Unpacking the Collection Sarah Byrne, Anne Clarke, Rodney Harrison, Robin Torrence, 2011-06-27 Museum collections are often perceived as static entities hidden away in storerooms or trapped behind glass cases By focusing on the dynamic histories of museum collections new research reveals their pivotal role in shaping a wide range of social relations Over time and across space the interactions between these artefacts and the people and institutions who made, traded, collected, researched and exhibited them have generated complex networks of material and social agency In this innovative volume the contributors draw on a broad range of source materials to explore the cross cultural interactions which have created museum collections These case studies contribute significantly to the development of new theoretical frameworks to examine broader questions of materiality agency and identity in the past and present Grounded in case studies from individual objects and museum collections from North America Europe Africa the Pacific Islands and Australia this truly international volume juxtaposes historical geographical and cross cultural studies This work will be of great interest to archaeologists and anthropologists studying material culture as well as researchers in museum studies and cultural heritage management
