Bernard Of Clairvaux And His Monastic Life:

Reforming the Monastery Greg Peters, 2013-11-12 Richard Froude wrote in 1833 to John Henry Newman that the present state of things in England makes an opening for reviving the monastic system. Seemingly original words at the time. Yet monasticism is one of the most ancient and enduring institutions of the Christian church, reaching its zenith during the High Middle Ages. Although medieval monasteries were regularly suppressed during the Reformation and the magisterial Reformers rejected monastic vows, the existence of monasticism has remained within the Reformation churches both as an institution and in its theology. This volume is an examination of Protestant theologies of monasticism, examining the thought of select Protestant authors who have argued for the existence of monasticism in the Reformation churches, beginning with Martin Luther and John Calvin and including Conrad Hoyer, John Henry Newman, Karl Barth, and Donald Bloesch. Looking at the contemporary church, the current movement known as the New Monasticism is discussed and evaluated in light of Protestant monastic history.

The Origins of the University Stephen C. Ferruolo, 1985-06-01. The University of Paris is generally regarded as the first true university, the model for others not only in France but throughout Europe, including Oxford and Cambridge. This book challenges two prevailing myths about the university's origins: first, that the university naturally developed to meet the utilitarian and professional needs of European society in the late Middle Ages; and second, that it was the product of the struggle by scholars to gain freedom and autonomy from external authorities, most notably church officials. In the twelfth century, Paris was the educational center of Europe, with a large number of schools and masters attracting and competing for students. Over the decades, the schools of Paris had many critics: monastic reformers, humanists, satirists, and moralists, and the focus of this book is the role such critics played in developing the schools into a university. Ferruolo argues that it was the educational values and ideas promoted by the critics—ideas of the unity of knowledge, the need to share learning freely and willingly, and the higher purposes and social importance of education—that first inspired the scholars of Paris to join together to form a single guild. Their programs for educational reforms can be seen in the first set of statutes promulgated for the nascent University of Paris in 1215.

Explores Europe's understanding of the wider world to place the study of the medieval society in a global context.

A Companion to William of Saint-Thierry F. Tyler Sergent, 2019-03-27. A Companion to William

of Saint Thierry provides eight new studies on this noted twelfth century Cistercian writer by some of the most prolific English language William scholars from North America and Europe and is structured around William's life, thought and influence. A Benedictine abbot who became a Cistercian monk, William of Saint Thierry c. 1085-1148 lived through the first half of the twelfth century, a time of significant reform within western Christian monasticism. Although William was directly involved in these reforming efforts while at the Benedictine abbey of Saint Thierry, his lasting legacy in Christian tradition comes through his written works, many as a Cistercian monk, that showcase his keen intellect, creative thinking, and at times profound insight for spiritual life and its fulfillment. Contributors: David N. Bell, Thomas X. Davis, E. Rozanne Elder, Brian Patrick McGuire, Glenn E. Myers, Nathaniel Peters, Aage Rydstrom Poulsen, and F. Tyler Sargent. Cistercian Stories for Nuns and Monks Martha G. Newman, 2020-10-30. Around the year 1200, the Cistercian Engelhard of Langheim dedicated a collection of monastic stories to a community of religious women. Martha G. Newman explores how this largely unedited collection of tales about Cistercian monks illuminates the religiosity of Cistercian nuns. As did other Cistercian storytellers, Engelhard recorded the miracles and visions of the order's illustrious figures, but he wrote from Franconia in modern Germany rather than the Cistercian heartland. His extant texts reflect his interactions with non-Cistercian monasteries and with Langheim's patrons rather than celebrating Bernard of Clairvaux. Engelhard was conservative, interested in maintaining traditional Cistercian patterns of thought. Nonetheless, by offering to women a collection of narratives that explore the oral qualities of texts, the nature of sight, and the efficacy of sacraments, Engelhard articulated a distinctive response to the social and intellectual changes of his period. In analyzing Engelhard's stories, Newman uncovers an understudied monastic culture that resisted the growing emphasis on the priestly administration of the sacraments and the hardening of gender distinctions. Engelhard assumed that monks and nuns shared similar interests and concerns and he addressed his audiences as if they occupied a space neither fully sacerdotal nor completely lay, neither scholastic nor unlearned, and neither solely male nor only female. His exemplary narratives depict the sacramental value of everyday objects and behaviors whose efficacy relied more on individual spiritual formation than on sacerdotal action. By encouraging nuns and monks to imagine connections between heaven and earth, Engelhard taught faith as a learned disposition. Newman's study demonstrates that scholastic questions about signs, sacraments, and sight emerged in a narrative form within late twelfth century monastic communities. A History of Preaching Volume 1 Rev. O.C. Edwards JR., 2016-04-25. A History of Preaching brings together narrative history and primary sources to provide the most comprehensive guide available to the story of the church's ministry of proclamation. Bringing together an impressive array of familiar and lesser-known figures, Edwards paints a detailed, compelling picture of what it has meant to preach the gospel. Pastors, scholars, and students of homiletics will find here many opportunities to enrich their understanding and practice of preaching. Volume 1 contains Edwards's magisterial retelling of the story of Christian preaching's development from its Hellenistic and Jewish roots in the New Testament through the late twentieth century's discontent with outdated forms and emphasis on new modes of preaching such as narrative. Along the way the author introduces us to the complexities and contributions of preachers both with whom we are already acquainted and to whom we will be introduced here for the first time: Origen, Chrysostom, Augustine, Bernard, Aquinas, Luther, Calvin, Wesley, Edwards, Rauschenbusch, Barth. All of their distinctive contributions receive careful attention. Yet lesser known figures and developments also appear from the ninth century reform of preaching championed by Hrabanus Maurus to the reference books developed in the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries by the mendicant orders to assist their members preaching to Howell Harris and Daniel Rowlands preachers of the eighteenth century Welsh revival to Helen Kenyon speaking as a layperson at the 1950 Yale Beecher lectures about the view of preaching from the pew. Volume 2 available separately as 9781501833786 contains primary source material on preaching drawn from the entire scope of the church's twenty centuries. The author has written an introduction to each selection placing it in its historical context and pointing to its particular contribution. Each chapter in Volume 2 is geared to its companion chapter in Volume 1's narrative history. Ecumenical in scope, fair minded in presentation, appreciative of the contributions that all the branches of the church have made to the story of what it means to develop, deliver and listen to a sermon, A History of Preaching will be the definitive resource for anyone who wishes to preach or to understand preaching's role in living out the gospel. This work is expected to be the standard text on preaching for the next 30 years, says Ann K. Riggs who staffs the NCC's Faith and Order Commission. Author Edwards, former professor of preaching at Seabury Western Theological Seminary, is co-moderator of the commission which studies church uniting and church dividing issues. A History of Preaching is ecumenical in scope and will be relevant in all our churches, we all participate in this field, says Riggs from EcuLink Number 65, Winter 2004/2005, published by the National Council of Churches.

