Ethnicity in Medieval Europe, 950-1250 Claire Weeda, 2021 An investigation into how racial stereotypes were created and used in the European Middle Ages Students in twelfth century Paris held slanging matches branding the English drunkards the Germans madmen and the French as arrogant On crusade army recruits from different ethnic backgrounds taunted each other s military skills Men producing ethnography in monasteries and at court drafted derogatory descriptions of peoples dwelling in territories under colonisation questioning their work ethic social organisation religious devotion and humanness Monks listed and ruminated on the alleged traits of Jews Saracens Greeks Saxons and Britons and their acceptance or rejection of Christianity In this radical new approach to representations of nationhood in medieval western Europe the author argues that ethnic stereotypes were constructed and wielded rhetorically to justify property claims flaunt military strength and assert moral and cultural ascendance over others The gendered images of ethnicity in circulation reflect a negotiation over self representations of discipline rationality and strength juxtaposed with the alleged chaos and weakness of racialised others Interpreting nationhood through a religious lens monks and schoolmen explained it as scientifically informed by environmental medicine an ancient theory that held that location and climate influenced the physical and mental traits of peoples Drawing on lists of ethnic character traits school textbooks medical treatises proverbs poetry and chronicles this book shows that ethnic stereotypes served as rhetorical tools of power crafting relationships within communities and towards others A-E Library of Congress. Interpreting the Evolution of Atayal Tribal Textile Patterns Po Hsun Wang,Jie Li,2025-07-02 This book elucidates findings from an anthropological study that analyzes the patterns of Taiwan s Atayal tribe s fabric in their ethnic dress codes By analyzing the changes and development of the patterns over time the authors draw fascinating conclusions regarding the geographical migration and intermarriage practices between indigenous minority groups in Taiwan s history The book brings new insights within East Asian linguistic anthropology in theorizing about the origins of legends and broader patterns of ethnic migration integrating the characteristics and relationships among Atayal fabrics and interpreting these relationships in connection with the flow of sub ethnic groups In doing so the book provides rich empirical evidence for anthropologists and migration scholars to better understand the movement of ethnic groups in Taiwan while also establishing a model for how studying textile design can be employed to establish such linkages The book shows that the composition and changes of ethnic minority patterns have their own internal logic and causes By studying this the authors demonstrate how such work might translate intangible and tangible culture into explicit and shareable knowledge and provide a compass for other anthropologists and researchers in the fields of visual and linguistic anthropology migration studies and ethnic and indigenous cultures in Asia and beyond Political Frontiers, Ethnic Boundaries and Human Geographies in
