Berlin Aging Study Aging From 70 To 100:

The Berlin Aging Study Paul B. Baltes, Karl Ulrich Mayer, 2001-03-19 The present and future of our society are shaped by an ever increasing proportion of old and very old people The Berlin Aging Study is one of the largest interdisciplinary efforts to explore old age and aging Unique aspects of the Berlin Aging Study are the spectrum of scientific disciplines involved the range of discipline specific and interdisciplinary research topics the focus on very old age 70 to over 100 years and the empirical reference to a representative heterogeneous urban population The study's first cross sectional findings on intellectual abilities self and personality social relationships physical health functional capacity medical treatment mental disorders such as depression and dementia socioeconomic conditions activities everyday competence subjective well being and gender differences are reported in depth in this book The study was carried out in the context of the Berlin Brandenburg Academy of Sciences study group on Aging and Social Development The authors primarily conduct their research at the Berlin Max Planck Institute for Human Development the Free University of Berlin and the Humboldt University Berlin

The Encyclopedia of Aging Richard Schulz, 2006 Print CourseSmart Global Health and Global Aging Mary Robinson, William Novelli, Clarence E. Pearson, Laurie Norris, 2007-09-24 The book covers the fundamentals of global aging and health and provides real world models from countries and regions that offer the best practices in current approaches Global Health and Global Aging presents information about leadership and governance challenges as well as insights about aging in different cultures and countries in all regions of the world Understanding Human Development Ursula M. Staudinger, Ulman E.R. Lindenberger, 2012-12-06 K Warner Schaie I am pleased to write a foreword for this interesting volume particularly as over many years I have had the privilege of interacting with the editors and a majority of the contributors in various professional roles as a colleague mentor or research collaborator The editors begin their introduction by asking why one would want to read yet another book on human development They immediately answer their question by pointing out that many developmentally oriented texts and other treatises neglect the theoretical foundations of human development and fail to embed psychological constructs within the multidisciplinary context so essential to understanding development This volume provides a positive remedy to past deficiencies in volumes on human development with a well organized structure that leads the reader from a general introduction through the basic processes to methodological issues and the relation of developmental constructs to social context and biological infrastructure This approach does not surprise After all the editors and most of the contributors at one time or another had a connection to the Max Planck Institute of Human Development in Berlin whether as students junior scientists or senior visitors That institute under the leadership of Paul Baltes has been instrumental in pursuing a systematic lifespan approach to the study of cognition and personality Over the past two decades it has influenced the careers of a generation of scientists who have advocated long term studies of human development in an interdisciplinary context New Frontiers in Cognitive Aging Roger A. Dixon, Lars

Bäckman, Lars-Göran Nilsson, 2004 With an ever increasing population of aging people in the western world it is more crucial than ever that we try to understand how and why cognitive competence breaks down with advancing age why do some people follow normal patterns of cognitive change while others follow a path of progressive decline with neurodegenerative diseases such as Alzheimer's What can be done to prevent cognitive decline or to avoid neurodegenerative diseases The answers if they come will not emerge from research within one discipline but from work being done across a range of scientific and medical specialties This volume brings together leading experts from a range of fields studying cognitive aging including neuroscience pharmacology health genetics sensory biology and epidemiology Unlike other books in this area this book is more about new frontiers than past research and accomplishments Recently cognitive aging research has taken several new directions linking with and benefiting from rapid technological and theoretical advances in these neighbouring disciplines This book provides unique interdisciplinary coverage of the topic With each chapter including commentaries from specialists in related fields the book provides an integrative study of the topic For those within the fields of psychology cognitive neuroscience and geriatrics this volume will make an important contribution in furthering our understanding of a problem that affects us all The Encyclopedia of Aging Linda S. Noelker, PhD, Kenneth Rockwood, MD, FRCPC, Richard L. Sprott, Ph.D., 2006-03-17

A COMPREHENSIVE RESOURCE ON GERONTOLOGY AND GERIATRICS Since its inception in 1987 The Encyclopedia of Aging has proven to be the definitive resource for scholars and students across the burgeoning and increasingly interdisciplinary fields of gerontology and geriatrics Like its three esteemed predecessors the fourth edition contains concise readable explorations of hundreds of terms concepts and issues related to the lives of older adults as well as timely coverage of the many new programs and services for the elderly Updated under the distinguished stewardship of editor in chief Richard Schulz to reflect the infusion of new information across the scientific disciplines this new edition brings readers up to the moment significant advances in biology physiology genetics medicine psychology nursing social services sociology economics technology and political science While retaining the format and standard of excellence that marked the first three editions the fourth edition encompasses a wealth of new information from the social and health sciences It contains the most current bibliography of an expanding literature an exhaustive index and extensive cross references This much anticipated update of the field's most authoritative resource will take its place as an indispensable reference for specialists and non specialists across a broad range of disciplines that now comprise the field of aging