Learning as Shared Practice in Monastic Communities, 1070-1180 Micol Long, 2021-10-11. In this study Micol Long looks at Latin letters written in Western Europe between 1070 and 1180 to reconstruct how monks and nuns learned from each other in a continuous, informal and reciprocal way during their daily communal life. The book challenges the common understanding of education as the transmission of knowledge via a hierarchical master-disciple learning model and shows how knowledge was also shared exchanged jointly processed and developed Long presents a new and more complicated picture of reciprocal knowledge exchanges which could be horizontal and bottom up as well as vertical and where the same individuals could assume different educational roles depending on the specific circumstances and on the learning contents See inside the book

Interpretations of Anselm's Proslogion range between the extremes of rationalism and fideism because of the challenge of unifying its philosophical and devotional aspects In this book Bayer argues that a monastic interpretation or an interpretation that takes seriously the intellectual significance of our existential commitments offers a powerful compromise Through an extensive study of Anselm's spirituality especially as it is manifested in his letters and homiletic works coupled with a profound study of Anselm's philosophy of language in the De grammatico and Monologion Bayer aims to reveal the Anselmian unity of life and thought and thereby also the harmony between faith and reason In this way he defends the Proslogion as a unified and probative argument Friendship and Faith: Cistercian Men, Women, and Their Stories, 1100-1250

Marie Therese Flanagan, 2010 The twelfth century saw a wide ranging transformation of the Irish church a regional manifestation of a wider pan European reform movement This book the first to offer a full account of this change moves away from the previous concentration on the restructuring of Irish dioceses and episcopal authority and the introduction of Continental monastic observances to widen the discussion It charts changes in the religious culture experienced by the laity as well as the clergy and takes account of the particular Irish experience within the wider European context The universal ideals that were defined with increasing clarity by Continental advocates of reform generated a series of initiatives from Irish churchmen aimed at disseminating reform ideology within clerical circles and transmitting it also to lay society even if as elsewhere it often proved difficult to implement in practice Whatever the obstacles faced by reformist clergy their genuine concern to transform the Irish church and society cannot be doubted and is attested in a range of hitherto unexploited sources this volume draws upon Marie Therese Flanagan is Professor of Medieval History at the Queen's University of Belfast

Dictionary of World Biography Frank Northen Magill, Alison Aves, 1998 Each volume of the Dictionary of World

Biography contains 250 entries on the lives of the individuals who shaped their times and left their mark on world history. This is not a who's who. Instead, each entry provides an in-depth essay on the life and career of the individual concerned. Essays commence with a quick reference section that provides basic facts on the individual's life and achievements. The extended biography places the life and works of the individual within an historical context, and the summary at the end of each essay provides a synopsis of the individual's place in history. All entries conclude with a fully annotated bibliography.
