Daviau, Jorun B. Johns, 2020-05-01 This correspondence is a firsthand record of a literary and personal friendship that spanned the years 1906 to 1931. It is significant for both its insights into the lives and works of these two important writers and for its information concerning the eventful time in which they lived. The previously unpublished aphorisms of Auernheimer serve as a means of introducing a writer who had long been unjustly neglected. The aphorisms demonstrate the similarities of the two men in their broad range of interests as well as in the depth and perceptiveness of their thought and help to explain Schnitzler's high regard for his friend. The Merchant in German Literature of the Enlightenment John W. Van Cleve, 2020-05-01 John Van Cleve analyzes the influence of the merchant class on what Leo Balet termed the Verbürgerlichung the becoming middle class of German literature during the eighteenth century. He describes the origins and development of the class and examines its successive images in works by Haller, Schnabel, Borkenstein, Luise Gottsched, J. E. Schlegel, Gellert, and Lessing. Between the years 1729 and 1750, merchants were better able to lend financial support to the literary world than were civil servants and professionals. Although merchants were central in the cultural life of the German states, they were usually less educated than other members of their social stratum and therefore less disposed to literature. Tradition has cast the merchant class in a highly unflattering light as ethically indefensible. Van Cleve's in-depth analysis traces the evolution of attitudes toward merchants from negative, underdeveloped images to positive, heroic portrayals. The Aesthetics of Kinship Heidi Schlipphacke, 2023-01-13

The Aesthetics of Kinship intervenes critically into rigidified discourses about the emergence of the nuclear family and the corresponding interior subject in the eighteenth century. By focusing on kinship constellations instead of family plots in seminal literary works of the period, this book presents an alternative view of the eighteenth-century literary social world and its concomitant ideologies. Whereas Enlightenment and post-Enlightenment philosophy and political theory posit the nuclear family as a microcosm for the ideal modern nation-state, literature of the period offers a far more heterogeneous image of kinship structures, one that includes members of various classes and is not defined by blood. Through a radical re-reading of the multifarious kinship structures represented in literature of the long eighteenth century, The Aesthetics of Kinship questions the inevitability of the dialectic of the Enlightenment and invokes alternative futures for conceptions of social and political life. New German Spelling Peter Morris, Alan Wesson, 2000

The Relationship between Roman and Local Law in the Babatha and Salome Komai Archives

Carolien Oudshoorn, 2007-08-31 The discovery of the Babatha archive provided scholars with unique opportunities for reconstructing the life of Jews in second century Arabia Although legal issues and especially the question of the relationship between Roman and local law have received attention in a number of publications this study presents the first complete overview of the legal situation as presented in the Babatha as well as the Salome Komaise archive using references to law in the documents texts as the key element for understanding what law is applicable to these documents By distinguishing between two levels in the papyri of substantive and of formal law a new understanding is reached of the part both Roman and local law played in legal reality
