Film Institute's narrow championing of Hollywood studio product in their Best 100 Films list and the mainstream media's unquestioning acceptance of the Hollywood PR machine Movie Wars is a damning critique of corporate cinematic culture and a no holds barred call to arms for those looking for life outside the multiplex Movie Maker ,1984
