

A black and white photograph of a large, abstract sculpture made of stacked stones or concrete blocks. The sculpture is composed of several large, rounded, and irregularly shaped blocks stacked on top of each other. It is set in a landscape with a vehicle, possibly a truck, visible in the background. The overall scene is somewhat desolate and industrial.

Orientalism Revisited Ian Netton, 2012-12-12 The publication of Edward Said's Orientalism in 1978 marks the inception of orientalism as a discourse. Since then, Orientalism has remained highly polemical and has become a widely employed epistemological tool. Three decades on, this volume sets out to survey, analyse and revisit the state of the Orientalist debate, both past and present. The leitmotiv of this book is its emphasis on an intimate connection between art, land and voyage. Orientalist art of all kinds frequently derives from a consideration of the land which is encountered on a voyage or pilgrimage, a relationship which until now has received little attention. Through adopting a thematic and prosopographical approach and attempting to locate the fundamentals of the debate in the historical and cultural contexts in which they arose, this book brings together a diversity of opinions, analyses and arguments.

The Photography of John Brill John Brill, Leah Ollman, 2002 Beginning with staged portraits and self-portraits, John Brill's imagery becomes increasingly nebulous, increasingly concerned with how resonance can remain unaffected by the systematic removal of content. Taking scavenged pictures, some from real life and some from off the television screen, Brill works to distance the image from its origin through multiple printings, fragmentation, tonal shifts and value reversals. In the end, the pictures derive more from mind than from matter; projections of Brill's own will, contrived of his own desire. John Brill was born in Newark, New Jersey, in 1951. With a degree in physiological psychology, Brill steeped himself in the scientific method, the practice of discriminating fact from hypothesis, before committing himself in 1981 to art making. Since then, he has shown in galleries in New York, Atlanta and Hoboken.

Walls of Algiers Zeynep Çelik, Julia Ann Clancy-Smith, Frances Terpak, 2009 Walls of Algiers examines the historical processes that transformed Ottoman Algiers, the Bulwark of Islam, into Alger la blanche, the colonial urban showpiece, and after the outbreak of revolution in 1954, counter-model of France's global empire. In this volume, the city of Algiers serves as a case study for the analysis of the proactive and reactive social, political, technical and artistic forces that generate a city's form. Visual sources, prints, photographs, paintings, architectural drawings, urban designs and film are treated as primary evidence that complements and even challenges textual documents. The contributors' wide-ranging but intersecting essays span the disciplines of art history, social and cultural history, urban studies and film history. Walls of Algiers presents a multifaceted look at the social use of urban space in a North African city. Its contributors' innovative methodologies allow important insights into often overlooked aspects of life in a city whose name even today conjures up
