Revisited Richard Müller,Harald Klingemann,2007-05-08 Alcohol has been central to social religious and personal use throughout the history Alcohol drinking goes back almost as far as the human race does A hundred years therefore may be seen as only a flash The past century however has witnessed a fundamental change in dealing with alcohol problems Hence to give an overview of a hundred years of alcohol policies is a rather ambitious task and the contributions to this book shed only some light on the way in which alcohol policy issues have changed in this period This authoritative volume is relevant to both scientists and policy makers providing a state of the art in alcohol policy from different perspectives covering both science research treatment and prevention practice and linking these areas Spirituality and Religiousness and Alcohol/other Drug Problems Brent B. Benda, 2006 Spiritual issues and forgiveness are often neglected topics in treatment programs for substance abusers This unique book brings those underrated components of recovery to the forefront through current research case studies and the insight of experts in the field of spirituality as well as drug alcohol treatment It illustrates the important interrelationship among religiousness spirituality forgiveness and alcohol and drug use and abuse throughout the lifespan The contributors examine the effects of religiousness and spirituality on recovery in relation to more widely recognized supports Each chapter is extensively referenced and most include tables and or figures that make difficult information easy to understand and work with Broadening the Base of Addiction Mutual Support Groups Jeffrey D. Being There John Borneman, Abdellah Hammoudi, 2009-02-04 In recent decades anthropologists have learned to think of themselves as prisoners of text In the new orthodoxy ethnography is best viewed as a certain kind of literary genre textual criticism provides a master theory for understanding all manner of social and cultural phenomena and young anthropologists show a reluctance to leave the comfort zone of the archive and the library where whatever else happens no unruly interlocutor is going to do something unseemly like answering back This brilliant and humane volume promises to put paid to all that Anthropology is the product of an encounter with the world we call fieldwork and fieldwork is an edgy business in which researchers necessarily put themselves at intellectual political and ethical risk This volume restores that edgy business to the heart of our concerns and reminds anthropologists that their distinctive way of engaging the world can be the source of real intellectual excitement and as worthy of sophisticated theoretical reflection as anything they do Jonathan Spencer University of Edinburgh

Benelong's Haven Richard Chenhall, 2014-02-01 Benelong s Haven was the first residential alcohol and drug treatment program controlled and operated by an Aboriginal Australian It was established by Val Bryant in 1974 in the Sydney suburb of Marrickville before moving to the small township of Kinchela Creek on the mid north coast of New South Wales three years later The centre is one example of the different approaches Aboriginal people have developed to deal with the problem of drug and alcohol abuse in their communities where people who have experienced problems with alcohol and drug use can leave their existing environment and come to a different place Anthropologist Richard Chenhall first visited Benelong s Haven for two weeks in late 1997 At the invitation of Val Bryant he returned later for an extended period of fieldwork observing and participating in the centre s activities and getting to know staff and residents There have been few studies that reflect Aboriginal social life in larger cities or in institutional settings Benelong s Haven represents an attempt to examine at the ethnographic level the different ways in which individuals are shaped by and interact within the larger structures and social institutions that surround them More specifically it documents an instance of Australian Aboriginal people trying to achieve change in their lives
