In 2010 the EU Commission launched a digital agenda to optimize public administration processes through uniform and cross border regulations. Ongoing globalization and increased environmental awareness are creating increasing demands for the transport industry such as shifting transport from road to rail. Several projects are focusing on the semantic standardization of data exchange based on web technologies in order to optimize system interaction between all players of the transport supply chain. This study investigates if using a semantic reference data model instead of a proprietary data model fosters the intensity of possible interactions of data exchange systems in the European goods transport industry. To be able to measure a change drivers, benefits, challenges and success factors for collaborative data exchange are identified. The research in this study bases its solutions on the system interaction theory and performs a literature review as well as collects primary data. Six representatives of important players of the European goods transport industry are interviewed and surveyed. Current Perspectives in Lithium Prophylaxis P. Berner, G. Lenz, R.