Print CourseSmart The Many Faces of Health, Competence and Well-Being in Old Age Hans-Werner Wahl, Herrmann Brenner, Heidrun Mollenkopf, Dietrich Rothenbacher, Christoph Rott, 2006-01-09 The main aim of the book is to provide an interdisciplinary treatment of a set of key issues of current ageing research i.e. health competence and well being These key issues are addressed based on three converging research streams social ecological research which assumes that major processes and outcomes of ageing such as day to day competence are shaped by social and physical spatial environments geropsychology research which is driven by a life span developmental conception of ageing and epidemiology which offers most fundamental disease function and prevention related data Each of the three major research directions are outlined by a short introduction followed by three chapters treating in an empirical manner most recent key research questions All chapters are then also discussed by renowned ageing experts This volume links ageing research with policy considerations and implications and establishes a link between European research and the knowledge base of the international scientific community concerned with ageing This book will be of great interest to scholars and graduate students in ageing research in the social and behavioural field as well as in epidemiology geriatrics geropsychiatry demography and biogerontology

Enhancing Mobility in Later Life Heidrun Mollenkopf, 2005 Outdoor mobility in old age is a complex phenomenon On the one hand it is a basic human need and means the physical ability to move On the other it means the realization of all types of trips out of doors either by foot or by means of transportation In addition societal and individual necessities modern values and economic interests mutually reinforcing each other have resulted in mobility as an ever more important precondition of ensuring the ability to lead an autonomous life and participate actively in society according to one's individual needs Mobility also promotes healthy ageing delays the onset of disabilities and postpones frailty thereby contributing to subjective well being and life satisfaction With advancing age however maintaining mobility may become jeopardized because of the increasing risk of physical and sensory impairments This book includes information on older people's actual out of home mobility on the transportation tools used the prevalence of typical problems associated with out of home mobility the impact of health social networks the home and neighbourhood environments and psychological aspects on their mobility and activities differences between urban and non urban areas and age and gender differences In addition a new model of mobility is suggested and the relation between mobility and quality of life is analysed The book concludes with implications for social and transport policies urban planning and industrial pursuits for meeting the mobility needs of ageing adults Psychology of Aging Aimee Spector, 2017-03-02 The psychology of aging is an exciting and rapidly developing field This volume provides a collection of classic original and often widely cited papers including some older papers which may be hard to find through conventional searches Taken together they help to address some key questions what are the cognitive changes related to aging Is mental exercise useful To what extent might intelligence education or stimulating mental activities delay or even reduce cognitive symptoms of dementia However the book goes well beyond cognition and addresses social and emotional changes in aging as well as looking at how lifestyle factors may be influential in psychological functioning The section on the psychology of dementia covers the evolving psychological models plus innovative types of psychological interventions As more people live to an age where they are dependent on others the book also considers the stresses on carers and how carers can be supported Lastly other aspects of mental health problems in old age are addressed including depression PTSD and personality disorder This collection of intriguing and inspiring papers will liven up the shelves of students researchers and academics in the field as well as being a very useful resource for research teaching and study Annual Review of Gerontology and Geriatrics, Volume 23, 2003 Hans-Werner Wahl, PhD, Rick Scheidt, PhD, Paul Windley, PhD, 2003-11-12 In this volume dedicated to M Powell Lawton the editors emphasize the need to create new bridges to connect research studies focusing on objective physical environments and other studies mainly addressing subjective person environment components Thus the major goal of this volume is to provide and stimulate multi directional bridge building from the perspectives of multidisciplinary contributors Comprehensively addressed subjects include Aging in Context Across the Adult Life The General Ecological Model Revisited The Fit Between Older People and Their Environments Domestic Arrangements The Impact of Population Migration Interior Environments Residential Satisfaction Technology Based Products Handbook of Adult Resilience John W. Reich, Alex J. Zautra, John Stuart Hall, 2012-04-02 What enables people to bounce back from stressful experiences How do certain individuals maintain a sense of purpose and direction over the long term even in the face of adversity This is the first book to move beyond childhood and adolescence to explore resilience across the lifespan Coverage ranges from genetic and physiological factors through personal family organizational and community processes Contributors examine how resilience contributes to health and well being across the adult life cycle why and what happens when resilience processes fail ethnic and cultural dimensions of resilience and ways to enhance adult resilience including reviews of exemplary programs Aging in East and West Dr. Vern L. Bengtson, PhD, Kyong-Dong Kim, PhD, George Myers, PhD, Ki-Soo Eun, PhD, 2000-09-20 Widely recognized experts present the first comparative analysis of recent developments among six Eastern and Western nations concerning population aging and its consequences Chapters focus on demographic trends sociocultural contexts and policy implications Nations selected as case studies include the People's Republic of China the Republic of Korea Japan Germany the United Kingdom and the United States The editors and contributors call attention to the varied trajectories and effects of population aging in culturally diverse societies that are often at different stages or on different paths of economic development Such analyses bring into sharper focus those conditions that are unique or similar and emphasize the ways in which cultural stereotypes of aging and the elderly complicate our understanding of the effects of world wide population aging

Handbook of the Psychology of Aging James E. Birren,K Warner Schaie,2001-08-02 The Handbook of the Psychology of Aging has become the definitive reference source for information on the psychology of adult development and aging The Fifth Edition provides comprehensive reviews of research on biological and social influences on behavior and age related changes in psychological function In addition to covering environmental influences on behavior and aging and gender differences in aging new chapters in the Fifth Edition discuss wisdom creativity and technological change and the older worker This handbook is an essential reference for researchers in adult development and gerontology and suitable as an advanced textbook for courses on the psychology of aging
