To a Fortunate Reader:

When Conner Brown looks at a tree, he doesn't see a tree.

He sees the polarity of the water molecules that pulls them to the surface of the leaves. He sees a poem he read in sixth grade. He sees the article from a 2008 issue of Time magazine about the environmental damage caused by attempts to cultivate nonnative plants in Los Angeles' desert environment.

The boy has a brain like nothing you've ever seen. It seems to retain every nugget of information it has ever processed, from the exact date of Charlemagne's coronation to the names of his grandfather's childhood friends. At the same time, it is remarkably porous, allowing his thoughts, memories, and academic knowledge to mesh together effortlessly, adding context and flavor to everything he does. There's an unconscious intensity to the way he engages with his environment — hungry, always, to add to that vast library in his mind, Conner soaks up every moment with the delighted focus of a child jumping into a massive pile of leaves.

And, of course, as he jumps, he thinks of the carotenoids turning the leaves red and gold.

For Conner, learning is a key to living life more fully and passionately. His overwhelming desire to continue piling knowledge on top of knowledge, experience on top of experience, frees Conner of his inhibitions until he sees the world as nothing but an endlessly fascinating playground on which a few scraped knees are inconsequential. So Conner plays.

And this is the best part: he makes you want to play, too. His zest for learning and for life invigorates everyone who encounters it, and imbues them with his same fearless intellectual energy. Conner's enthusiasm is electric, and it's impossible to interact with him without feeling more alive, more excited and inspired by the world around you. You start seeing richness and possibility everywhere. You become a little bit electric yourself.

Whatever happens to Conner, in college and beyond, I know he will be happy and fulfilled. He wants to be with the best of the best, people who will push him to his considerable limits. Conner wants to nourish himself on the best food there is — and he deserves that opportunity.

Wherever he goes, he'll play with the mind of every person he meets, push even the brightest to new heights, and develop into an even more brilliant, thoughtful human being. I guarantee, the trees outside your office will never look the same again.

Sincerely,

Joshua Arnold
