systems to meet the needs of a new unitary city after Berlin's incorporation in 1920 and how utilities delivered on political promises the insidious embedding of repression racism autarky and militarization within the networked city under the Nazis and the resilience of Berlin's infrastructures during wartime and political division He examines East Berlin's socialist infrastructural ideal and its under resourced systems West Berlin's insular existence and its aspirations of system autarky and reunified Berlin's privatization of utilities subsequently challenged by social movements Taking Berlin as an exemplar Moss's account will inspire researchers to take a fresh look at urban infrastructure histories offering new ways of conceptualizing the multiple temporalities and spatialities of the networked city Berlin und seine Bauten 4/D.
