Goethe and the Myth of the Bildungsroman Frederick Amrine, 2020-04-23 A fresh reading of the Wilhelm Meister novels that dismisses the notion of the Bildungsroman to reveal unities between the texts

Everyday Life as Alternative Space in Exile Writing Andrea Hammel, 2008 This book is the first comparative study of the novels written by five German speaking women: Anna Gmeyner, Selma Kahn, Hilde Spiel, Martina Wied and Hermynia Zur Mühlen who had to flee National Socialist Central Europe. Gmeyner, Spiel, Wied and Zur Mühlen found refuge in Britain and thus added together with male colleagues such as Stefan Zweig and Robert Neumann an important but rarely investigated new dimension to the British literary landscape. The aim of this study is to reassess the women refugee writers' narrative strategies and integrate their work within feminist literary studies. The author investigates the five writers' narrativisation of everyday life used to subvert the dominant discourse and their portrayal of the intersection between class, racial and gender oppression. She also shows their innovative ways of picturing the gendered tension between the experiences of exile and exile as a modernist metaphor as well as their search for ways to refute the Nationalist Socialist rewriting of history. The book situates the novels within the theoretical discussions surrounding exile studies, social history and women's writing.

Disability in German Literature, Film, and Theater Eleoma Joshua, Michael W. J. Schillmeier, 2010 Examines cultural representations of blindness, physical deformity, injury, illness and euthanasia and posits disability as historically central to discussions of humanity, modernity and social and moral behavior in German language literature, film and theater.

Tracing Subversive Currents in Goethe's Wilhelm Meister's Apprenticeship John Thomas Blair, 1997 Fresh critical reading of Goethe's important novel challenging orthodox scholarship. In this new reading of Goethe's most influential novel, Blair's close attention to the text brings startling insights to light often taking issue with received critical opinions. He shows, for example, that Goethe slyly introduced material full of low cultural subversive vitality that mocks conservative authoritarian power interested in conformity or propriety. The novel does not just find fault with developments of the late Enlightenment but rather seductively describes loci of resistance to them: the marketplace, the travelling theatre, the Hanswurst. Equally, the author argues that although high aesthetics, morals, institutions and rationality are impugned, they are not completely discredited; the problem with such high principles is demonstrated as being their tendency to present
