Bermuda Crobing

Ernest Albert McCallan

Bermuda Crobing:

Strip Cropping Lyman Carrier, Walter V. Kell, 1935 Strip cropping as commonly applied in erosion control or soil conservation practices consists of seeding the regular farm crops adapted to the locality in long bands or strips laid out as nearly on the contour as will admit of uniform width and so arranged that adjacent strips will not be plowed at the same time. If these strips are used in connection with terraces the cultivated row crops will usually be uniform in width with the irregular areas seeded to non cultivated crops. The Rice Wheat Cropping System of South Asia Efficient Production Management offers scientific analysis of the aftereffects of this intense cropping. The Rice Wheat Cropping System of South Asia Efficient Production Management focuses on the questions of soil depletion, pest infestation and soil alkalinity as elements of declining productivity. Along with clear charts, maps and graphs it provides practical suggestions for improving and maintaining the productivity of this irreplaceable farmland. The Rice Wheat Cropping System of South Asia looks at the problems that have arisen for both the rice and wheat phases including depletion of micronutrients, degradation of major nutrients from unbalanced fertilization practices, infestations of nematodes, increasing soil alkalinity as a result of irrigation. It also suggests solutions for maintaining productivity including integrated pest management, sustainable agriculture, micronutrient fertilizers.
